OPERATORS OPPOSING A COMPROMISE

STRIFE IS FEARED

United States Steel Corporation Begins Storing Coal in Vast Quantities.

DOLAN IN LIMELIGHT AGAIN

At no time since the differences between the bituminous coal operators and miners have existed has the condition been considered so grave by the interests involved as now, on the eve of the post-convention of the United Mine Workers of America. Independent operators, without exception, yesterday expressed themselves as fearing the worst.

H. M. Taylor, the leader of the Illinois operators, who attended a number of the Mitchell-Robbins conferences in New York recently, and who was generally believed to favor the proposed 5.56 per cent advance, has sent word to local operators within the past 24 hours that under no circumstances would he or his district grant an advance, as the operators of Illinois are a unit against any wage increase. Ohio and Indiana operators have gone on record with the same expression, while the independents of this district are also declaring emphatically for no advance.

Another element that lends seriousness to the situation is the fact that the United States Steel Corporation has engaged all available space and is beginning to store coal in vast quantities. Orders were placed by local mills of the corporation for an immense tonnage of coal yesterday and, as one operator expressed it, "They are paying a very reasonable price for it."

Preparing for the Worst.

It is further reported that the corporation is drawing heavily on its contract with the Pittsburgh Coal Company. The Jones & Laughlin Company as well as the Crucible Steel Company and other local industrial corporations are storing coal in vast quantities.

A report was current in coal circles yesterday to the effect that President John Mitchell of the United Mine Workers of America, had encouraged strained relations with the anthracite operators to lead the bituminous operators into the belief that a strike would surely be declared in that field, and that the bituminous men would control the whole market. This, it was thought, would induce the bituminous operators to agree to a slight wage advance and enjoy the monopoly of the coal trade. After signing the bituminous operators at an advance, the report declared that Mr. Mitchell would then attempt to reconciliate the anthracite operators and also bring them in line at an advance. While this report was given some credence, it remained nothing but a report, and, of course, could not be confirmed.

JOHN MITCHELL,

Hope Is Not Dispelled.

While all the operators in the bituminous state organization, with the exception of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, and possibly the Pittsburgh-Buffalo Company, are firm for no advance, all hope has not been dispelled that a settlement based on a slight wage advance will be reached. A pessimistic view is expected from the operators at this time.

Much weight is being given to the expression of J. H. Winder, chairman of the Ohio bituminous operators, in emphatically declaring against any wage advance. Mr. Winder is president of the Sunday Creek Coal Company, which is controlled by six railroads—Pennsylvania Lines West, Baltimore & Ohio, Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, Erie, Norfolk & Western, Chesapeake & Ohio—and J. P. Morgan & Co. and Thomas F. Ryan of New York. With these interests behind him, the expression of Mr. Winder is being given particular attention at this time. The railroad interests, especially the coalers, have been silent on the coal controversy, and there are some opraters who believe that this silence is due in part to the desire of the railroads not to pay any advance on fuel.

Must Grant Two Demands.

While the Pittsburgh Coal Company is conceded to favor a 5.55 per cent ad-

YOUNG MEN FIGHT FOR THE HAND OF A PRETTY GIRL

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., March 12.—Taking their cue from Battling Nelson and Terry McGovern, who will fight tomorrow night for the lightweight championship and the coin, two local young men, after training with jealous zeal for 14 days and nights, met in the roped arena here this evening to fight for the hand of the girl they loved.

The nationalities of the pair, by a peculiar coincidence, are the same as those of the prize fighters, Frank Stuckoe, a Dane, and Terrence Javens, an American, were the principals and Javens, after taking fearful punishment, including a knockdown for the count of nine, showed remarkable endurance and recuperative powers by knocking out the Dane, Stuckoe, when he whipped in a stinging right hook to the latter's jaw at the end of the first round.

The cause of all the trouble was Mary Pulasko, a pretty Polish girl. Stuckoe and Javens were rivals for her hand, but reading in the papers of Nelson and McGovern starting training for their mill in Philadelphia, they agreed to do likewise, and their two weeks of hard training ended last night in what was to have been a bout to a finish. The fight took place in a barn on the outskirts of the town, and was witnessed by more than 100 friends of the pair.

Cabman Whom He Arrested Could Not Raise a Cent So the Patrolman Produces the Copper.

NEW YORK, March 12.—(Special.)—Edward McNally, a cabman, who was arrested by Traffic Patrolman Goetz when he told the latter to "forget it" when Goetz had ordered him to vacate a stand on Broadway, was fined one cent by Magistrate Walsh in the Jefferson Market court, and the policeman paid it for him.

McNally made a vain search through his pockets for the copper, after spending the night in a cell. When Goetz paid the bill McNally said: "Thanks, old man; let's forget it."

BREWERY STOCK IS BREWING TROUBLE IN SUNDAY SCHOOL

Claim That Secretary of Mary S. Brown Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church Organization Owns Some Results in Attempt to Oust Her.

Behind closed doors and maintaining the strictest secrecy about their movements and actions, the Sunday School board and teachers of the Mary S. Brown Memorial Methodist Episcopal church met in session extraordinary last night at the church, Beechwood and Hazelwood avenues, when "charges" were made against Miss Martha E. Lewis, secretary of the Sunday school. In spite of the precautions taken to keep the nature of the "charges" from the public, it was learned that the young woman in question was gravely accused of "owning stock in the Pittsburgh Brewing company" and, as such owner, "with being interested in the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor, contrary to the policy and spirit of the Methodist Episcopal church." A resolution "that the said Miss Martha E. Lewis be adjudged guilty of improper conduct within the meaning and intent of paragraph 4, section 247, of the Methodist Episcopal church and should be removed and the said office declared vacant," did not pass, but was placed in the hands of a committee of three to investigate and report later.

Miss Lewis, it will be remembered, was the protege of the late Capt. Samuel S. Brown, who during his lifetime was the benefactor of the church, and after whose mother the church was named. He in his will, provided amply for the erection of a magnificent church building to take the place of the temporary church which the congregation now occupies. In addition to this, he also left handsome bequests to Miss Lewis, and among the provisions made, it is stated, was that she should have certain stocks. It is said that certain shares in the stock of the Pittsburgh Brewing company were among Miss Lewis's portion, and it is the latter which is now brewing the tempest in a teapot among the co-workers of Miss Lewis in the Sunday school.

Miss Lewis was present at the meeting at which the resolution was presented. Just what happened during the session is not known, for none of those present would discuss it. But it is understood that it was stormy and that opinion was divided as to the propriety of taking up the matter at all. The name of the person who introduced the resolution was not given out, and the same secrecy is being maintained as to the personnel of the committee which is to "investigate" Miss Lewis. The committee will inquire into the matter and ascertain if Miss Lewis really owns the stock in question, and will then report at a subsequent meeting of the board. The board may convene in special session to hear the committee's report, but if not it will be made at the next regular meeting, one month from last night.

E. W. Bonar is secretary of the Sunday school, and with the pastor of the church, the Rev. Dr. C. V. Wilson and about 26 members of the board and teachers, was present. Miss Lewis has been secretary of the school since August, 1904, but it is said she recently withdrew from the church when the feeling against her became rather marked. Last night neither she nor Dr. Wilson would make any statement regarding the case.

BIRDS ATTACK SAILOR.

Alone on Barron Ledge Arthur Whalen Fights Till Daylight for His Life.

PORTLAND, ME., March 12.—(Special.)—Marooned on a barren ledge in Casco bay and attacked by thousands of panic-stricken seabirds, which he could not see, but whose flapping wings and harsh cries as they came at him in the darkness, added to his terror, Arthur Whalen, a sailor from a coasting schooner now at this port, fought with club and fist for his life during the long hours of the storm Friday night.

When day dawned Whalen was weak and bleeding from a hundred wounds, his clothing was torn to shreds and at some places his flesh was cut to the bone, where the infuriated seabirds, with beak and talon, had torn him. Whalen finally reached this city, where a surgeon dressed his wounds.

DOG STOPS SERMON.

Giggles at Canine Antics in Church Interfere With Progress of Worship.

WINSTED, CONN., March 12.—Special.)—"Tassa," a terrier owned by J. C. Burwell, a prominent Winsted business man, followed Mr. Burwell and his family to divine worship at the Second Congregational church yesterday morning, threw the congregation into a loud giggle, and interrupted a sermon by the Rev. Henry B. Roberts of Hartford.

Gaining access to the edifice, the dog trotted up the main aisle and mounted the pulpit beside the clergyman, where he stood with muzzled mouth and head cocked to one side, looking up at the preacher. The half-suppressed giggles grew louder and Mr. Roberts stopped his sermon, whereupon "Tassa" left the pulpit and walked out of the church. Resuming his discourse, the Rev. Mr. Roberts, with a smile on his face, remarked: "We will pass from the real to the spiritual."

MISS LITCHFIELD DEFIES THE BOARD AND HOLDS SCHOOL

Neither Directors Nor Successor as Teacher Can Cope With Woman Who Will Not Quit.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

DERBY, Conn., March 12.—Miss Helen Litchfield, a young teacher of Chaplin, is defying the town school board by refusing to give way to her duly appointed successor. Her troubles began when she ordered the 12-year-old son of E. A. Fink, an influential citizen, to sit on the platform for two weeks as punishment for a third offense of passing notes.

The elder Fink complained to the board, and Miss Litchfield was given the choice of allowing the boy to take his regular seat or of resigning. She resigned, but over night changed her mind and upon finding Mr. Chester, whom the board hired in her place, opening school the next morning, she drove him out. The school board met to devise a way to get rid of Miss Litchfield, and after a hot session instructed Secretary D. C. Hattin to burn the minutes. Hattin refused, whereupon the members fell upon him, wrested the records from him after a struggle and consigned them to the furnace.

Miss Litchfield holds the fort, continues to make the grownup Buster Brown sit on the platform and maintains perfect order in the school room while the school board, Mr. Fink and Mr. Chester await results.

HORSE AND DOG FIGHT.

Combat Resulted in Injury to Both Animals While Young Woman Is Also Wounded.

TRENTON, N. J., March 12.—(Special.)—A bloody fight, almost to the death for both participants, was waged here today between a valuable bull dog belonging to Mrs. William H. Cubberly, and a horse belonging to Robert H. Oliphant, a breeder of fancy stock.

The dog made the attack in the street and Miss Mary Shever, who had him in charge, was severely kicked in the head by the horse while trying to separate the combatants. The dog sustained a broken jaw and was terribly mangled under the horse's hoofs, while the horse was badly chewed about the face, breast and legs. The fight created much excitement among the thousand girls in the state normal school, nearby.

PACKERS CASE NEAR END.

Final Testimony Is Taken and the Attorneys Have Started Their Arguments.

CHICAGO, March 12.—The final evidence was submitted and arguments commenced in the packers' case late today. Several witnesses were introduced by the packers to refute certain statements made on the stand by the special agents for the government. Mr. Durand was called by the government to explain certain matters in his previous testimony.

As soon as his evidence was finished Attorney Miller, representing Armour & Co., made a motion that Judge Humphrey direct a verdict in favor of the packers. A cross-motion was at once offered by District Attorney Morrison that the evidence be excluded and a verdict directed in favor of the government. Arguments were immediately begun and will probably last for several days.

MIDVALE TEST PROVES ARMOR IS FIRST CLASS

Steel Plates Made by New Company for Battleship Mississippi Gives Satisfaction.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, March 12.—Officials of the Midvale Steel Company were jubilant today when the official report of the highly successful test of Midvale hard-faced armor made by that company for the battleship Mississippi was received. They have been confident from start that, given the most severe test to which armor plate was ever subjected, the armor manufactured by the great Philadelphia plant of the company at Nicetown would more than hold its own in comparison with the best ever turned out elsewhere. That it has done so is made manifest by the official report promulgated today in Washington by the navy department of the observations made by the navy board at the proving grounds at Indian Head on March 3.

Three shots were fired from an eight-inch naval gun at a distance of 326 feet upon a nine-inch plate, sixteen feet long and nine feet three inches high. Standard navy capped armor piercing projectiles weighing 260 pounds were used, and velocity of the shots in every case exceeded contract requirements.

The velocity of the first shot was 1,781 feet per second, and the projectile was smashed on the face of the plate, the force of the blow and the tremendous heat developed welding the point of the shot into the small cavity formed. The plate was undamaged. The second shot attained a velocity of 1,778 feet per second, and the effect upon projectiles and plate was almost identical with that of the first fire.

The third projectile moving at 1,741 feet per second, likewise was destroyed by its impact, the plate, except for a dent in its face being unharmed. In no case was there the slightest bending, cracking or other distortion of the armor.

DIES UPBRAIDING WIFE.

Emil Fuhl Censures Woman for Her Coldness Then Kills Daughter and Himself.

NEW YORK, March 12.—(Special.)—Leaving on the bureau of his bedroom a letter which bitterly upbraids his wife for her heart of "stone," Emil Fuhl killed himself and his 5-year-old daughter early this morning by pasting newspapers over the cracks of the door and windows of his room and then turning on the gas.

Six weeks ago a quarrel arose between Mrs. Fuhl and her husband, and Mrs. Fuhl said she would "go home to mother." The husband in a temper told her she had better go, and she departed. No sooner had Mrs. Fuhl left the house than her husband regretted his hasty words, and when she would not return he became despondent.

DESTROYS PERFECT WOMAN.

Anthony Comstock Smashes the $7,000 Beauty Into Small Bits With His Hammer.

NEW YORK, March 12.—(Special.)—With a sledge hammer Anthony Comstock broke into small pieces today, the symmetrical figure of the "perfect woman." The waxen careers of other statues exhibition of which in a Fourteenth street museum, caused the arrest and conviction of one Diboll, went to pieces under the resounding blows of the president of the Society for the Suppression of Vice.

Nobody saw the hammer until Comstock got to work. Then they both saw and heard, for the noise of the smashing blows resounded all over the building. The "perfect woman" was valued at $7,000.

SCHWAB IS ONLY TIRED.

Dr. A. S. Brown Issues Official Statement That No Serious Illness Exists.

NEW YORK, March 12.—(Special.)—All doubts as to the nature of the indisposition of Charles M. Schwab were set at rest this afternoon by an official statement made by Dr. A. S. Brown.

"I am glad to be able to deny the reports of serious illness concerning Mr. Schwab," said Dr. Brown. "He has not been confined to his bed a single minute since his return. He is simply exhausted physically, having overestimated his strength while away. Mr. Schwab is up and about his home, but under my instructions will not go outdoors until Thursday or Friday."

HENDERSON MUST GO BACK TO WEST VIRGINIA FOR TRIAL

ALBANY, N. Y., March 12.—Gov. Higgins today granted the requisition of the governor of West Virginia for the extradition to that state of C. A. Henderson of New York city to answer the charge of selling stock under false pretenses. It is alleged that he was instrumental in the sale of stock to the value of $100,000 of the International Mercantile Company, which subsequently became insolvent.

SUFFRAGIST CHAMPION IS DEAD

Death Closes the Career of Susan B. Anthony Early This Morning.

DUE TO PNEUMONIA

Was Long Prominent as a Leader of All Womans' Causes on Both Continents.

ROCHESTER IS IN MOURNING

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 13.—Miss Susan B. Anthony, the champion of the woman suffragists, died at 12:40 this morning of pneumonia. The end came peacefully, as Miss Anthony had been unconscious for 24 hours. Her demise had been expected since Sunday night.

Miss Anthony was taken ill while on her way home from the national suffrage convention in Baltimore. She stopped in New York, where a banquet was to be given February 20 in honor of her 86th birthday, but had an attack of neuralgia on the 15th and hastened home. Pneumonia developed after her arrival here, and on March 5 both lungs became affected.

No resident of this city was more beloved than Miss Anthony, who had made this her home since 1845. She lived to see a decided change in sentiment from the time, in the winter of 1861, when she was tempted to give a lecture on abolition.

That lecture tour, which started in Buffalo, was a series of riots, but Miss Anthony never flinched. The insults heaped upon her culminated in Syracuse, where she was egged and burned in effigy. Her life for the past few years had been in strong contrast to those stormy times.

Gives All to Her Cause.

She lived with her sister, Miss Martha Anthony, whose devotion to "Susan B.," as she invariably called her, was touching. Their cozy home was the mecca of all endragists. The last important function held there was last fall, when the state suffrage convention met here.

Feeling that her life could not long continue, Miss Anthony evidently was disturbed by a desire to express some wish in regard to her will, and on Wednesday last she said to her sister:

"Write to Anna Shaw immediately and tell her that every cent I leave when I pass out of this life, shall be given to the fund which Miss Thomas and Miss Garrett are raising for the cause. I have given my life and all I am to it, and now I want my last act to be to give it all I have—to the last cent. Tell Anna Shaw to see that this is done."

Mayor James G. Butler said: "In the death of Miss Anthony Rochester loses a citizen who for many years commanded the respect and admiration of our people without regard to belief in or dissent from the principle for which no sacrifice was too great, no effort too hard for her to make.

"If she had not been so well and widely known as the champion of female suffrage as to overshadow every other interest of her life, more people would think of her, as might well be done, as the unwearied worker in every cause for the uplifting not only of her sex, but of humanity. As a mark of respect to her memory, I shall request the display of the flags of the city at half-mast on the day of her funeral."

For Humanity's Sake.

It was very early in life that Miss Susan B. Anthony paused in her staid home doings to ask herself these questions: "What service can I render humanity? What can I do to help right the wrongs of society?" Her temperament was naturally serious, for she came of a famous family of Quakers. She was born in Adams, Mass., on February 15, 1820, and was educated in the school maintained by her father for his own and his neighbors' children and in the Friends Boarding school, West Philadelphia.

In those days the Anthony home was a favorite meeting place of liberal-minded people, and at the Sunday dinners were entertained such personages as Garrison, Pillsbury, Phillips and Channing. Susan Anthony was in some distress on those occasions between her desire to be considered a superior cook and her reluctance to miss one word of the brilliant conversation.

The influence of the great men she met there in her father's house was powerful in starting her upon a career which was to be notable for its independence, sincerity and courage.

Her First Public Step.

Between the ages of 15 and 30 Miss Anthony taught school, and thus in growing independence she passed the period of greatest susceptibility without succumbing to the lure of matrimony.

Her first act of distinction was at a teachers' convention in Rochester in 1839, when she made a speech. No such thing had ever been heard of; a woman speaking in a meeting of that character, and the assembly, men and women alike, were aghast at her temerity.

But it was only a little while till Miss Anthony was starting her lifelong campaign for the independence of her sex—for equal property rights, for equal privileges, for whatever would help her to that independence, the want of which, as Miss Anthony persistently proclaimed, was the cause of more unhappiness among women than all other troubles combined.

In 1852 she aided in organizing the first State Women's Temperance society, for the temperance and anti-slavery movements had occupied the earlier years of her public activity. She organized the Woman's National Loyal league for civil war aid work, but at the close of the conflict turned her attention almost en-

MITCHELL CLAIMS THAT STRIKE IS EXPECTED

SAYS OPERATORS LOOK FOR STRIKE

Mitchell Makes This Comment When He Arrives in Indianapolis for Convention.

INDIANA OPPOSES ADVANCE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., March 12.—John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America, returned to Indianapolis today to preside at the national convention of miners Thursday. When asked concerning the refusal of the anthracite operators to grant the demand of the miners, he said it looked as though the operators "are looking for a strike."

When asked concerning his corroboration of Vice President Lewis' statement to the effect that there would be no strike, President Mitchell said he had been misquoted. He said he did not meet with Labor Commissioner Neill to take up the settlement of the present difficulty.

Mr. Mitchell refused to affirm that President Roosevelt had taken any steps to bring about an amicable arrangement between the operators and the miners.

The committee on credentials today began the examination of credentials of delegates accredited to the national convention of the mine workers. A special meeting of the anthracite scale committee has been called for the latter part of this week.

TERRE HAUTE, IND., March 12.—(Special.)—The Indiana operators will meet here tomorrow and unanimously and emphatically decide against conceding the advance of 5.26 per cent which Frank E. Robbins of Pittsburgh, two weeks ago was credited with offering to John Mitchell. There is authentic information that not only will none of the operators of the interstate agreement territory concede the advance, but that Robbins himself will not press it upon his fellow operators next Monday at the general meeting.

It also is known that the United States Steel Corporation did not cause Robbins to concede the advance for the reason that the company was a large customer of his Pittsburgh consolidated company. At the time the letter to Robbins from President Roosevelt appeared an official of the Indiana operators association made the remark that it was asked for by Mitchell and Robbins and the supposition was that Mr. Frick or Senator Knox had been the intermediary.

Both Robbins and Mitchell wanted to get the joint conference together again April 1. Robbins to avert suspicion and Mitchell because he knew he could not travel much further with the big stick of a united organization and a demand that all coal fields or none should sign. The explanation as to Robbins' course is that his company has millions of dollars in shipping docks on the lakes for the coal carrying trade to the northwest.

That trade begins with the opening of navigation April 1. The other operators of his own district and of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois did not April 1 the beginning of their suit season.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Announcement that a reply will be sent as soon as possible by the anthracite miners' committee of seven to the committee representing the coal operators was made today. The announcement was received through a letter written by President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers of America, stating that this reply will be in answer to the statement which the operators made today concerning their attitude upon the original demands of the miners' committee. The letter was sent to George F. Baer, chairman of the operators' committee.

DEAF TO THE PRAYER.

Speaker Cannon Calls on Chaplain for Second Invocation and Profanely Apologizes.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—(Special.)—"The hour of 12 o'clock noon having arrived," as the congressional record says every day, Speaker Cannon rapped with his gavel for order in the house and said: "The chaplain will offer prayer."

The speaker stood gazing abstractedly into space while the blind chaplain made his prayer. When he had finished there was a pause for a second or two. Uncle Joe came out of his reverie and said: "The chaplain will offer prayer."

Asher Hinds nudged the speaker, and the chaplain turned his sightless eyes on him in great surprise.

Uncle Joe realized he had made a mistake. "Oh —— chaplain," he exclaimed, "the joke's on me."

PARTY OF RESCUERS IS KILLED IN FRENCH MINE

Second Calamity at Courrieres—Emperor William Sends 25 Westphalian Miners to Aid in Rescue. Relief Fund Is Started.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

PARIS, March 12.—An additional disaster following today upon the calamity that befell the workers in the coal mine at Courrieres on Saturday, has cast its shadow over the stricken town. A party, said to consist of 17 men, which went into the mine for the purpose of recovering the bodies of those who perished on Saturday, lost their lives in the undertaking. They had descended in spite of the recognized danger of the attempt and in the face of the engineer's warning against making a further effort.

A gang of 25 Westphalian miners, who, it is believed, were sent to Courrieres at the express desire of Emperor William, arrived today with special salvage apparatus, but no further work will be permitted until the mines are cleared of gases, which, it is expected, will take 48 hours.

The engineers this afternoon hermetically closed pits 3, 4 and 11, and fixed a powerful ventilator at the mouth of pit 2, with which to force in a current of air. Later an exhaust pump will be utilized to draw out the noxious gases and vitiated air and thus, it is hoped, render it possible to enter the galleries and prosecute salvage operations.

Henri Rothschild today visited the scene of the disaster and gave $5,000 toward the relief of the families of the victims.

The chamber of deputies today unanimously voted $100,000 for the relief of the victims of the Courrieres disaster. The miners' association has voted $10,000 for the same purpose.

NEGRO PRISONER HAS BULLET WOUND IN LEG

Mystifies the Police for a Time, but John Campbell Is Able to Make Things Clear.

John Miller, a negro, aged 30, was arrested last night at Taylor and Irwin avenues, Allegheny, charged with disorderly conduct. Sergeant Mike Lynch, while making an examination of the intoxicated prisoner, discovered blood issuing through a hole in his trousers. It developed there was a bullet lodged in the fleshy part of the thigh. Miller refused to say anything more than a white man had shot him.

Police Superintendent Glenn thought the negro had been shot while trying to break into some house. Two detectives were sent out, and shortly afterward John Campbell of 904 East Diamond street, walked into city hall and told Glenn of the shooting. He confessed firing at Miller, saying the latter had assaulted him and had threatened to shoot. All this occurred at Taylor and Irwin avenues. Campbell, with three friends, was coming out of a nearby saloon when Miller pounced upon them and called them vile names, striking Campbell. Superintendent Glenn sent Miller to the Allegheny General hospital and did not arrest Campbell.

CHILD IN DISTRESS.

Alone and Friendless in Street but Finds Food and Comfort in Police Station.

The thin, small voice of a child in distress last night attracted the attention of Captain Robert Emmet as he was making his police rounds in the neighborhood of Point Breeze, in Fifth avenue. A colored boy about 3 years old was standing at the intersection of Fifth and Penn avenues, shivering in the frosty night. He was unable to find his mother and did not know where to go. When Captain Emmet reached the child he was almost exhausted. The captain took the waif in his arms and carried him to No. 6 station house. Inspector Bailey went to a restaurant and bought a package of sandwiches for the boy. In the meantime Captain Emmet came in with a large pot of coffee and the boy was placed in a chair beside the fire. The little fellow ate ravenously and then Captain Emmet carried him upstairs to the matron.

An hour later the boy's mother, Mary Pigrett, was arrested in Larimer avenue with the remains of a quart bottle of alcohol in her dress.

NO CAUSE FOR MASSACRE.

Six Missionaries Were Killed Because a Chinese Magistrate Committed Suicide on March 1.

SHANGHAI, March 12.—Private advices received here today from Kiankiang, province of Euang Si, confirm the previous reports that the magistrate who died at Nanchang March 1 as the result of a stab wound, said to have been self-inflicted or received at the hands of a Catholic missionary, committed suicide.

It was the wounding of the Nanchang magistrate which led to the rioting last month during which six French Catholic missionaries were killed.

"THE BOY ORGANIST" GETS A CALL TO HEAVENLY CHOIR

Harold Evans Davies, aged 16, known as "the boy organist," son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Davies, died at his home in Maplewood avenue, Wilkinsburg, yesterday. He was born in South Wales and came to this country with his parents. He was one of the youngest organists in the state. He was first organist at St. Stephens' Protestant Episcopal church, Wilkinsburg, but resigned to accept a similar position at St. Andrews Protestant Episcopal church, Lawrenceville.

The latter are John Clark and Adam Lilwinski, charged with leaving the polls to which they were assigned for duty on election day; John A. Maloney, also accused of being absent from duty on election day, and Charles Heintzelman, janitor of the Frankstown avenue police station, charged with drinking while on duty.

The funeral of William Wilson, one of the most prominent and wealthy citizens of the North Side, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services will be held in his late home at East Diamond and Ohio streets, and the interment will take place later in Uniondale cemetery. The body of Mr. Wilson will be laid away in the magnificent family vault which he built a number of years ago.

OPPOSING COMPROMISE

vance, it is not believed that the company would grant this advance in face of united opposition by other operators in the interstate agreement. If the company did so it would break up the interstate agreement, and it is not believed that the miners would permit such an individual agreement.

The bituminous operators are a unit in two demands which must be granted before another joint conference is possible. The first is that the Ryan resolution be repealed. The second demand is that members of the interstate operators' organization adjust their differences with the miners without interference from miners' organizations in the southwest, northwest, or any other districts foreign to the interstate territory.

It is predicted that one of the interesting events of the coming convention of miners in Indianapolis will be the reception to Patrick Dolan, the deposed president of the local district organization. At the adjourned convention an effort was made to expel Dolan for voting with the operators in favor of the old wage scale.

May Attempt to Oust Dolan.

Cool heads in the national organization advised that the matter be left to the Pittsburgh district. The matter was taken up and is now beautifully entangled in litigation. Dolan will leave tonight for Indianapolis and is determined to deliver a few expressions to the convention.

Since the adjourned convention Dolan and President Mitchell have not been exchanging any olive branches. For this reason it is believed here that the national officers would now encourage, rather than check, any move that might be made to oust Dolan from the organization, and it is reported that this move may be attempted with a view of defeating the injunction that Dolan secured against members of the Pittsburgh district convention, restraining them from interfering with him in the exercise of his duties as district president.

MITCHELL SUMMONS OFFICERS

Call Is Issued for an Important Conference to Be Held at Indianapolis.

SHAMOKIN, PA., March 12.—Paul Paniaski of Mt. Carmel, vice president of the Ninth United Mine Workers district received word from President John Mitchell this evening to reach Indianapolis as soon as he could along with a number of lesser officials in this region, to participate in an important conference preceding the miners' convention.

The gathering, it is said, will be for the purpose of deciding whether the anthracite delegates shall finally decide in the national convention as to what course they shall pursue in relation to the coal companies or hold another convention in the anthracite field before April 1.

Local Branches Elect Delegates.

MAHANOY CITY, PA., March 12.—The various local branches of the United Mine Workers in the Mahanoy City and Shenandoah districts completed the election of delegates tonight to the Indianapolis convention. Every local branch will send a representative in accordance with the advice of President Mitchell, members of known conservative sentiments were chosen as delegates.

FIGHT UNDER RIVER.

Workmen in East River Tunnel Battle Over Woman and One May Die.

NEW YORK, March 12.—(Special.)—In the air lock, next to the cutting shield, at the end of the Manhattan bore of the Pennsylvania's East river tunnel, 105 feet below the surface of the river, and under an air pressure of 45 pounds to the square inch, two men fought this morning over a woman. Gentry Lee, aged 23, got the worst of it. His skull was broken by a blow back of his right ear with a two-foot drill. His rival, Henry Coleman, was arrested.

Lee's condition was so serious that he was hurried out of the tunnel and to Bellevue without waiting to put him through the usual decompressing process which the men undergo when they leave the heavy pressure of the air lock. The effect of this sudden change of pressure upon Lee, with his broken skull, may be fatal.

MANY HAVE NARROW ESCAPE.

Bomb Is Set Off on Roof of Cleveland Hotel in Which Non-Union Men Are Housed.

CLEVELAND, O., March 12.—An explosion occurred shortly before midnight on the roof of the Frankfort hotel, in the heart of the business section of the city. An immense hole was torn in the roof and the explosion shook adjacent buildings. A large number of the guests of the hotel are non-union structural iron workers, who are working on the Taylor arcade, on which a strike of the International Structural Iron and Bridge Workers has been in progress against the contractors, the American Bridge Company.

The hole torn in the roof is almost directly over a room occupied by several of the strike breakers. The explosion was made from a dynamite bomb set off by a slow fuse. The police arrested one man.

LESLIE AND MAGEE MEN GET BUSY

City Chairman Denies He Wants to Be the Next Postmaster.

FIGHT IS PROMISED

Friends of Former Senator Favor Him for District Attorney and Name a Slate.

AFTER CITY ORGANIZATION

There were several interesting developments in local politics yesterday. First came the declaration of Chairman Leslie of the Republican city committee that he would not accept the appointment of postmaster of Pittsburgh. At the same time he indicated he would be a candidate for re-election. On the heels of this came the announcement of a fight on the part of the young Republicans, led by Former Senator Magee, for the control of the Republican organization in Pittsburgh. The scheme includes the probable candidacy of Magee for district attorney, and Col. A. J. Logan for chairman of the city committee.

Chairman Ford made the announcement that he intended to call the Republican county committee together on March 24. It will then decide whether the nominating primaries are to be brought forward from the second Saturday of September to the latter part of May, when state delegates are to be elected. At present there is considerable opposition to any change in the date.

Leslie Out of Race.

M. G. Leslie will not be a candidate for the appointment as postmaster of Pittsburgh: "I would not accept the place if it was tendered to me," said Leslie. "I have never spoken to Congressmen Dalzell, Burke or Barchfeld about the appointment. I have been misrepresented in this matter, statements having been printed that I was the slated candidate."

Concerning his retirement from the city chairmanship, Leslie made his usual reply: "That question is up to the city committee in June." This is taken to mean that Leslie is willing to take a re-election. He says he will help some friend secure the postmastership, but does not name the friend.

Postmaster Holliday will ask for a reappointment. He said yesterday: "I know of no charges which can be brought against me and I am not afraid of the inspection which will be made of my office before the expiration of my commission on May 2. I have discussed the question of reappointment with Congressmen Dalzell, Burke and Barchfeld. None of them is committed to support me. I am of the opinion they are not all committed to any one man. President Roosevelt has shown he is in favor of continuing postmasters with clean records."

Magee for Edwards.

Albert J. Edwards and James B. Youngson are still in the race for the postmastership. Edwards has some strong backing. He has the support of one man who is personally close to President Roosevelt. Magee says he is supporting Edwards. He has just returned from Washington.

This telegram was received from The Gazette's Washington correspondent last night:

"The Pittsburgh congressional delegation do not hesitate to confirm Leslie's announcement that he never asked for the Pittsburgh postmastership. The only intimation they received of his candidacy was through the statements published in the Pittsburgh papers.

"Leslie never communicated with me upon the subject or indicated that he was a candidate for the position," said Representative Dalzell this afternoon when informed that Leslie had announced that he was not a candidate and would not accept the position if it were offered to him. "All the information that I ever received on the subject was through the papers. I was somewhat surprised by the announcement in the papers that he was a candidate and would not have put any credence in the report if it had been denied."

Barchfeld Was for Him.

"The announcement in the papers that Leslie would accept the postmastership of Pittsburgh was sufficient for me to espouse his cause," said Representative Barchfeld. "It was not necessary for Leslie to ask for my support or even to announce that he was a candidate. All that I wanted to know was that he would accept the place, and I assumed this when he did not deny that he was a candidate."

Representative Burke said: "I have frequently discussed with Leslie the Pittsburgh postmastership; but he never intimated to me that he was a candidate or would take the place if it were offered. Nor did anybody ever suggest to me that Leslie was a candidate. The announcement in the Pittsburgh papers that Leslie was a candidate was a surprise to me. It appeared to me that if he desired the place he would have indicated it in some manner to me. The announcement that he will not take the appointment only confirms my belief."

The followers of Magee are evidently figuring on a fight. The program talked about last night includes the following offices and candidates:

District attorney, William A. Magee, Jr.; sheriff, Senator John W. Crawford; successor of Senator Crawford, Representative John P. Moore; senator for Thirty-eighth district, K. Q. Bigham; Fourth representative district, Thomas D. Maloney; Sixth representative district, consisting of the Sixteenth, Seventeenth and Eighteenth wards, John D. Mellor; Seventh representative district, G. C. Kennedy. Twentieth ward: Forty-second senatorial district, Senator John M. Goehring; First representative district, John R. Murphy; Second representative district, John H. Henderson.

The officeseekers have found they cannot get much satisfaction from Mayor-elect Guthrie. He gives them a hearing, but when they pass out the door no promises go with them. There is not a rush of applicants and the politicians who worked for him are waiting until the department heads are announced. Then men will find a swarm of job hunters at their doors.

Mayor-Elect Coleman of McKeesport has gone to Hot Springs, Ark., with the Pittsburgh base ball club. He likes the sport and desires to get away from office seekers for a couple of weeks. He was accompanied by Alderman Mansfield. Both played with the McKeesport Elks club last year and will participate in the practice games at Hot Springs. The new mayor says he will announce his cabinet when he takes his seat, but there will be no changes until May 1.

PARIS, March 12.—The preliminary hearing of the separation proceedings instituted by Countess Boni De Castellane (formerly Anna Gould), against her husband, Count Boni, set for March 14, will probably be postponed, as the countess contemplates applying for an absolute divorce, which will require the filing of a new bill of complaint.

Royal Wedding to Be on June 2.

MADRID, March 12.—Premier Moret today officially communicated to the cabinet King Alfonso's betrothal to Princess Eon of Battenburg, who hereafter will be officially known as Victoria Eugenia. The minister of finance will present a bill appropriating $30,000 annually for the future queen. The date of the marriage has been definitely fixed for June 2.

CHEROKEE INDIANS TRAP AND KILL MARSHALS

Famous Indian Fighters Rushing to the Scene to Rescue Comrade—Redskins Are Gathering to Give Them Battle.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

VINITA, I. T., March 12.—Heavily armed officers tonight are hurrying from all parts of Indian territory to a place 25 miles northeast of Vinita, in the Cherokee nation, where the Wickliffe outlaws, Cherokee Indians, killed three deputy marshals Sunday night, and at last reports were still battling with two remaining officers. The relief officers, because of the bitterly cold weather and the mountainous country, may not be able to organize their forces for an attack before tomorrow. The officers killed were Cass L. L. Gilstrap of Kansas, Otis Tuttle of Vinita, and Richard Carey of Tahlequah, I. T. Thomas Wofford, a deputy, who escaped, carried the news to Tahlequah today, and Marshal Daraugh issued orders to rush every deputy marshal in the northern district of the Indian territory to the scene. Details of the fight have not yet been received.

Marshal Daraugh, in addition, wired the department at Washington, asking authority to swear in 100 additional deputies and to offer $1,000 reward for each of the outlaws, dead or alive. He has gone to Kansas and will personally direct operations against the outlaws.

The outlaws are alleged to be headed by Charley, Jim and Thomas Wickliffe, sons of a former justice of the Cherokee supreme court.

The deputy marshals were ambushed last night while hunting the Wickliffes for the killing last March of Deputy Vier. The horses of the deputies were shot from under them. Gilstrap, Tuttle and Carey were killed outright. The other men sought shelter behind some rocks. When Wofford started back on foot to Tahlequah for reinforcements the others were holding the Indians at bay.

More bloodshed is feared. It is said that many of the younger fullblood Indians in the Spavinaw hills are joining the Wickliffes. Several famous Indian fighters are among the posses. Among them are two brothers of Tuttle, the dead deputy. The Tuttles belong to a family celebrated for fighting in the early days of Indian territory. When the two brothers left for the scene today, they declared they would avenge the death of their brother.

PASS THEMSELVES AS DIAMOND THIEVES

Two Strangers Offer South Siders Precious Stones at Ridiculously Low Prices.

After repeatedly offering what appear to be four, pure white diamonds, each weighing about one and one-quarter carats, at ridiculously low prices without success, and representing themselves to prospective purchasers as the heroes of a $10,000 diamond robbery, two men, giving their names as Joseph and Samuel Anderson, were arrested as suspicious characters by the South Side police last night. The police believe the arrest to be a most important one.

The Andersons, who are strangers in this locality, appeared on the South Side yesterday and made a circuit among Carson street merchants offering the four apparently flawless stones for $200, about one-quarter their real value. The men seemed under the influence of liquor and freely accounted for their possession of the diamonds by exhibiting clippings from New York newspapers giving an account of a holdup on the Brooklyn bridge on February 17, of a salesman for Heathcote & Co., diamond brokers of that city. The victim was alleged to have been relieved of $10,000 worth of diamonds.

The salesman gave a detailed description of his assailants and this description is said to tally with the Andersons. The police will communicate with the New York authorities.

JEROME BRINGS SUIT AGAINST HEARST PAPERS

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, March 12.—District Attorney William Travers Jerome today brought two libel suits for $100,000 each, one against the New York American and the other against the New York Evening Journal. The suits were filed in the supreme court and the complaint says they are based on editorials which appeared in the papers named in the issues of March 8.

The editorial in the Evening Journal dealt with contributions which it alleged had been made to Mr. Jerome's campaign fund during his recent contest for re-election as district attorney of New York county. The editorial in the American was a criticism of Mr. Jerome's alleged attitude in the case of a man named Tillinghast, who confessed to jury irregularities in the interest, he claimed, of a local street railway company. Tillinghast is now serving a sentence on the strength of his confession.

SUFFRAGIST CHAMPION DIES

tirely upon the enterprise that lay nearest her heart.

Miss Anthony made a speech at Albany in favor of female suffrage in 1867. The Revolution, a paper devoted to that cause, was founded by her in 1868. It lived only three years. In 1872 occurred the famous arrest of Miss Anthony and several of her followers on their attempting to vote in Rochester. She was tried and fined, as were the inspectors who had permitted her to cast a ballot, and whom she defended vigorously before the court. From that time she put all the vigor of which she was capable into her chosen work, that of conveying the country to a belief in the theory of equal rights.

As a writer Miss Anthony was not as apt and eloquent as in her public speeches. For many years her correspondence, which she never shirked, was so voluminous as to occupy her for many hours every day.

In 1904 she went to Germany to attend the international congress of women, the result of a plan which she devised in 1888 at the 40th anniversary of the first women's rights meeting. Miss Anthony was received at court by Emperor William and his wife, whom she charmed by her simple manners and dignity.

ECZEMA AFFLICTS WHOLE FAMILY
Father and Five Children Suffered for Two Years With Terrible Eczema—Home Remedies and Medicines Gave No Relief—Mother Expresses Joy at WONDERFUL CURE BY CUTICURA REMEDIES
"My husband and five children were all afflicted with eczema. They had it two years. We used all the home remedies we could hear of, without any relief, and then went to a physician and got medicine two different times, and it got worse. It affected us all over except head and hands. We saw Cuticura Remedies advertised and concluded to try them. So I sent for $1.00 worth, consisting of one cake of Cuticura Soap, one box of Ointment, and one vial of Pills, and we commenced to use them. I do not know how to express my joy in finding a cure, for two of my children were so bad that they have the brown scars on their bodies where they were sore. CALEB POWERS LOSES HIS CELEBRATED CASE

U. S. Supreme Court Decides It Has No Jurisdiction Now in the Kentucky Case.

ANOTHER WAY TO GET IN

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]
WASHINGTON, March 12.—The Caleb Powers case from Kentucky was decided by the supreme court of the United States today against Powers. The opinion was delivered by Justice Harlan and held that the case was not removable from the state to the federal courts. The case was therefore remanded to the Kentucky state courts. The opinion was based on the ground that the equal rights statute, section 641, revised statutes, does not apply unless recognized by state laws or the state constitution. Justice Harlan said that the supreme court of the United States could take cognizance of the case on a writ of error. The opinion was unanimous.

Caleb Powers has been tried three times by the circuit court of Scott county, Kentucky, and each time found guilty, once receiving a sentence to death, and twice a sentence to life imprisonment, but the Kentucky court of appeals interfered in each instance to prevent the execution of the verdict. Last May the case was presented to Judge Cochran sitting in the United States circuit court for the northern district of Kentucky, and he granted a writ of habeas corpus ordering removal from the state courts to his courts.

Question of Jurisdiction.

The proceedings which terminated today were instituted by Kentucky to restore the case to the state courts. Hence practically the only question involved was jurisdiction. Two modes of procedure were resorted to. One was appeal from the order of Judge Cochran granting removal to his court, and the other a petition for a writ of mandamus directing Judge Cochran to restore the case to the state courts and restore Powers to the custody of the sheriff of Scott county.

The removal to the federal court was secured on the ground that Powers had been so discriminated against in the state courts as to deny him the equal protection of the law.

After quoting a number of decisions, Justice Harlan summed up the result as follows:

Those cases expressly held that there was no right of removal under section 641, where the alleged discrimination against the accused, in respect of his equal rights, was due to the illegal or corrupt acts of administrative officers, unauthorized by the constitution or laws of the state as interpreted by its highest court. For wrongs of that character the remedy, it was held, is in the state court, and ultimately in the power of this court, upon writ of error.

Justice Harlan also discussed the contention that there has been a conspiracy to take Powers' life and that he could not have had a fair trial.

The trials of the accused make an exhibition of misconduct on the part of administrative officers connected with those trials which may well shock all who love justice and recognize the right of every human being, accused of crime, to be tried according to law. Further, the case as made by the record, it must be conceded, tends to show, if it does not justify the belief, that administrative officers, having connection with the trial of the accused, had it in mind, at each trial, to exclude from the jury, so far as it was possible to do so, every person, however competent, who belonged to the same political party as the accused.

Another Chance to Get In.

Pointing out a means for bringing the case to the Supreme court, the Justice said:

"Under this holding, the accused is not deprived of opportunity to have his rights, of whatever nature, which are secured or guaranteed to him by the Constitution or laws of the United States, fully protected by a federal court. But it is said that the action of the trial court in refusing to quash the indictment or the panel of petit jurors, although the motion to quash was based on federal grounds, cannot, under the laws of Kentucky, be reviewed by the court of appeals, the highest court of that commonwealth. If such be the law of Kentucky, as declared by the statutes and by the court of appeals of that commonwealth, then, after the case is disposed of in that court by final judgment, in respect of the matters of which, under the local law, it may take cognizance, a writ of error can run from this court to the trial court as the highest court of Kentucky in which a decision of the federal question could be had; and this court in that event question writ of error, reviewing the federal judgment of the trial court, can exercise such jurisdiction in the case as may be necessary to be made any right, privilege or immunity specially set up or claimed under the Constitution and laws of the United States, and in respect of which the decision of the trial court is made final by the local law; that is, it may re-examine the judgment of the trial court so far as it involved the federal right, privilege or immunity asserted and denied.

We are all of opinion that the order awarding the writ of habeas corpus cum causa must be reversed, with direction to set aside that order as well as the order docketing the case in the circuit court of the United States; also, that the rule in relation to mandamus must be made absolute, the prosecution remanded to the state court, and the custody of the accused surrendered to the state authorities.

There were two of the Powers cases: The commonwealth of Kentucky vs. Caleb Powers, an original action, and the case of the commonwealth of Kentucky vs. Caleb Powers, an appeal from the circuit court of the United States for the Eastern district of Kentucky. These are the cases in which the state of Kentucky has sought to secure the conviction of Caleb Powers on the charge of complicity in the murder of William Goebel, while Powers was occupying the office of secretary of state.

CALEB POWERS.
He has been sentenced three times for the alleged murder of Gov. Goebel of Kentucky.

NO MONEY NEEDED FOR THREE YEARS

Mr. Price Makes a Further Explanation About the Proposed Sale of the Court House.

TO MAKE DEAL NOW OR NEVER

County Commissioner Price said yesterday, in discussing the sale of the court house to Pittsburgh for a city hall, that he did not want the citizens of Allegheny to get the impression the plan is to saddle them with a big debt immediately upon their entrance into the greater city.

Mr. Price says the city would not need to pay a cent for the court house for probably three years after the purchase had been made. "If we did sell the court house to Pittsburgh," said the commissioner, "the municipality would be at no immediate expense. The county would not surrender possession until it had completed its new court house. At least three years would be required to erect this structure.

"Under this plan the city would have three years in which to dispose of the present municipal building, safety building and any other properties it might care to sell. The holdings will have appreciated in value and the money realized from the sale would go a long way toward paying for the court house. The balance of the payments could be arranged in small annual installments and would not be a burden to the taxpayers. The money for the new court house would be raised by short time bonds, which would be redeemed as the city paid its yearly installment.

"I can see how some of the people of Allegheny might get the impression the sale of the court house to the city is one of the many schemes to increase the tax rate of the North Side. To correct this, I have made this statement.

"There have been no developments in the proposed dicker. The matter is now one for the city to consider. The commissioners have made the proposition because we believe the transaction has to be consummated within a reasonably short time, or not at all. We have a plot of ground at Diamond and Ross streets on which we can erect a building large enough to care for the growing needs of the county. We know that Pittsburgh needs a new municipal hall, and believed it fair to make this offer. If the city does not want to accept the proposition, the court house annex will be erected and that will settle for all time the sale of the court house to the city. The court house can be remodeled to suit the needs of the municipal departments at a maximum expense of about $10,000. While I mentioned $6,000,000 as the probable cost of the building to the city, the price would be fixed by a board of viewers appointed by the court."

TO HAVE A NEW BUILDING FOR ST. FRANCIS HOSPITAL

Directors Decide on Separate Quarters for Medical and Surgical Departments to Be Built at Cost of $125,000.

Directors of St. Francis hospital have decided to erect a new building, to cost $125,000, which will be devoted to the medical and surgical departments. This was definitely decided upon at a meeting yesterday afternoon. The new building will front on Forty-fifth street. Upon its completion the old buildings, which face in Forty-fourth street, will be given over entirely for the treatment of nervous diseases. An addition comprising 16 rooms is now in course of construction, and will be completed in a few weeks.

It is the intention to erect a building entirely fire proof. The latest and most approved appliances will be added to the furnishment, so that when completed it will be second to no other institution in the city. The hospital now has 247 patients, and, with the addition which will be constructed this year, the capacity will be increased to about 500.

Saint Francis is the only hospital in Western Pennsylvania which has a separate department for nervous patients. This is totally insufficient for the purpose. The site comprises about four and one-half acres, and sufficient ground still remains for the erection of other necessary buildings.

WOULD TAKE FRANCHISE AWAY FROM MORMONS

Dr. Turkle Thinks They Should Not Be Allowed Rights of American Citizen.

"Mormonism; Its Rise, Tenets and Progress," was the subject of a paper read by the Rev. Dr. J. A. Turkle at the Lutheran ministerial meeting yesterday. That the Mormon should be disfranchised and disbarred from enjoying the rights of an American citizen, was suggested by him.

The Rev. Dr. W. P. Therkfield of Cincinnati, secretary of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Educational society, addressed the Methodist Episcopal pastors, taking as his subject "The New South." He contended that of the $10,000,000 negroes in the United States over one-half can read and write.

"Some of the Peculiar Temptations That Come to a Cultured Minister," was the subject of the paper read by the Rev. F. H. Lewis, at the meeting of the Methodist Protestant ministers. The Rev. J. E. Speiker, former missionary to China, spoke of the work that is being done in that field, at a meeting of the Baptist clergymen.

The Rev. R. C. Betts of Braddock made the address at the meeting of the United Presbyterian preachers, taking as his subject "The Church and the Social Problem." Prof. Kelso of the Western Theological seminary, who was to have read a paper before the Presbyterian ministers, was unable to be present. The meeting was devoted to business, the nominating committee submitting the following names of candidates for officers to be voted for April 1: President, the Rev. J. H. Snowden; vice president, O. N. Gerner; secretary and treasurer, Daniel H. McKee; executive committee, the Rev. A. R. Van Fossen, the Rev. J. O. Gilson and John A. Marquis.

The Rev. Dr. George C. Cox of Calvary church, Cincinnati, O., was the speaker at the noonday Lenten service in Trinity Protestant Episcopal church yesterday. His subject was "The Way of Life." He will give a 10-minute address at the services each day this week.

There was considerable discussion among the preachers at the various meetings over the action of the Central Passenger association in sending them cards on Saturday informing them that hereafter they must pay the regular two-cent railroad rate in Ohio. They were also requested to turn in their certificates.

PROPOSE UNITY OF CHURCHES.

Presbyterian and Reformed Joint Committee to Meet and Consider Plans.

Representatives from the Reformed and Presbyterian churches will convene in Charlotte, N. C., tomorrow in the interest of bringing about a closer union between the two denominations. All the various assemblies of the Presbyterian and synods of the Reformed church will be represented. The Rev. Dr. John H. Prugh, pastor of the Grace Reformed church of this city, is the chairman of the delegation representing the Reformed church of the United States.

The plan that is to be considered at the Charlotte convention does not propose to interfere with the autonomy of the denominations. The idea is to create a federal council, which will be higher than the general assemblies and synods, and will inaugurate a united work along missionary and educational lines. A meeting of this joint committee was held in the First Presbyterian church of this city a year ago, and the plan was drawn up and submitted to the various assemblies and synods. It is expected that it will be finally adopted at the Charlotte meeting.

Moody Not Ready to Quit Cabinet.

CHICAGO, March 12.—Attorney General Moody, when asked today regarding prospective changes in the cabinet, replied: "I am not yet ready to leave the cabinet, and when I am I will announce it. I do not know anything about any changes in the cabinet, and have no right to know anything."

RUSSIAN PARLIAMENT IS ONLY MOCKERY OF PEOPLE

ST. PETERSBURG, March 12.—Many workingmen refused to take any part in the election of members of the national assembly. The entire radical wing belonging to the social democratic party, is boycotting the elections at Moscow and has adopted a resolution declaring that the national assembly is a mockery as the election law favors the rich against the poor, the land owners against the peasants and the employers against the workmen, adding: "The Russian people are more in slavery than before. We demand a constituent assembly on the basis of universal amnesty for the thousands who are now being arrested and sent into exile.

Sample Package Free So That We Can Prove It to You.

"Every morning for over 20 years, I never went to the toilet without fear and trembling, and I never left it without having suffered agonizing tortures. Many days I did not dare go at all, so much did I dread the terrible ordeal."

These are the exact words of a sufferer from piles and we hear the same thing almost every day. It voices the sentiments of hundreds of thousands of others in this country today, for it is estimated that of every ten persons we meet in church the street, or the theater, seven are affected with piles.

Martyrs and needless martyrs, too, for since the discovery of the marvelous Pyramid Pile Cure no one need suffer one moment longer. There is now no excuse for having piles and if you continue to suffer from them you do not deserve a particle of sympathy, considering the chance we give you to prove it to your own satisfaction wholly free of cost to you.

Here is a typical case: Mr. Benjamin Shaw, Postmaster of Bland, New Mexico, He had suffered from aggravated piles for years, and was upon the eve of a serious surgical operation, believing that he had reached the limit, and that the operation offered the only possible means of relief and cure. Let us quote his own words in his letter of Oct. 31, 1905: "I was in great agony of mind and body. In the meantime, a gentleman told me of the virtue of your pyramid remedy. I fortunately found it at a drug store, and by the next morning I did not feel that an operation was necessary, and in three days I was able to return home, and a complete cure was accomplished to my great satisfaction and the surprise of the physician."

Send today to the Pyramid Drug Company, 1624 Pyramid Building, Marshall, Mich., and get a sample package by return mail and then go to your druggist and get a box, the price of which is 50 cents, and get well without pain, trouble or cutting.

FIVE FATALITIES FOLLOW COLLAPSE OF LYONS HOUSE

Children Killed and Several Persons Suffering from Injuries Which May Result in Death.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]
(Copyright, 1906, by New York Herald Co.)
LYONS, FRANCE, March 12.—In the collapse of a two-family house at No. 44 Rue Bugeaud during the night, five children were engulfed in the ruins and killed and several other persons perhaps fatally injured.

The foundations of the house, which was one of two stories, stone, and very deep, the living quarters of the two families being separated by a court, had been weakened by a stream formed by the rain.

Without warning, while the families were asleep, the walls facing the street crumbled away, the front of the house fell in with a crash and the rear walls followed.

Several 50c Dinners on the menu today, among them this one, which we think pretty well of:
Fried Spring Chicken,

Hot Waffles,
Coffee.

Of course they wouldn't be important were the prices current quotations. To make a sale important there must be named important underprices. Illustrative of these underprices we call attention to two of today's sales, which we place side by side immediately following.

Women's Black Wool Tights.

Various Grades at Various Savings.

This is a proposition wherein the present can be considered as well as next Winter's cold weather. Women can buy these black tights, make use of them while the present cold weather lasts, and lay them aside for next Winter. The reduced prices will warrant you doing so.

Curtain Ends, 25c a Strip.

Lengths From 1 1-2 Yards to 2 1-2 Yards.

These Curtain Ends are lengths which manufacturers have left after a big run on Nottingham curtains. We call them strips, which is only another name for a half pair of curtains, or perhaps it would be better to say one curtain.

These strips are representative of curtains that sell for $1.50 a pair and up to $3.50.

The housewife knows what to do with them.

Sample Lingerie Waists ½ and ⅓ Regular Prices

By that is meant one-half and one-third of what they would sell for under our popular price system. Elsewhere the retail price would be much more. An example of the underprices:—

$ 7.50 Lingerie Waists that we Specially Price, $4.50.
$10.00 Lingerie Waists that we Specially Price, $5.00.

And by various easy steps up to $35.00 French Embroidered Waists for $20.00.

The first glance at the waists will, intuitively, tell you that they are creations born in Paris, the hand-made embroidery is so precise, and so delicate, and so abundant; the laces are inserted so ingeniously; the tiny pleating is so fine, and the whole effect is so simple and pretty.

You could not buy these waists in France today for our underprices quoted above.

We got these sample waists from an importer who brought them over from Paris, and with the assortment we also secured a number of fine cotton waists, finished with French and German laces, inserted in very odd and becoming styles. These will be sold for the same prices.

Paintography, the New Pastime.

The inclination to take up this new pastime is so contagious that the people who are responsible for introducing paintography and who furnish the materials and the wares are simply up against a proposition relating to supply and demand.

In other words, the demand was greater than the supply. We had our orders in but could not get them filled under a specified time.

The goods have arrived and we are again ready to talk Paintography.

It is so easy that even children can learn it, and execute good work.

It is merely a matter of painting on terra cotta. One can either take up personal preference, or the color sheet that goes with each purchase can be followed.

This department is situated on third floor, West, and we give lessons without charge every afternoon between three and five o'clock. Primarily these lessons are for children, but anyone can take advantage of the free offer.

Tuesday, March 13, 1906.

While unexpected, it cannot be said the present cold weather, with blanket of snow on the ground, is unseasonable. Weather bureau reports show it is a typical March experience in Pittsburgh. While the cost of such a snowstorm is heavy in the aggregate, it is divided among so many interests none suffers much. "Glad to see the snow" is a common remark, but whether the sentimental considerations outweigh the practical inconveniences may be questioned.

Congregating of loafers in the vicinity of the court house is not a new evil and it is one to which respectable pedestrians cannot get accustomed. The crusade of the police is commendable, but it should have been made long ago. While the evil is at its worst on Sundays, there is scarcely an hour of any day or evening when loafers are not obstructing the sidewalk about the county building, and their actions and words are often the reverse of edifying. It should be easy to break up the practice.

Scranton reports are pessimistic, while those from Wilkes-Barre and Lehigh are highly optimistic regarding the probability of a strike in the anthracite region. Interest now centers in reports from the mining region rather than in those from New York, because the question is up to the miners. The operators have said their word; the union officials must make reply; but first the sentiment of the mass of miners must be ascertained. That is why word from the mining region is important.

Common council's meeting last evening was productive of two interesting ordinances; one to repeal the franchise of the Duquesne Light Company, the other granting a railway franchise in certain East End streets, without compensation, of course. No tears will be shed by the public over repeal of the Duquesne light franchise, which provides no compensation to the city, though an ignoble animus may be suspected. The street railway bill should not pass. No more franchises should be granted for any purpose without adequate compensation.

Just as the five tribes in Indian territory are coming into full citizenship and ceasing to be wards of the nation there is a diverting report from Vinita. Some of the few remaining fullblood Indians among the Cherokees have taken the warpath against United States deputy marshals. The incident may be easily magnified to a character it does not possess. The fact is, however, a few bad Indians have made a stand against arresting officers and no more significance attaches to it than to the recent battle between marshals and white outlaws in Western Kansas.

Yesterday the interstate commerce commission began its inquiry into relations between the railroads and Standard Oil, under the Tillman-Gillespie resolution. The scene of operations is in Kansas City, practically the same as the stamping ground of Attorney General Hadley. There is no danger of collision. The interstate commission desires to know if the railroads are giving lower rates to Standard Oil than to other companies, while Mr. Hadley merely desires to oust three Standard Oil corporations from doing business in Missouri because they do not compete with each other.

It had been said the Russian workingmen and peasantry would not exercise the right of suffrage, so its bestowal would be a waste of effort. Two minor incidents, cabled from St. Petersburg yesterday, do not bear out the statement. Workmen of an industrial town, who had refused to participate in the elections, petitioned for permission to do so, which was granted. The peasants of one province exhibited great independence, putting up their own candidates and defeating the village elders, who wished to be sent to the national assembly. These are significant straws from the elections.

If the report be true that Andrew Hamilton, who recently arrived from Europe, has made a complete statement of his financial transactions in behalf of certain insurance companies, he has taken the obviously correct course. Many sensational assertions and conjectures as to Mr. Hamilton's relations with the insurance companies have been made. Policy holders have a live interest in the truth or falsity of these statements and will eagerly await forthcoming explanations.

State Police Busy.

Yesterday the troop of state police stationed at Punxsutawney was called out to suppress a riot, after murder had been committed. The day before the troop at Greensburg was called to quell a riotous attack on the Westmoreland hospital. The week before the troop at Wilkes-Barre was on duty several days suppressing a riotous demonstration in connection with a strike. In every instance the rioters were aliens. They were of that sort of immigrants The Gazette believes should be excluded from this country. Yet congress does nothing to give relief.

It was to cope with the new conditions introduced along with the coming of vast numbers of undesirable aliens The Gazette so warmly advocated the creation of the state constabulary. The particularly atrocious murder of a contractor in Washington county for the purpose of robbery; the murderous assault on a paymaster in Cambria county and other crimes pointed clearly to the necessity for better rural policing than was afforded by the antiquated machinery of justices of the peace and their constables. Violent outbreaks by mobs of foreigners were then quite familiar.

Everybody expects the state police will devote their time chiefly to recent arrivals in the country—the immigrants of the past decade. A conspicuously large proportion of all arrivals during that time has been of the undesirable element. Unless immigration is promptly restrained this element will become increasingly troublesome, dangerous and expensive. It is rank folly to contend such immigration is of value to the county. It is a detriment and a net loss. It should be stopped.

No Cause for Alarm.

There is no reason to fear a general epidemic as the result of the few cases of cerebro-spinal meningitis, better known as spotted fever, which have occurred in the community. It is a distinctively winter disease, but March seems to be its month for visiting Pittsburgh. Prompt isolation of patients and the observance of ordinary methods of sanitation are generally sufficient to prevent a spread of the disease.

Any conditions which produce bodily and mental depression, we are told, predispose to the disease, and we are warned to keep our feet warm and dry and our heads cool, to avoid catching cold, over-eating and becoming excessively fatigued. This is sound commonsense advice at any time and especially when the community contains an unusually large number of cases of a dangerous disease. In the early years of the last century epidemics of spotted fever accompanied or followed seasons of severe famine, attacking those whose bodies were poorly nourished. The lessening in the force and number of epidemics is attributed to the greater abundance of food and better sanitary conditions. There is nothing in the present situation to cause general apprehension.

"The Man in Black."

Apparently the police have captured the "man in black" who has been committing burglaries and highway robberies about the city. At least the police are confident they have the right man and several victims have made quite positive identification. We hope there is no mistake about it.

If the police are right the fact will soon become evident. The "man in black" was too perniciously active to not be missed when incarcerated. If the right man is under arrest good citizens will soon enjoy a measure of peace and quiet they have not been accustomed to since he began to ply his nefarious business. The Gazette is ready to applaud an exceptionally good piece of police work in this case as soon as it is apparent the community has been rid of a most dangerous person. Prompt dealing with criminals of this sort is the best possible way to keep them from seeking this locality.

Wonderful Quarter Century.

This year marks the quarter century of electric railroading. It seems hardly possible so tremendous a development has been made in so short a time, though the greater part has been within 20 years. The original type of the trolley road in America has almost been forgotten; it is unknown to millions of Americans; the double, flexible-cord trolley, with a maximum speed of six miles an hour. That was the beginning in 1886. The pole trolley came two years later. Since then progress has been by leaps and bounds in electric traction. Horse and cable cars have been driven out of business; the contest is equal between the electric and the steam locomotive.

Within this short quarter of a century of electric railroading mountain streams and waterfalls have been harnessed to wonderful machinery. Engines of awful power have been devised to convert coal and water into electricity. There is hardly any limit to power possibilities and speed is limited only by the ability of wheels to cling to steel rails. Yet conservative engineers explain that electric railroading is in its infancy; it has a future beyond comparison with its seemingly brilliant past.

In Germany the first electric road was constructed in 1881—a sort of toy road of narrow gauge, having for power transmitted through its rails. The first American road was of the kind described above, all using direct current. Pittsburgh is indissolubly linked with all progress since that stage. Utilization of the alternating current originated here, with conversion to direct. Then came the three phase system and finally the single phase alternating current motor within the past two years, bearing the Pittsburgh brand. Great railroad systems are on the eve of conversion to the mystic power.

There is much of interest in the history of electrical development during the past quarter of a century. That of the preceding quarter of a century made the name of Edison immortal; the one under consideration owes far more to Westinghouse. Other names have won renown, but these two stand for greatest achievement. They typify the wonders of a quarter of a century of electric railroad building.

The Present Question.

County Commissioner Charles B. Price pertinently points out the fact Pittsburgh need not pay anything for three years if it decides to purchase the court house for a city hall. The only immediate necessity is to decide whether it will buy. The county must build, either a new court house or a county office building, and should know soon what manner of building it is to be. It will not, however, be able to vacate the present court house for three years and the city would not need to pay anything until then.

Mr. Price makes this explanation in deference to certain Allegheny sentiment. Allegheny may be further assured if the deal is handled properly the city need have no great debt incumbrance as a result. The city hall site in Smithfield street and the public safety palace in Sixth avenue are valuable properties. The Allegheny city hall site could be thrown in, but may probably be more advantageously retained for other purposes. If the city decides to trade in the Old City hall site, as has been suggested, for the Soldiers' Memorial hall, its side of the account will be pretty well balanced. The present question is whether the county will proceed with its office building in Ross street, between Diamond street and Fourth avenue.

Chicago Railways.

Under the decision of the supreme court of the United States, opinion by Justice W. R. Day, the Chicago traction syndicate has very few rights in the streets of Chicago. The act of legislature extending charters for 99 years has not accomplished the purpose for which it was designed. It is a valid act, but does not affect the terms of city ordinances granting franchises in the streets.

In effect this decision renders possible the municipal ownership of street railways so clamorously demanded in Chicago. Mayor Dunne, however, in the presence of this legal victory, shows some disposition to use his advantage conservatively. He says unless the traction company deals fairly, the city will enforce its rights ruthlessly. At the same time he has made public the report of James Dalrymple of Glasgow, the imported expert, which advises against immediate municipal operation of the railways. The fair inference is that Mayor Dunne desires to conclude an agreement with the companies to operate the lines for a limited period under conditions for better service and compensatory return to the city.

If it shall prove that Mayor Dunne really contemplates the solution above indicated he will be generally commended for his wisdom. The ideal control of street railways is that of private enterprise under control and supervision of the municipality, that is, with regulations securing adequate service and reasonable compensation to the public. The decision in this case is important and far reaching.

The Man Who Invented Ideas

A London Lecturer on the Universal Behind Man.

FROM DR. REICH'S LECTURE.

The London Mail contains an account of a lecture delivered by Dr. Reich before a fashionable assemblage in that city upon the thought and influence of Plato. "The gift of this philosopher," said Dr. Reich, "to mankind was his grand law of universals, that behind all the particular events in human life there is one great universal cause. He introduced into the world the idea, the a priori, the universal or general; something quite before any experience. That was Plato's superlative merit. He invented ideas. The Egyptians, the Babylonians, fumbled and stumbled amid a host of particulars; they knew absolutely nothing of the general. Two thousand years hence science, which is accumulating details, particulars, so rapidly, will not be unwieldly, because Plato's law of the universals will be then in far more general use.

The discovery of universals was one of the greatest feats of the human intellect, second only to the discovery of the alphabet. "We should never have been Europeans," said Dr. Reich, "without it. The Chinese have not the faintest idea of universals, of generalisation. They cannot represent it in their language. We have heard of the complaints of the interminable length of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. What would we think of Mr. Moberley Bell if he had to issue a Chinese cyclopaedia of 5,000 volumes?

"You think when you have facts you have everything." A ring of irony was in Dr. Reich's tone. "When a man has read Whitaker's Almanack he thinks he knows England. He knows nothing of it. Who here can honestly say that we have any real knowledge of the terrible thing we call ourselves? We know details, particulars of our own life, but what of our life? How many men say to themselves at fifty, 'My life has been a mistake; I don't know life at all'?"

Speaking of individuals and nations, Dr. Reich said nobody loved the French more than he, but the whole nation, splendid as were many of its individuals, was demoralized. The Polish women were wonderfully clever and delightful; the men, perhaps, the most charming in the world, but the nation was demoralised to the core. Every Tszigane is demented—that is the reason he can play music as he does; in his despair he can find tones no one else can think of.

"The Austrains surpass in bodily vigor many other nations; they are clever, bright, interesting people, but the nation is demoralized. You may play the piano divinely, you may be the greatest of chefs, but you will never do really great things. The Chinese, because of the ignorance of universals, cannot telegraph in their own language, they have to use English or French—they have piled up particulars until their language is maddening—almost as maddening as Tit-bits. This bit and that bit, fragments, tatters of this, that, and the other, but no knowledge, until you feel like crying out, 'Give us something that will hang together, some knowledge!'"

Turning to physiognomical phenomena in relation to universals, Dr. Reich said it had long been remarked that "professions make face." There is the doctor's face, the lawyer's face (some were unkind enough to trace a resemblance to the wolf and the fox in the latter—(laughter)—the military face, and there was undoubtedly the religious face. No one could mistake the Roman Catholic clergyman's face. And there were the Oxford and Cambridge faces—two distinct types.

In the questions that followed Dr. Reich's keen humor had full play. One titled lady asked if the highly-cultured individual were a danger to the state, and instanced Napoleon. Dr. Reich pointed out that he did what he did because he was bound to do it. He was forced on by the universal behind him.

"Why did nature make such differences in families?" was another question.

"Well," answered the doctor, "that's her business, and we can't interfere, you know." Continuing, he said: "The Irish people have a peculiarly graceful smile, unlike any other smile among the human race; you may recognize an Irish person by that peculiar smile, a movement of the mouth, quite different from any other nation. Whence comes it? Then the eyes of Americans are much closer together than those of the people of this country—a fact which the Americans stoutly deny. Why is it so?

"Americans excuse their lack of musical genius by saying their country is too young. Not so; they have not the great events, the crises that we have in Europe. It is crises that make men and produce genius. The Armanda made Shakespeare; he was the child of the times of Armanda; Salamis made Aeschylus, Sophocles, Euripides; the American civil war made Edgar Allan Poe, by far the greatest of American poets."

METAMORPHOSE OF AMERICAN FIRMS

Strong Prejudice Against Foreign Products Compels Them to Mask Nationality.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, March 6.—American firms over here have been waiting anxiously for some government blue books on the subject of London traffic, which have just been issued. The books come high—$35—but the big American firms with English connections have practically lined up outside the publishers with the money all ready.

"The demand for these costly books—the Report of the Royal Commission on London Traffic," said one of the managers of Messrs. Eyre & Spottiswoode, government printers, "especially from American firms, has been really surprising. You see the books have been published in a series; and a firm buying No. 1 has had to have all the rest."

The books deal with the entire subject of London traffic; and the metropolitan transportation. When it is recalled that London street car lines, omnibuses, motor 'buses and railways carry each year seven times the population of the entire United Kingdom or, approximately, 280,000,000 people, the magnitude of this traffic can be appreciated. Within the last five years there has been a growing popularity of electrical railways, and motor 'buses, and a number of American houses which manufacture these, have entered the field of British commerce, competing direct with native industrial undertakings. In many parts of the country large American factories have been built, and several new "Yankee" enterprises are now being established in the larger towns, such as Manchester, Leeds and Liverpool.

Home Material Used.

Most persons are under the impression that a large amount of goods for street railways are imported into England, but this is far from being the case. Though enormous quantities of American material is used, little, if any, is imported. This is a distinction with an immense difference. On this point, information was obtained from an official of the Westinghouse Electrical Company, one of the big firms who are doing a flourishing business in England just now.

"Every pound of our material," said Mr. Dunlop, "though seemingly identical with American goods, is manufactured in this country. When we first started business over here six years ago, we encountered the strongest kind of prejudice against goods brought from America. Finally, we had to knuckle down to realizing that, if we wanted to get into the British market, we would have to put factories here; and operate just as if we were an out-and-out British firm. We have practically entirely lost our identity with the home concern, and the same may be said of most American firms over here who are doing any volume of business.

"It might be said that at present our English firm, though turning out American goods, is thoroughly British. All our workmen have to conform to British trade union regulations, and we are finding that the more we Britishize our industrial plant, the larger orders we get. You could not—unless you came in contact with it daily—imagine the immense and growing prejudice which exists against foreign goods coming into this country. While England is practically free trade, at the same time as little importation is done as possible; and if the country can compel any industry which is bidding for the English market to come here and locate, they do so in every possible instance.

Where the Fault Lies.

"This is one way, of course, of surmounting the high tariff wall which surrounds America. Though goods could be purchased sufficiently cheap in the United States to sell them at a profit here, the English buyers will no longer stand for it. The fault lies, more or less, with many American firms themselves. For many years they have regarded England as the dumping ground for inferior classes of goods, but now the reaction seems to have set in, and England is demanding a high class of goods—and what is more, that they should be made in England."

"What is the principal cause of this exclusive way of looking at things?" I asked.

"Municipalization," was the prompt reply. "There is a tendency in this country just now to municipalize everything. Of course, our firm is principally interested in the tramways, but there are other movements on foot. Well, you see, when public bodies, city councils, and the like, have to purchase street car lines and equipment, they naturally do not favor bids from outsiders, even though they may be their cousins, the Americans. Every effort is made to do all their buying in the home market; and in the contracts, while it is not expressly stipulated that no goods shall be purchased abroad, still, foreign firms have to conform to a clause covering the trade union regulations for wages, and other requirements. Naturally, if outside firms wish to get orders they have to prove that they are really home industrial plants, built out of British money, and run by British workmen.

Not Surprising.

"The putting up of large factories by American firms instead of being a matter of surprise, as it is to most persons who do not know the facts, thus becomes very simple."

"Are the goods manufactured in England any cheaper than those made in America?" was asked.

"Not a bit," replied Mr. Dunlop. "In fact, in some cases we could really deliver certain kinds of goods cheaper from the United States than they would cost here, but the prejudice is so strong that we could not attempt to fight it. We simply have to give way to British antipathy—which, by the way, is growing—put up our factories on English soil, and conform to all English methods. Thus we have become 'quite English dontcherknow?'" said Mr. Dunlop, with a smile. "But its business, see?"

Chicago's Crying Need.

The people of Chicago are very tired of the periodical "shake-ups" of the police force. The asininity of transferring an incompetent or a crook or a loafer from one post to another is apparent to every one—but the mayor and the chief of police. A "shake-out" of crooks, incompetents and loafers is imperatively demanded. In this the mayor, the chief of police and the civil service commission have each a part to play. Will they rise to the occasion?—Chicago Record-Herald.

Some Palatable Breakfast Food Served Hot

By PETER PRY SHEVLIN.

Susan B. Anthony, Dying.

Ah, no one ever dies who nobly tries
To guide the world upon its upward bent;
Yet kings and poets and the very wise
In meld ere pent.

The hand of Time smooths out the graven line
The races change their tongues, their gods, their grace;
What 's writ upon the human heart 's divine
And holds its place.

No critic need proclaim the world's rebuff;
Her crusade not a work of worth or wit;
She lived all for the human race—enough!
God died for it!

Some Common Sense.

"Now comes another appeal from Japan for aid to the famine sufferers and it will be glorious if America again gives from the abundance she owes to the creator of all races," said the Cynical Codger. "These are the days of scientific charity, and we should stop for a minute and think. When the Japanese war ended ,the Yellow Kingdom was in a position to continue the war indefinitely, or at least for a few months. The war was costing $2,000,000 a day. Now let the mikado 'make believe' that the war lasted just two days longer and turn over the $4,000,000 to his hungry people!"

Dictionary of Drink.

Now that the liquor license applications are attracting attention, Peter Pry will present in several installments a complete dictionary of drink, which can be looked upon as temperance lecture or a bartender's guide, according to the viewpoint. After contributing liberally to the saloon license, read one paragraph of this with your morning's seltzer. Passengers on the water wagon should take this home and try it on their piano—er—er sideboard. Here goes:

Drunk, full, loaded, jagged, tipsy, intoxicated, inebriated, fuddled, tight, topheavy, half-shot, primed disguised (disgusted?) obfuscated, elevated, exhilirated, mellow, corney, beery, winey, groggy, boozy, soaked, stewed, soused, lushy, cockeyed, muddled, fuzzled hazy, foggy, dizzy, dazed balmy, dopy, dippy, besotted, ossified, paralyzed, petrified, chock-a-block, balmy, jagged, muzzy, soaked, muggy, nappy, tanglefooted, sewed up, podgy, half-gone, dead to the world.

He has had a glorious skate on, a load on, a bun on, a brannigan on, a beaut on, a bird on; in fact, a skinful; for he had loooked on the wine when it was red, partook of the cup that cheers, took a drop too much, fell off the water wagon by tackling red-eye, otherwise, called fish bait, or Paddy's eye water.

In the next article the metaphors that express what the old Roman philosopher, Seneca, called "voluntary madness" will be listed.

Is It a Coincidence?

CASUAL GLIMPSES AROUND THE CITY

Notes About People and Events in Which Pittsburghers Are Interested.

James E. Glass, president of the Treasury Trust Company and the recently elected president of the Traders & Mechanic's National bank, tendered a complimentary dinner last night, at the Colonial hotel, in honor of George W. Rankin, who has just retired from the presidency of the Traders & Mechanic's. President Glass took this opportunity of showing the appreciation held by financial men of the success the retiring officer, Mr. Rankin, had in putting the Traders & Mechanics in its present enviable condition. Covers were laid for 40 guests, bank officers and financial friends of both institutions. There were no set speeches, the gathering having taken on a social, rather than a financial aspect. W. G. Rowan of the Mesta Machine Company, acted as toastmaster. Speeches were made by State Senator Charles A. Muehlbronner, C. C. Davis, W. M. Furey, John H. Armstrong, F. J. Torrance and Charles E. Smith.

Foreign Investors to Inspect Mines.

Frank H. Humphrey, a broker of New York, and a party of six English and German financiers passed through Pittsburgh last night on the St. Louis limited, bound for Colorado. From there the party will gradually work down to Mexico taking in all the mining sections. Two months will be given over to the trip. "Really, you American have no conception of the amount of English capital that is being invested, not only in American standard stocks but also in unlisted securities and speculative mining schemes," said Edward Reynolds, a financier of London who was one of the party. "English capital is flowing into America in an unceasing stream and we are here simply for the purpose of regulating the flow, either stopping it by pessimistic reports or encouraging further speculation by the encouraging prospects we see."

Keep Close Tab on Herr Most.

Herr Johann Most, who only gives his anarchy to the world now in homeopathic doses, was evidently angry over the careful espionage that Pittsburgh detectives maintained on him during his short sojourn here. The apostle of chaos has learned discretion in late years, but came out of his shell last night in Union station just before taking a train for Philadelphia, and hurled a torrent of invective at a luckless reporter. He lectured in McKeesport during the evening.

"Vat dem detectives watch me for, hey?" said Most. "I speak here mit my beoples an' dere vas nobody hardly in der hall. Yust because they are 'fraid fer der bolice, yahi I go by Philadelphia now an' I coom back Sunday night an' I talk here. You just bet I say somedin' an' you just bet blenty beoples coom t' hear, Yah! But I don't tell you der place; my beople dey know an' dey can find der way!"

"What I talg about, hey? Strikes, strikes, strikes! I smell trouble in der air. I hope it don't coom, but when it does I advise my beople vat to do to dem oppressors." Here Herr Most glanced at a plain clothes man who was edging near and ended up his tirade tamely. "I tells den t' keep der law, my frien', t' keep de law—dat's all!"

And Herr Johann Most, a bearded old man with the flickering fires of enthusiasm in his snapping, gray eyes, went out to his train.

IF WE KNEW.

Could we but draw back the curtains
That surround each other's lives,
See the naked heart and spirit,
Know what spur the action gives,
Often we would find it better,
Purer than we judge we should;
We should love each other better
If we only understood.

Could we judge all deeds by motive,
See the good and bad within,
Often we should love the sinner
All the while we loathe the sin.
Could we know the powers working
To o'erthrow integrity,
We should judge each other's errors
With more patient charity.

If we knew the cares and trials,
Knew the effort all in vain,
And the bitter disappointment,
Understood the loss and gain—
Would the grim, external roughness
Seem, I wonder, just the same?
Should we help where now we hinder?
Should we pity where we blame?

Ah! we judge each other harshly,
Knowing not life's hidden force;
Knowing not the fount of action
Is less turbid at its source.
Seeing not amid the evil
All the golden grains of good
Oh, we'd love each other better
If we only understood.

LOGAN M'KEE IS MADE DIRECTOR

Succeeds George H. Anderson as Officer of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce.

CLIP OFF $4,000 SALARY

By an almost unanimous vote George H. Anderson, who for many years had been executive director of the chamber of commerce, was succeeded yesterday afternoon by Logan McKee, at a meeting of the directors of the organization. Mr. McKee was also re-elected secretary, and will continue on the salary of secretary, which is $2,500 annually. The $4,000 salary which has heretofore been paid to the executive director will no longer go to that office, and this money is to be applied in extending the clerical force of the chamber.

The deposing of Mr. Anderson is the culmination of the movement which led to the so-called resurrection, at the annual meeting last week which resulted in the election of Maj. A. J. Burchfield as president and six directors on an independent ticket.

Owing to the absence of Maj. Burchfield, First Vice President A. J. Logan presided yesterday afternoon. Col. Logan appointed a committee, of which Oliver McClintock is chairman and Henry P. Pears, W. L. Jones, Marcus Rauh and J. E. Ash members, to make suggestions for the personale of members for the various standing committees, and the meeting adjourned until 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon to hear and act upon the report of this suggestion committee.

Of the 33 directors of the chamber, 22 were present at the session, the absentees being: Maj. Burchfield, John Bindley, W. B. Rodgers, H. J. Heinz, H. P. Bope, R. H. Boggs, A. M Hanauer, John H Jones, R. B. Mellon and Lee S Smith.

John Eaton, the retiring president, returned to the city yesterday, and declared that he would have something interesting to say regarding the insurrection which led to the establishment of an independent ticket and his subsequent defeat. Former Director Anderson was in conference with ex-President Eaton shortly after his arrival, but the former would not discuss the movement which has so completely changed the personnel of the chamber, Mr. McKee assumes the duties of executive director at once.

While it has been rumored that a movement was on foot to consolidate the chamber with the Merchants and Manufacturers' association, such proposition was not considered at the director's meeting.

PITTSBURGHERS ARE EASY.

Proprietor of Massage Parlors Had No Trouble in Seperating Others from Their Money.

CLEVELAND, O., March 12.—(Special.)—A raid on a suite of rooms in a block opposite the Hollenden hotel developed information Monday that will lead to a general investigation of massage parlors and bath rooms where women are employed as attendants. The Fourth street place was fitted up in style. Its proprietor, William Maxwell, said in police court his baths were like those famous in Rome's time of luxury.

An advertisement offering $7 a week for young women attendants at Maxwell's place led to the raid. Maxwell said he had run a similar place in Pittsburgh and had come to Cleveland recently. He said Pittsburgh, with its many millionaires, was the best place for such an establishment. Cleveland is next best, in his opinion.

WILL ENTER OBJECTIONS.

Management of Boys' Industrial Home Opposes Granting License in Oakdale.

The directors of the Boys' Industrial Home at Oakdale met yesterday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. building. Superintendent J. W. Cleland reported 56 boys in the home and Treasurer C. F. Dean reported the income from all sources in the past month as $1,016.55. Major J. N. Nesbit, the Rev. W. D. Sims and Superintendent Cleland were appointed a committee to appear in license court and remonstrate against license being granted in the borough of Oakdale.

The sum of $1,000 was set aside from the general fund toward the building fund for the new farm house.

Spotted Fever's Five Victims.

Cerebro-spinal meningitis, known as spotted fever, an incurable infectious disease, has again made its appearance here, the first time since this time a year ago. Five cases were reported to the health bureau and four of the patients died. The dead are Gertrude Howe, aged 19 months, 14 Herbert alley; Cosinar Panett, aged 18, 7223 Tioga street; Malla Dolmo, aged 16, 817 Carson street, and Della Fields, Chauncey street. Lillian Howe, the sister of Gertrude, was very low with the disease yesterday. The health bureau professes to be not alarmed, although the five cases are in widely separated parts of the city.

Lives to Cook Another Meal.

Mrs. Margaret Lewis of 1134 Penn avenue, drank phenol yesterday, after telling her husband, J. F. Lewis, that the meal they were eating was the last one she would cook. Mrs. Martha Brush, a neighbor, was in the house at the time, having been invited in by Mrs. Lewis. Lewis notified the police and the woman was taken to the West Penn hospital, where, it is said, she will recover. She and her husband had had a slight quarrel.

Allegheny Child is Missing.

Relatives and friends of Mary Rush, aged 11, of 206 West Stockton avenue, Allegheny, are alarmed over her disappearance. Since March 6 the child has been missing. He mother, Mary Rush, says little Mary had been playing in front of her home on the morning she disappeared. Search has been made at all the institutions where a child might be taken.

Report on Contagion.

Contagious diseases reported to the bureau of health yesterday were four cases of cerebro-spinal meningitis, eight of typhoid fever, eight of scarlet fever, five of diphtheria, 27 of measles, five of pneumonia, and one each of chicken pox and mumps.

Charged With Robbing a Corpse.

HARRISBURG, March 12.—Charged with rifling the pockets of the corpse of Milo Vansime, a Hungarian, killed along the Pennsylvania railroad at Lochiel Saturday, March 3, Percy Miller was arrested and locked up in the Dauphin county prison by the Harrisburg police today.

In Memoriam.

The Board of Directors of the Duquesne National Bank have learned with profound sorrow of the death of their respected and honored president, Edwin Bindley, who died at his residence, Fifth and Aiken avenues, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, on the tenth day of March, nineteen hundred and six, the sixty-fourth anniversary of his birth.

Mr. Bindley has been a faithful and reliable member of the board of directors of this bank since 1871, and vice president for years, elected president in 1883. His counsel was always asked for and highly prized, and his judgment held in high esteem. He was a fine Christian gentleman, charitable, loving and kind. As a citizen, his sterling worth and example was ever deemed commendable and worthy of emulation. We cannot but feel how inadequate are words to express our loss of Mr. Edwin Bindley. He has lived the years allotted to him here below well, and has done good in his day and generation until God called him to a higher sphere. We mourn his absence from our midst. We also keenly feel the great and irreparable loss his death brings to his bereaved and afflicted family, to whom we tender our heartfelt sympathy in this hour of sorrow.

JAMES McKAY,
Vice President.
A. H. PATTERSON,
Cashier.

Why Are We Selling Pianos AT Reduced Prices?

Because there's no alternative. We are obliged to vacate our present warehouse, which contained $50,000 worth of pianos on March 1. Since this cut-price sale started we have disposed of many of these instruments, but the bulk of the stock is intact.

If You Want a Good Piano Cheap You Will Not Miss This Sale.

NEW PIANOS FOR $178

We hope you'll see this lot. Every one is big value for the money—and all are perfectly new pianos, fresh from the factory, for $178 and upward. Reliable makes, too, for we sell no other kind.

Perhaps you want a piano for practice purposes, for the benefit of the children? Then see what we offer in the following:

USED UPRIGHT PIANOS, $95 AND UP

These will surprise you, for they are particularly choice instruments, beginning at $95. Wagner, Vose, Hardman, Wheelock, Kayton, Parlor, Kingston, Opera, Haines, George Woods and Roenisch are some of the makes which we are determined to sacrifice immediately. These pianos are in good condition. Every one is a big bargain.

USED PIANO PLAYERS $50 TO $150

Think of the prices—$50 to $150—and every player in good playing condition. Such makes as Pianola, Apollo, Angelus, Simplex, Cecilia, etc., are included. Take your choice while it is possible to save half and more of the purchase price. A piano player is ALWAYS a welcome addition to the home where there is a piano.

Perhaps You Would Like

A PIANO AND A PIANO PLAYER FOR $145

Well, we can supply the two instruments for less than the usual price of one while this sale is in progress. Remember, we sell you a piano and a piano player (the two instruments for $145). They have been used, of course, but are yet capable of furnishing pleasure in the family for a long time.

REPEAL OF HALL LIGHT FRANCHISE

Big Fight Between Corporations in Dying Councils—Bill for New Trolley Line.

HAYS' VETO MAY STAND

An ordinance to repeal the franchise of the Duquesne Light company, owned by the Hall syndicate, and granted by councils in November, 1904, was introduced in common council last night. The repealer caused a sensation as it opens up a fight between corporations on the eve of the dissolution of the present councils.

It means a battle by the Philadelphia company, which includes the Allegheny County Light company and the Pittsburgh Railways company against the Hall syndicate. Fuel was added by the introduction last night also of an ordinance granting a new franchise to the Pittsburgh Railways company in the East End. The franchise is asked in the name of the Duquesne Street Railway company and provides a new loop to Highland park, covering Collins avenue, Jackson street and Sheridan avenue, with one connection at Broadway and another at Center avenue.

A meeting of the corporations committee to act on both bills will probably be held tomorrow and a special meeting of select council is likely on Friday night to receive the committee's report. The ordinance repealing the franchise of the Duquesne Light company was presented by John Taylor, a Bigelow member, from the Twenty-first ward.

Stop Sale of Light Franchise.

"The Duquesne Light company has been trying to sell its franchise ever since it secured it from councils, and it is about time to call a halt," said Councilman Taylor. Taylor admitted he was not the author of the ordinance, and that it had been handed to him by some one else. Director Bigelow has alleged that Robert C. Hall, president of the Duquesne Light company, has been trying to sell the franchise, presumably to the Philadelphia company. It is reported the Philadelphia company is not willing to pay the price, and that the repealer came from Mr. Bigelow.

Director James W. Clark and S. S. Leslie, said to be representing the Duquesne Light company, were in the corridor of the city hall when Councilman Heimold rushed out of the chamber with the news of the repealer.

"You can't repeal that franchise," said Leslie, to Taylor. "The franchise gives the Duquesne Light company two years to build its plant. We have nearly nine months remaining."

The new franchise ordinance of the Duquesne Street Railway company, which was presented by D. J. Bole of the Nineteenth ward, provides no compensation to the city, and does not limit the life of the franchise. It gives the Duquesne Street Railway company the right to connect with the tracks of other street railway companies that may now or hereafter be operated. An ordinance in connection with the new traction line was reported from the public works committee and passed by common council. It provides for the grading, paving and curbing of Jackson street from the east line of J. J. Booth's property to Highland park. Director Bigelow said that the object was to have the street improved and the new street car line constructed at the same time.

Want City to Pay for Church.

A novel resolution providing for the payment of $4,000 by the city for the destruction by fire of the St. Lawrence Roman Catholic church in Kincaid street, near Atlantic avenue, was presented by J. J. McKelvey. The resolution states that the church was recently destroyed by fire because the firemen were unable to reach the point, which is on a hillside, having to be assisted by street cars and the doubling up of teams.

It states also that the horses balked on Blackhorse hill, that the firemen did not have a proper knowledge of the water supply in the neighborhood and made improper connections. For these reasons it is claimed the city should be liable for the total loss, and directs the mayor and controller to issue and countersign a warrant for the amount in favor of the Rev. Joseph Toner, the pastor of the church.

Employes for the new asphalt plant are provided for in an ordinance presented which fixes the salary of a superintendent at $125 a month, two general foremen at $3 per day each and authorizes the necessary packers, smoothers and tampers at current union wages.

Resolutions were adopted to refund water rents aggregating $3,238 to 10 steam laundry companies.

Mayor Hays' Veto Stands.

By select council failing to get a quorum yesterday afternoon it is claimed that Mayor Hays has won his point in depriving the Thirty-second ward of an appropriation of $35,000 for a new engine house. The mayor vetoed the item in the appropriation bill but it was passed over the veto by common council last Tuesday. Select council was then in session but an adjournment of the upper branch was taken so hastily as to excite suspicion.

The reason for the sudden breakup of the meeting developed yesterday when select council failed to hold its regular meeting. The Wallace act states that, to pass a bill over the mayor's veto, each branch of councils must do so within five days after the veto. Select council failing to act within five days it is held by administration members the veto of the mayor stands. Common council last night passed ordinances authorizing a contract for the erection of a new engine house in the Thirty-second ward and for the appointment of an architect to prepare the plans.

McKeesport After Bond Issue for a Filtration Plant—Wilkinsburg Officers Re-Elected.

At a meeting of McKeesport councils last night the select branch passed an ordinance authorizing a bond issue of $400,000 for a filtration plant. A resolution was adopted by both branches authorizing the mayor to appoint a deputy mayor to serve whenever the mayor is absent from the city.

Wilkinsburg council last night re-elected the following officials: Langfitt & McIntosh, borough solicitors; W. G. Ewing, street commissioner; Freese and Sterling, borough engineers; James R. Doran, chief of police. William Rankin was elected police lieutenant, a new office. Frank Miller, cashier of the Central National bank of Wilkinsburg, was chosen borough treasurer. The board of health submitted its annual report showing that there were 278 typhoid fever cases in 1905, while there were but 19 deaths from the disease.

At a meeting of Etna council last evening officials were elected as follows: Superintendent of light and water, Albert Stoll; chief of fire department, George Fitch; street commissioner, Charles Cook.

ARREST NICHOLAS ROMAN.

He Is Chicago Husband Whom Former Mrs. Argarst Disowns—Lover Ladas Hopeful.

Nicholas Roman, the official husband of Nellie Horton Argarst, was arrested yesterday on the capias issued on behalf of the woman in her suit against Roman and Emil Besnard, for damages for conspiracy to drug her and marry her to Roman. Roman was locked up. Besnard has not yet been arrested.

Roman said last night that he would send to Chicago for a duplicate of his certificate of marriage to Mrs. Argarst, evidently being under the impression that she denies the marriage. The woman admits the marriage, but says it was performed while she was under the influence of drugs. She is sued by Besnard for infidelity before Justice of the Peace Campbell of Bellevue. Ladas, the man whom she prefers to Roman, and who is out on bail on a suit for alienating the woman's affections from Roman, said yesterday that he was sure he would be able to marry the woman now.

HOUSE WILL FIGHT SENATE ON THE STATEHOOD BILL

Speaker Cannon Will Have the Backing of President Roosevelt in Effort to Vote Down the Amendments of Upper House.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM
L. W. STRAYER, Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The statehood bill, which in its mutilated form emerged from the senate Friday, is to remain on the desk of the speaker of the house until next Monday, and in the meantime an endeavor will be made to get a caucus of Republicans in the house for the purpose of binding them to an agreement to dissent from the senate amendments. Speaker Cannon and the other leaders of the house are determined to fight the senate on this proposition, and they are supported in this matter by the senators who favored the passage of the joint statehood bill. Senators Beveridge and Dick and others who fought for the bill, will give their moral support to the speaker in his battle with the senate powers.

Speaker Cannon called at the White House today and had a talk with the President regarding the statehood situation. He will have the administration backing in his opposition to the senate, as the President was strongly in favor of the passage of the joint statehood bill.

"What will the house do with the statehood bill?" was the query put to Speaker Cannon.

"Do with it? Why, we will stand just where we stood before; that is, if my vote will count for anything. Why, the house is not going to stand for all this business."

"That means, of course, that there will be no new states at this session of congress?"

"Go ask the senate," said the speaker somewhat fiercely. "It is for that body to determine whether it will prevent statehood."

Representative Watson, Republican whip, was also a caller at the White House today. It will be his duty to get the members in line to support the speaker, and to keep down the insurgents who made such a fight against the bill when it was before the house. Representative Babcock of Wisconsin, leader of the insurgents on that occasion, is still active in opposition to the bill, and can be relied upon to use his best efforts to secure an agreement to the senate amendments. When Mr. Watson emerged from his talk with the President, he was asked for his views on the statehood bill. He said:

"I wonder what the senate takes us for? We are not a lot of babies. The railroad rate bill is being emasculated so that it would not be known. The Philippine tariff bill has been killed outright, and now the statehood bill is flattened out like a pancake. There is no probability that the house will concur in the senate amendments to the statehood bill."

WASHINGTON NEWS NOTES.

The house devoted its attention to legislation for the District of Columbia, with the exception of making an inquiry of the secretary of the treasury regarding fees for additional services in customs cases which may have been paid the United States district attorney for the Southern district of New York.

In executive session of the senate the Isle of Pines treaty was called up but objection was made to its consideration without a quorum of the senate being present and it went over.

The senate in executive session confirmed the nominations of Gebhard Willrich, Wisconsin, consul at St. John, N. B.; Alpheus P. Hanson, surveyor general of Wyoming; George B. Roberts, register of the land office at Mangum, Okla.

President Roosevelt and Secretary Root received by appointment at the state department the Chinese commissioners, Shang Chi-Hong, former governor of the Shantung province, Duke Tsai Tse and Li Sheng-To. They were accompanied by the Chinese minister.

The executive committee of the Memorial of Major Walter Reed fund has received $2,000 from Andrew Carnegie and a like sum from Col. Henry Lee Higginson of Boston. It is the desire of the committee to collect $25,000, the income of which will be paid to Major Reed's widow and the principal be reserved for a permanent memorial for the discoverer of the yellow fever mosquito. The committee needs $6,000 more and hopes to get it from the southern states which so far have not contributed.

A bulletin issued by the census office giving a preliminary summary of the statistics of paper and wood pulp in the United States during the calendar year 1904, indicates a substantial increase as compared with 1900. In 1904, there were 759 plants as against 753 in 1900, the total capital being $278,025,684 as against $207,507,713 for 1900. The total value of products was $183,120,476.

The interstate commerce commission has taken preliminary steps toward compliance with the Tillman-Gillespie resolution directing the commission to make an inquiry into alleged restraints of certain railroads in the handling of coal and oil. The commission announced that Edward B. Whitney, of New York and William A. Glasgow, Jr., of Philadelphia, have been retained as special counsel in the investigation. While some of the hearings will be held here it probably will be necessary to conduct hearings in other cities.

The President has made the following appointments: Consul at Hadersfield, England, Frederick I. Bright, of Ohio; governor of Alaska, Wilford B. Hoggatt of Alaska; collector of customs, New York, Nevada N. Stranahan; surveyor of customs, New York, James S. Clarkson; pension agent at New York, Michael Kerwin; United States marshal for the eastern district of New York, Charles J. Haubert.

Perry Belmont of New York, president of the National Publicity Bill organization, addressed the house committee on election of president, vice-president and representatives in congress on the purification of political campaigns by preventing secret contributions. Representatives Cockran of New York, and McCall of Massachusetts, also addressed the committee on the general subject of publicity as set forth in a bill introduced by Mr. McCall.

The senate committee on pensions voted to raise the pensions of Mexican war veterans from $12 to $20 per month, and that a favorable report be made on Senator Gallinger's bill for that purpose.

There was a sharp division of opinion in the senate over the question whether the Tillman-Gillespie resolution instructing the Interstate commerce commission to inquire into railroad holdings of coal and oil lands was of a character justifying the President's message relating to it. Senator Tillman complained that the President had charged the congress with insincerity, pretence and ignorance, and Senators Lodge and Spooner took the position that the charge of ignorance was warranted. Later the railroad rate bill was called up and Senator Culberson supported a bill which he has introduced as a substitute for the pending house bill.

POLICE NAB ANGRY LOVER TRYING TO KIDNAP GIRL

Police Chief Theodore Bird of Leetsdale yesterday morning arrested Frank Boozhee, a Slav, on complaint of Lena Katro, a Slavish girl. According to her story she was walking from Fair Oaks to Ambridge about 2 a. m. after visiting friends at Fair Oaks. She was set upon by Boozhee and another man. Officers Bird and Sutton sent the girl ahead of them and, following her closely, managed to overtake Boozhee when he again sprang from the road side and attacked the girl. She is of the opinion that because he was disappointed in his love for her Boozhee had determined to kidnap her.

Children Are Sadly Neglected.

The unusual spectacle of four small children, ranging in age from 7 months to 7 years, being forced to go about in their bare feet, caused the neighbors of Sheldon Laik, a negro, of Leetsdale, to report the case to the Western Pennsylvania Humane society, resulting in the arrest of the father. Several weeks ago Laik and his wife quarreled and Mrs. Laik, it is said, left home. Supt. James F. Bell found the children living in a hovel, scantily clad and without shoes. There was not a morsel of food in the house.

INVESTIGATING THE KANSAS RAILROADS

Interstate Commerce Commission Hears Testimony of Independent Oil Producers.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 12.—In the interstate commerce hearing today of the charges of the Kansas Oil Producers' association, that Kansas railways discriminate in favor of the Standard Oil Company in the matter of giving rates on oil, A. F. Robertson of Cherryvale, Kan., a member of the Uncle Sam Oil Company and F. A. Leland, assistant general manager for the agent of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railway, gave testimony.

The members of the commission are Francis M. Cockrell, Judson C. Clements and Charles A. Prouty. John A. Marchand, who has been in the southwest for the last two weeks making a preliminary investigation of the producers charges, was present today as the attorney for the commission. Frank S. Mennett, former attorney general of Ohio, and Clifford Thorn of Washington, Ia., were present as counsel for the independent producers. The railroads interested had representatives at the investigation and there were several interested spectators. Among the latter was C. D. Chamberlain of Cleveland, O., secretary of the National Petroleum association, comprising independent companies of Pennsylvania and Ohio. He said he was here to watch the proceedings in the interests of his association.

A. F. Robertson of Cherryvale, Kan., was the first witness examined. Mr. Robertson is now a member of the Kansas Oil Producers' association, which makes the charges of discrimination. Robertson said the Standard Oil Company boycotted all the Kansas field February 10, 1905, and tore out all pipe line connections with independent producers, who then had no market.

Robertson testified that the railroad rate from Caney, Kan., to Bartlesville, I. T., a distance of 31 miles, prior to the building of the pipe line by the Standard Oil Company, was 12 cents, and it was reduced to five cents a 100 pounds while the pipe line was constructing. After its completion the railroad rate was put up to 19 cents, and it stands there today.

It ran down Federal street to the bridge where it was stopped by the bridge officers. Near Isabella street the driver was thrown into the street alighting on his head.

OVERHEARD IN A STREET CAR

Two smartly dressed women were seated in a North Highland avenue car yesterday, when one asked the other if she had read an article in the papers of last week relative to a man by the name of Fat-Head. The one addressed replied that she had, and that she was very much interested in the story, because it recalled several instances that had come under her own observation.

"Yes," rejoined the first speaker, "it was just so in my case. I never knew any one by the name of Fat-Head, but I knew different persons whom that name would have fitted like a glove. They were so very foolish.

"For my part, I think that a man or a woman who refrains from opening an account at a store for fear that it means derogating from one's dignity, is extremely silly, to say the least. I know that I have had accounts at several of the leading stores ever since I was married, and I expect to have so long as I live.

"Think of those persons who never buy an article until they have the full amount of the purchase price! I know for a fact that you can buy on credit for a great deal less than the exclusively cash houses charge. That assertion may seem unwarranted to some, but experience has taught me that it is true. I will admit that one cannot buy advantageously on credit at all stores. The store where one opens up account should be selected with discrimination.

"Now to illustrate what I mean," the little lady continued, "last week I visited Friend's establishment and selected a bedroom outfit. And how much do you think it cost me? Only $37.89. Yes, that was all, and the outfit included every article, carpet as well as the furniture. Moreover, I bought it on credit at that price. I have had an account at that store for several years. I buy all my furniture and carpets there, because I find that it pays me well to do so. The credit accommodation afforded by that firm is pleasing in all its details. My husband's salary is such that I am not expected to pay a large sum each month—just a little at a time, as we can afford it.

"And then," the speaker continued with beaming face, "Mr. Friend and his salesmen are so nice about it all; they treat me beautifully; and I cannot say too much in favor of the methods employed at that establishment. It is a great pleasure to buy goods there, and it is a further pleasure to tell one's acquaintances about it. And, best of all, in time of illness or while one's husband is out of employment, Friend protects the interests of the customer."

"It seems to me," said the other lady, that 'Friend' is a particularly appropriate name for a firm that does so much to benefit the public."

"It is," replied her companion, "and if you visit the big establishment at 810 to 814 Penn avenue as often as I do, you'll become as enthusiastic as I over Friend's goods, prices and terms."

CHICAGO TRACTION LINES LOSE CASE

Supreme Court Restores Control of Situation to City and Mayor Dunne Rejoices.

MUNICIPAL PURCHASE EASIER

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, March 12.—By the decision of the United States Supreme court handed down in Washington today, the city of Chicago obtains almost complete control of the local traction situation. The decision sustains the act of the state legislature extending the life of the charters of the railway companies to 99 years, but does not sustain the contention of the companies, that contract rights which are limited to fewer years than remain to the charter life of the companies are also extended.

Contracts or ordinances of the city limiting the use of the streets by the companies are upheld, and the rights of the companies in the streets are held to expire according to the expressed terms of the ordinances. In its effect the decision leaves the Union Traction company without any right whatever, other than by sufferance in the streets of the north division of the city. It leaves the Union Traction company in the west division without rights excepting where the ordinances contain a purchase clause.

The decision leaves the Chicago City Railway company, which operates all the street car lines on the South side of the city, without right excepting where their ordinances contain a purchase clause.

The original ordinances granted to the street car companies were for 99 years inside the city limits as they existed in 1865. The companies have extended their tracks as the boundaries of the city have been enlarged and have claimed that the extended lines, which were built under franchises from the city, were also operative under the 99 year act. The court has held, however, that the 99 year act extended only the charter life of the street car companies without extending their ordinances.

The court also denies the claims of the street car companies that they have been vested with the exclusive right for 99 years to enter into contracts with the city for the occupancy of Chicago's streets for street railway purposes. The decision also holds that the street car companies could receive only such grants as the city might give and on such terms and such conditions including the time of the grant as the city might prescribe.

The city has all along admitted that the 99 year act is valid but asserted that it did not extend the ordinances under which the street car companies are operating at present.

"It is a sweeping victory for the city," said Mayor Dunne. "There are no 99-year franchises in the city of Chicago, according to this decision, and no indefinite or perpetual grants in the outlying territory. We have the traction companies now in a position where we can negotiate for the purchase of the lines. If they do not want to sell at a fair price we can declare our rights under the decision."

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The Chicago street railway cases involving the question of the date of determination of the franchises of the lines running from the center of Chicago to the north and west sides, were today decided by the Supreme Court of the United States. The opinion was delivered by Justice Day and reversed the decision of the United States Circuit court for the Northern district of Illinois.

Justices Brewer, Brown and McKenna united in a dissenting opinion. The full written opinion of the court will be filed later. One of the attorneys in the case gives the following as his interpretation of the decision:

"It holds that the acts of the state of Illinois extending the lives of the corporations to 99 years was constitutional, but did not operate to extend the respective contracts for occupation of the streets, which contracts have been expressly limited in time by the municipal ordinances permitting the railways to occupy them."

DALYRMPLE AGAINST CHICAGO'S SCHEME

Unless Traction Companies Refuse to Make Deal City Should Not Take Lines.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, March 12.—The report of James Dalyrmple, manager of the municipal street car companies of Glasgow, Scotland, upon the local transportation of Chicago has at last been made public. It is against immediate municipal ownership in Chicago unless the street car companies refuse to deal with the city.

Mr. Dalyrmple visited Chicago immediately after the election of Mayor Dunne upon a municipal ownership platform last spring to examine into the conditions of the street railways of this city and to report on the advisability of operating Chicago street railways under municipal ownership. His report was sent to Mayor Dunne immediately after his return to Glasgow last spring, but the mayor has always refused to give the report out for publication, although asked for it by the press and by the city council many times. Mayor Dunne asserted that Mr. Dalyrmple came to Chicago as a personal guest and that the report was therefore personal property. The city council finally obtained a copy of the report from Alexander Walker, deputy town clerk of Glasgow.

The report in effect is against the municipal operation of street car companies in Chicago unless it has become impossible to reach an agreement with the companies now operating lines in the city streets. Mr. Dalyrmple strongly recommends the overhead trolley for motive power, saying that to "install the underground trolley in any extent would for various reasons be a scandalous waste of money."

Gives Patrick New Lease on Life.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 12.—Gov. Higgins today issued a further reprieve until May 18 in the case of Albert T. Patrick, whose sentence of death for the alleged murder of William M. Rice the governor had already delayed from January 22 to March 19. The respite is at the joint request of District Attorney Jerome and the attorneys for Patrick, in order to allow time to continue the proceedings on the motion for a new trial now pending in New York city.

Minister Backing a Trolley Line.

NEW CASTLE, PA., March 12.—(Special.)—The Rev. J. H. Veazy of New Wilmington, financial agent of Westminster college, is behind a project to construct a trolley line from this city to New Wilmington. He is securing rights of way and will form a stock company. It is believed the line will increase the attendance at Westminster college.

GUTHRIE'S CHOICE FOR PRESIDENT

Dr. Burns Claims Mayor-Elect Wants Him to Preside Over Select Council.

WALTERS HAS 24 PLEDGES

"While Mr. Guthrie has said that he will not interfere with councils, I know that he is for me for president of select," said Dr. H. B. Burns yesterday. "Mr. Guthrie told Charles S. Crawford so. He decided between W. H. Stevenson and myself. I do not mean to say this as derogatory to Mr. Stevenson, but Mr. Guthrie wants a good man on the floor and Mr. Stevenson would be better in that position than myself. He has more pertinacity and determination than I have."

Dr. Burns yesterday denied that he had any intention of withdrawing from the contest for the presidency of select. The chief interest in the contest for control of councils lies in the fight for the presidency of the upper branch. The presidency is important because all appointments of the mayor must be approved by select council, and the president of select becomes mayor pro tempore in case of a vacancy in the mayoralty. Dr. Burns admitted yesterday that he did not have enough votes pledged to insure his election.

Burns Has Not Enough Votes.

"I have not enough members pledged to elect me, and I do not believe that any other candidate has," said he. "I don't think there will be a caucus nomination of any candidate. I believe it will be a free-for-all race."

"What Dr. Burns says about not having enough votes to elect him is no doubt true, but it is not correct in my case," said Dr. E. R. Walters, the opponent of Dr. Burns for the presidency of select. "I have 24 names signed of members who are pledged to vote for me," said Dr. Walters. "I have also promises of other members who gave me their word they would vote for me."

The statement made and reiterated by Mayor-elect Guthrie since his return from Atlantic City that he is not attempting to control or influence the new councils, and that no person has authority to represent him in trying to organize councils, is generally believed to have "knocked the props" from under Director James W. Clark.

Clark and Lesslie Not So Active.

Some of the new members-elect, those who have not been in councils before, were inclined to listen to the promises of Clark and S. S. Lesslie, Clark's lieutenant, until Mr. Guthrie talked so plainly. Clark and Lesslie have not been so active since.

Clark felt it necessary yesterday to announce that he was no longer connected with either the Hall traction syndicate or the Duquesne Light Company, in whose interests, it is said, he and Lesslie have been trying to organize councils. When Dr. Walters, who is from Clark's own ward, heard of this yesterday, he said:

"You can quote me as saying that Clark and Lesslie both assured me that Clark was treasurer and Lesslie secretary of the Duquesne Light Company, and of the syndicate holding the Hall traction franchises."

"They asked me to vote for the traction and electric light franchises of the syndicate, and Clark, in the mayor's office one day, asked me to vote to strike out the compensation clause and other limitations in the Duquesne Light Company's ordinance. I refused to do so."

WITNESSES MUST TESTIFY.

United States Court Decides That Trust Prosecution Cases Can Have Evidence Called For.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The United States supreme court today rendered two decisions that witnesses must answer questions asked of them in proceedings against alleged trusts brought by the government. One decision was in the "paper trust" case from Minnesota, and the other in the case against the American Tobacco Company and others in the United States court for the southern district of New York. In the latter case, William McAllister and Hale, officers of the tobacco companies, when questioned by the government's attorneys, refused to answer questions or produce their books. They were committed for contempt of court, brought habeas corpus proceedings, lost these cases in the lower courts, and took them to the United States supreme court.

Justice Brown delivered the opinion of the court in the tobacco case and Justice McKenna that in the paper case. Under both decisions witnesses must testify before federal courts and grand juries when called upon to do so. Justice Brown said:

"If whenever an officer or employe of a corporation were summoned before a grand jury as a witness he could refuse to produce the books and documents of such corporation upon the ground that they would incriminate the corporation itself, it would result in the failure of a large number of cases where the illegal combination was determinable only upon the examination of such papers."

RUSSIAN LOSSES IN WAR SO FAR REPORTED, 151,000

ST. PETERSBURG, March 12.—The Invalid, organ of the military, is still printing daily lists of the losses sustained during the war which, without including Port Arthur, now total 151,000 killed, wounded and disappeared. The lists covering the fighting at Mukden are just beginning to appear. A remarkable feature is the percentage of men whose fate is unknown, having been abandoned on the field of battle.

Father Gapon Is Not Blamed.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 12.—Father Gapon was arrested today on the eve of the inquiry demanded by him of the charge that his labor organization was subsidized by the government. C. H. Timiriazeff, minister of commerce, exonerates Father Gapon from all blame and acquitting him of receiving any of the money given by the government to M. Matushenski, Gapon's former assistant.

BEGINS ABROAD; ENDS IN COURT

Romance of Russia-Japanese War is Transferred to Pittsburgh Legal Field.

ELI R. DOWLER STANDS TRIAL

The end of a romance which began in Russia at the close of the Russia-Japanese war, and was transferred to Pittsburgh, is being aired in criminal court. E. Ladevinasky, also known as E. Cohen, is charged with larceny and desertion by Freda Cohen who alleges he went to Chicago with $2,500 worth of her jewelry on the eve of their wedding. The court room yesterday looked like a jewelry shop, as several tables were strewn with silverware, bracelets, rings, etc. The woman is about 21 and the man about 50 years of age. Most of the stuff displayed the defendant had given the woman as presents.

The couple left Russia at the close of the war, engaged to be married, and came to this city where they resided with the girl's brother in the East End. A date for the wedding was set and a marriage license secured. Then the groom disappeared. He was arrested in Chicago later. The defendant alleges that the jewelry is his and that the girl still has in her possession other jewelry belonging to him. He said he intended to marry her until he discovered she "liked his money better than she did him." He testified an effort was made to settle the larceny case, the prosecutrix demanding 15,000 roubles or $7,500 in United States currency, but he claims he refused to have any dealing with her.

When court adjourned yesterday the jury was out in the case of Eli R. Dowler, vice-president of the First National bank of Braddock, charged with maintaining a nuisance. The case was called some time ago but Dowler was not present. His bond was declared forfeited and an attachment issued for him but yesterday when he informed the court he was in Canada at the time, the forfeiture was cancelled upon his paying the costs. It is alleged a portion of his planing mill projects into Cherry alley, Braddock, and finders travel. A number of maps and plans were offered in evidence and several civil engineers were examined during the trial.

William McDonald, who escaped from the workhouse last September, while serving a 90-day term and was arrested later, pleaded guilty to a charge of escape before Judge McClung and was sentenced to serve his unexpired term of 41 days.

The O'Hara Street Railway Company for use of the Allegheny Valley Street Railway Company asks an injunction against J. S. Speer and C. W. Overton. It is alleged the defendants planned to defraud the plaintiff by purchasing land in O'Hara township which Speer had been paid to buy as a right of way for the company.

P. C. Dumbellini began mandamus proceedings against the Monongahela Water Company. He says the company shut off the water at his premises. The court granted a rule to show cause why the writ should not issue. This will be a test case.

The commissioners report in the divorce suit of Vernie E. Hemmick against Carroll L. Hemmick was filed. Within three weeks after their marriage, she says, he began to abuse her. She said he only contributed $1a to her support during the four years they lived together.

Eulalia A. Meyer filed a bill in equity against her mother, Margaret P. Haller, alleging that while a minor she gave her mother money to deposit for her and that now she refuses to account for it.

The Pittsburgh & Allegheny Valley Railway Company has answered the suit of Jones & Willard denying any agreement or any indebtedness to the plaintiff of $21,875 as claimed.

Otto Wendle of Swissvale asks $5,000 damages from Thomas and Lucetta Smith alleging malicious prosecution. Wendle alleges they maliciously charged him with malicious mischief of which charge he says he was acquitted.

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed by Gust Gustafson, a lumber contractor of McKean county. His liabilities are $11,139 and assets $2,513.

NEW HIBERNIAN TEMPLE.

Granting of Charter by Judge Shafer Assures Another Handsome Club House in Pittsburgh.

Judge Shafer granted the first club charter since the new incorporation rules in court of common pleas No. 2, yesterday, to the Allegheny county board of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of America, applied for by Attorney John M. Haverty. It is a gift, coming as it does so near St. Patrick's day, and as this body is the governing body in America, something handsome is proposed to celebrate this victory.

The order will at once commence the erection of a temple or club house to cost $300,000. The site will be selected as near the heart of the city as possible, and the Hibernians expect to provide everything for the comfort and entertainment of the members of the order both here and abroad. The building will contain a hall, reception rooms, library and large ballroom for dances and other entertainments. Places will be provided where Irish literature and history can be studied. Different affairs of the society will be held in this temple, and rooms will be provided where Irishmen of distinction, both from other cities in America and from Ireland and England, can be entertained during their visit here instead of going to hotels. No site has yet been selected.

OFFICER IS INDICTED.

True Bill Charging Murder Against Policeman James McAnally of Wall Station.

The grand jury returned a true bill against Policeman James McAnally of Wall Station for murder. McAnally shot and killed Michael Ruharchik, a Hungarian, during a raid on a dance at Wall, September 30, while the latter was trying to escape arrest. A true bill was returned by the December grand jury, but on account of a defect in the indictment the bill was sent back for reconsideration. Other true bills were:

Felonious assault, Vincenzo Parrone; felony, George Gitting; embezzlement, G. A. Kastelmeyer; robbery, John Good; larceny, James Mulligan, Mary Hanlon, Albert Solaies, Nellie Miller, Samuel Edelstien; aggravated assault, Charles Dean; larceny by bailee, M. Goldeman; forcible entry, W. H. Mofatt; setting up gambling devices, W. H. Hawker; receiving stolen goods, Philip Cohen, James Cramer, John Zimmerman; assault and battery, A. M. Miller, D. Benjiman, Samuel Connors; misdemeanor, Edward Kendricks.

Organize Branch of C. M. B. A.

Branch No. 218, Catholic Mutual Beneficial Association of Duquesne, was organized yesterday with a membership of thirty-five. The following officers were elected: President, Nicholas Frey; vice presidents, George Riles and William Raible; recording secretary, William Wolf; assistant, Joseph Frey; treasurer, George Raible.

Want of Exercise, Indoor Employment, weaken the Bowel Muscles, just as they weaken Arm and Leg Muscles.

The Muscles lose tone, tension, strength, to force the food onward.

And the longer they stay in that state the weaker they become, because the less exercise they get through the slow passage of food.

Cascarets contain the only combination of drugs that acts on the Muscles of the Bowels and Intestines, just as Cold Water, or Exercise, act on a Lazy man.

They act like Exercise.

When you have Heartburn, Colic, Coated Tongue, Suspected Breath, Acid-rising in throat, Gas-belching, or an incipient Cold, take a Cascaret.

Remember, all these are not merely Discomforts, but indications of a serious Cause.

Nip them in the bud—eat a Candy Cascaret. Cascarets don't purge, nor punish the stomach like "Bile-driving" "Physics."

They act like Exercise on the Bowel-Muscles that propel Food, and that squeeze the natural Digestive Juices of the body into Food.

Cascarets ward off, or cure, the following diseases:

Constipation	Bad Breath
Biliousness	Diabetes
Indigestion	Headache
Dyspepsia	Diarrhœa
Torpid Liver	Flatulence
Appendicitis	Hives
Rheumatism	Jaundice
Catarrh	Nausea
Colic	Vertigo
Scrofula	Pimples
Womanly Troubles
Worms	Blotches
Piles	Eczema
Ulcers	Dysentery

In such cases a little Cascaret in time is worth fifty dollars worth of Treatment later on, to say nothing of the suffering, discomfort, loss of Business Energy, and loss of Social Sunshine it saves.

A coming Headache can be warded off in short order, by a single Cascaret, and the cause removed.

Heartburn, Gas-belching, Acid-risings in the throat, and Colicky feeling are sure signs of bowel trouble from food poisons, and should be dealt with promptly.

One Cascaret will stop the coming trouble, and move on the Bowel load, if taken at the first signs.

Don't fail to carry the Vest Pocket Box of Cascarets with you constantly.

All Druggists sell them—over ten million boxes a year.

AT THE PLAY LAST NIGHT

Nixon—Miss Viola Allen in New Play.

It is Clyde Fitch, not Shakespeare, who this season furnishes Miss Viola Allen with a play. Perhaps if this review stopped there all the amenities of the occasion would be satisfied, but while saving some uncomfortable reflections growing out of the comparison suggested, Miss Allen's journey from Rosamund, in "Sowing the Wind," to stellar honors as Glory Quayle in "The Christian," and thence to the interpretation of classic roles was accomplished through an art that has always displayed a certain sureness of touch, charm of manner and accuracy of technique that made these ascents on the ladder of fame well deserved. As a rest from Shakespeare her managers this season gave the actress a costume play, written in the somewhat callow days of Mr. Fitch and rewritten to meet certain modern demands, and to more nearly measure up to the stature of his star, though the great Modjeska tried the play in its initial form. It is a "play actor's" play, written around the imaginary deeds, love and life of Betty Singleton, and actress of the Georgian period, and presumably of the old Wells theater. It is a prentice play, and in spite of Mr. Fitch's more mature skill in the rewriting, I cannot understand why the talents of so fine an actress as Viola Allen, to say nothing of a half dozen of our best modern players, should be wasted on it.

Mr. Fitch has fatuously imagined that one, or even two, situations will carry a tedious costume play of a period two centuries ago to success, just as he has found it do in the use of more modern and appreciably sensational material. Betty Singleton is taken at the period of her greatest triumph on the stage and on the eve of her departure from it to become the wife of the duke of Malusbury. The marriage turns out a failure, partly through the drinking habits of the duke and partly through the supposed tender regard which he is made to cultivate for his cousin. Betty leaves his home, at first tentatively, and then, after an effort at reconciliation, to the poverty of a garret, in order that her husband may think her dead and so marry his cousin. All this story is wrought out of thin air and Mr. Fitch labors mightily in order to give it a semblance of plausibility—and fails. There isn't any sound reason for the actions of anybody in the play. Mr. Fitch leaves us in doubt as to his characters. He makes the duke a cad one minute and a repentant husband the next who wants his wife to "go back home with him and begin all over again." In the next breath he assures her he doesn't love her any more, his "heart is dead." Thereupon the garret and starvation for Betty, when along comes that erratic duke and swears he does love her and the curtain cuts short any other dramatic handsprings Mr. Fitch might have been contemplating. In character drawing Mr. Fitch has been quite as cloudy. Did he mean to make the duke's cousin sincere or a cad? Or to put poor Phillips in there as a real cause of jealousy? If so, Phillips was badly used.

There is a novel and pleasing situation in the first act in which Betty Singleton, called to the footlights of that old London theater to make her farewell speech, but really comes to the footlights of the present theater and in front of a dark curtain creates the illusion that this audience is the old audience of King George's day. There is also a strong scene in her home when she reads a play brought her by old associates, and the reading becomes a recitation of her own woes in the face of her husband, who comes unexpectedly into the room. But there are long stretches of absolute dullness, minus even the clever and witty dialogue of which Mr. Fitch is sometimes a master. It is a dull play, absolutely unworthy the good acting bestowed upon it and the more than ordinary handsome setting that its managers have given it. Of that acting Miss Allen's stands first, but not alone. The actress must at times force the situations until a note of insincerity sounds sharply in her work, but she shows always what a clever artist she is by giving vivacity, interest and reality to the thin lines. Her audience last night enjoyed her more because she was Viola Allen than that she was Betty Singleton. Next to Miss Allen, if indeed she did not share all the glory, was pretty Isabel Irving, first in blue tights and then in many ravishing costumes, as Roxana, a pert and pretty actress of the period. It was a delicious and effervescent character study, with all its lights and shades given greater coloring through the piquant beauty of this little woman who has played so many roles and so well.

Mr. C. Leslie Allen did a fine character sketch as an old lodging house keeper, and thereby added a further debt that Mr. Fitch and the public owe the players rather than the play. Fanny Addison Pitt put another heavy sum on the same credit side as the old dowager duchess. It was a delightful and unctious portrayal.

Conway Tearl was the duke, and played him at times well, at other times listlessly. Hassard Short made a humorous younger brother; Miss Alice Wilson was the indeterminate cousin; Harrison Hunter Lord Phillips finely, and Norman Tharp was a handsome Ben, while the rest of the cast was adequate. It is unfortunate to find our really good players so illy dealt with in this day when we need them at their best. Mr. Fitch's warmed-over play is far from the best, though it would be unfair to say it is the worst, though it comes very near being Mr. Fitch's weakest.

CHARLES M. BREGG.

Belasco—"The Man on the Box."

Harold McGrath's novelette, "The Man On the Box," has been made into a very pretty comedy drama by Grace Livingston Furniss. The book is not one that can be called great, but it is pleasing, and these phrases also fit the play. Venerable as the main plot may be, the gentleman playing servant in the house of the woman he loves, it is worked out with such refreshing spirit and the amusing situations are handled with so much dash, that it has all the charm of novelty. And it is acted with the very spirit and dash it requires by a company, with Henry E. Dixey at its head, one of the few matinee idols of a decade or more ago who wears.

Mr. Dixey looked and acted Robert Warburton to perfection. Had Harold MacGrath fixed him in his mind's eye when writing the novelette, he could not have hit him off better, with his nonchalant drollness and all his little tricks that show the gentleman in the livery of the groom. It is a role for which Mr. Dixey is temperamentally fitted and which he has wrought out with much cleverness. The audience took to Mr. Dixey's work with genuine enthusiasm and obliged him to make a speech after the second act.

Miss Carlotta Nillson, in the part of Elizabeth Annesley, made an equally favorable impression. She is a comedienne of much vivacity and altogether free from the conventional tricks that are "of the stage, stagy." So much naturalness and sincerity is in her playing that she may fairly be said to divide honors with Mr. Dixey's dash and cleverness. Oliver Doud Byron, an old Pittsburgh favorite, was cast as Col. Annesley, and played the part with genuine dignity, without overemphasizing it. The only reminder of the old melodramatic school in which he won his spurs was a proclivity for saying "me country;" otherwise Mr. Byron's work was unexceptionable.

Sydney Booth as Charles Henderson, James A. Bliss as Col. Frank Raleigh, and Miss Maria Nordstrom as Nancy Warburton also deserve high praise. John Westley's Count Karloff merits commendation for its restraint, and Fred W. Peters' Magistrate Watts for its effusiveness. The remainder of the cast were rather above the average.

The dramatization has been so cleverly done that one who has not read the book would hardly know it was not an independent play, while those who have read it will enjoy many heat touches the dramatist has added. It is a short play and somewhat tenuous, but Mrs. Furniss has wisely resisted the temptation to pad. Altogether it is as enjoyable an evening's entertainment as could be desired.

Alvin—"Peggy from Paris."

George Ade's musical comedy, "Peggy from Paris, fell into good hands when it came to the company which is putting it on at the Alvin this week. Two years ago the play was well received here, and the packed house last night evidenced the desire that hundreds of theatergoers had to see it again. Whatever fame it may have gained from its authorship, is overshadowed by the manner in which it is presented, for the fun in the evening's entertainment is continuous, and the stage work excellent. In a musical way the company is capable and some of the prettiest effects seen at the Alvin this year were produced, one of them being the song of the college boys. From an artistic standpoint there is much to admire in the aggregation of a score or so of comely maidens, whose costumes are dainty and quaint, much beyond the average. Their muscular antics are no less fascinating, and the acrobatic feats of Walt Quackenbush, the village joker, are a constant source of merriment. The inimitable Peggy, a Frenchified country girl turned actress, in the person of Julia West, creates a good impression, and her anxious father, E. H. O'Conner, the Captain Plummer of Hickory Creek, puts into his views of life a variety of droll saying that are hard to resist and easy to remember. One of the real bits of oddity in the present company is Olivette Haynes, the Sophie Blatz of the cast, whose own peculiar way of doing and saying things is inimitable and exceedingly funny. Along with the curious ways and customs of a country town there are introduced in the play glimpses of city and stage life, which make the background for an evening of real enjoyment.

Grand—Eva Taylor and Hugh Ward.

Mrs. Charles A. Doremus' little one-act play, "The Circus Rider," remembered possibly by older theatergoers, furnishes an excellent medium for three favorite stock actors of other days at the Grand this week. A host of friends of Miss Eva Taylor, Hugh Ward and Dennie Harris greeted these players yesterday, and Miss Taylor was compelled to step out of the character in order to still the applause. It is to Miss Taylor, too, that chief honors go in the presentation of the little drama. She plays the role of the titled lady mistaken for a circus rider with great vivacity and sincerity, the semblance of gaiety while grief-stricken at the perfidy of her lover being carried off with fine spirit. Both Mr. Ward and Mr. Harris render excellent support, and the little piece makes one of the most engaging dramatic offerings that the Grand has had for some time.

Edwin Mollenhauer, the aged violinist and former soloist of the New York Philharmonic, presents an interesting figure in vaudeville. Though past 80 the art of the old man is still clear and virile. His bowing is remarkable and in the forte passages his expression shows no appreciable sign of decay.

Dainty Louise Dresser made a hit with a new and amusing bunch of songs. Her husband Jack Norworth is also on the bill this week in an amusing monologue. Mark Murphy and his wife present an up-to-date and revised version of "The Coal Strike." Leon Morris' trained animal circus continues one of the most interesting things of its kind in vaudeville. The three Macarte sisters do a dainty trapeze act which is varied with both dancing and music. Asra, the juggler with billiard balls, does a remarkable act and Delmore and Onelda, Three Funny Mitchells, Burke and Dempsey, who should get some new stuff, Ida O'Day with the banjo, Brooks Brothers and the cinematograph, complete a good substantial and entertaining bill of vaudeville.

Empire—"Big-Hearted Jim."

George Klimt, supported by an excellent company, appeared at the Empire theater last night in the melo-drama, "Big Hearted Jim," and completely won the hearts of the large audience to that character by his portrayal of it. The scene of the play is laid in Montana, and there was action every minute. A fight with Indians in the last act was both exciting and realistic. The scenic effects were very good, and aided largely in the realistieness of the scenes. Miss Mabelle Moore, as Dora Carlysle, the girl with whom Jim is in love, and who cannot marry him because of a past, played the part to perfection. John Heulette, the villain of the play, was portrayed by John Abbot, and he was very good in the part. Miss Jesse Stevens, as "Liddy," a good, whole-souled mountaineer, was excellent. Lin, the heathen factotum, was taken by Harry Garrity, and his every appearance had the audience roaring with laughter. The remainder of the company played their parts well, and helped Mr. Klimt in making the play one of the best melo-dramas that has visited the Empire this season.

Gayety—Jersey Lillies Company.

The Jersey Lilies extravaganza company played to a well-filled house at the Gayety in a performance that was satisfactory, judging from the applause during its progress. Straight comedy is attempted in the opening and closing numbers, instead of the usual haphazard fun of the regulation burlesque. In the closing piece a couple of comedians alternately popped on and off the stage every few seconds till the curtain fell. They looked alike, and being taken one for the other, was the basis of the fun. While it might have been monotonous elsewhere it was a success last night as a laugh producer. Then, again, two chaps sat on a trunk and stuttered and supposedly blew saliva into each other's face for several minutes, while the upper house nearly fell off its seats in paroxysms of joy. There is fun for all classes. Let them have it. The vaudeville department made a bigger hit than usual. The Dinus troupe of acrobats held the attention of the crowd by a series of difficult feats, during some of which the air seemed to be full of flying forms. Ada B. Burnett caught the fancy of her listeners with a brand-new coon song, and the Musical Bells made their usual big hit with ragtime on bells. The other good ones were Chameroys, eccentric athletes; Rena Washburn and Sadie Vedder, in songs and dances; Zara and Stetson, in baton swinging, and Howell and Emerson in a comedy song, dance and talking act.

Academy—Broadway Gaiety Girls.

The Broadway Gaiety Girls in "Glittering Sylvia; or a Trip to the Bottom of the Sea," pleased the Academy audience in the lively two-act extravaganza of the above title. As the name would indicate, it is a fanciful journey by a set of girls and funmakers to an imaginary kingdom at the bottom of the sea, [illegible] and much fun about fishes and [illegible] and water and such. John Weber is the bright light in the comedy line, as Sandy Shoffer, and the statuesque Sidney Drew shines at the head of the beauty department in a pleasing way. By way of a winning vaudeville number the Dinus troupe of acrobats are introduced and won the favor of the audience by their great work in their line. Odee also tickled everybody greatly, and those included the Phillips Sisters, who were called back for more of their singing and dancing, and Jack Marshall, a humorous mimic. Three comedy turns, built for laughing purposes only, were well acted out by Gardner West and Sunshine, John Weber and company and Patterson and Kennette. The musical department was also good, and is very much up to date.

Bijou—Melodrama.

A play of somewhat dubious title but fulfilling only the usual sensational demands of modern melo-drama, pleased two large audiences at the Bijou yesterday. "The Confessions of a Wife" involves many and curious situations, but they are worked out with no especial harm to any one, and to the everlasting dismay of the villainy that runs through the plot.

PUBLIC MAKES BIG RUSH FOR GRAND OPERA TICKETS

Opening of Single Seat Sale Signalized by Greatest Box Office Receipts Ever Known Here.

Hundreds of purchasers of tickets for the grand opera season stormed the Nixon theater building yesterday. The single-seat sale commenced at 9 o'clock, and with the opening of the box office the ticket sellers faced a double line of purchasers that had been forming since the midnight before, standing in the snow and cold throughout all the long hours. When the day's sale was ended the only man in sight was the ticket seller, and his face wore a smile that was a veritable wreath of triumph, for he had taken in more money through the window of the Conried box office than was ever taken in in the entire theatrical or operatic history of Pittsburgh.

The interest in the great opera season Mr. Conried has planned for Pittsburgh has been growing, until it found its biggest expression in the returns of the first day's sale of single tickets. It was a tremendous sale, and thhe enthusiasm of operagoers was manifest in many ways. To call it a sale for single seats was in many ways a misnomer, for at least 50 per cent of the purchasers bought seats for three, four and five performances.

To say which opera had the preference is not easy at this time. Perhaps the greatest interest lay in the first two performances, the opening night of the season, when probably the most brilliant audience will assemble, and the other the reappearance of Caruso and Fremstad in "Carmen," and the operatic debut of Bessie Abott, on Tuesday evening. The desire to witness the premier of the season was very strongly manifested. This opera will witness the debut of Knote, the great tenor, and the reappearance of Edyth Walker, Van Rooy and Blass, and the debut of Marie Rappold, about which much interest attaches.

The sale will be resumed at 9 o'clock this morning. Beginning today all season and single orders received by mail or personal application will be ready for delivery at the grand opera box office.

Arnold Daly and Shaw.

The announcement is made by the Belasco management that Arnold Daly's company will present, during their engagement here next week, Bernard Shaw's two most brilliant comedies, "You Never Can Tell," and (by special request, at the Thursday evening and Saturday matinee performances) "Candida." Among others of prominence in the [illegible] will be seen in the support of Miss Daly, is Crystal Hearne, who [illegible] in "Candida."

Maggie Pitt.

Miss Maggie Pitt will be the attraction at the Bijou for a week beginning Monday night, and in the new play in which she will appear, "Sweet Kitty Clover," by Langdon Mitchell, she will have a congenial character, that of a young Irish girl, who is a typical product of the most attractive country in all Europe, Ireland. The author, Langdon Mitchell, has created a sensation with his play, and the Nicholls sisters are said to be [illegible]

Fiske O'Hara.

"Mr. Blarney from Ireland," the new comedy drama in which the new star, Fiske O'Hara will be seen at the Avenue next week is a success in every way. Mr. O'Hara is a strong [illegible] as a young Irishman who is a graduate of Dublin college and most of the complications in it are either Irish or of Irish origin, yet all the scenes of the four acts are laid in and around New York.

THE GOOD THINGS OF EARTH

Are Not All Far-Fetched.

That our American forests abound in plants, the roots of which possess the most valuable medicinal and curative virtues, is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers of our age. Even the untutored Indians had, by tradition and experiment, discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race on this continent. This information, crude though it was, imparted freely to the friendlier of the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until today we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots and herbs.

It is no longer thought necessary that a medicinal agent, in order to be good and useful, must have been brought across the ocean or that "being carried seven times across the Sahara Desert on the backs of fourteen camels" makes it the more valuable.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most of our obstinate and most fatal diseases, if we would properly investigate them; and, in confirmation of this firm conviction, he points with pride to the almost marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood cleanser known to medical science. Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weaknesses and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unsolicited testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of leucorrhea, painful periods, irregularities, prolapsus and other displacements, ulceration of uterus and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines had failed.

Both these world-famed medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots, found in our American forests. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each of their wrappers. They are both made of such native, medicinal roots as have received the strongest indorsement and praise for their curative virtues from the most prominent writers on Materia Medica in this country. What is said of their power to cure the several diseases for which they are advised may be easily learned by sending your name and address to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a little booklet which he has compiled, containing copious extracts from numerous standard medical books, which are consulted as authorities by physicians of the several schools of practice for their guidance in prescribing. It is free to all. A postal card request will bring it.

You don't have to rely solely upon the manufacturer's say-so as to the power of Dr. Pierce's medicines to cure, as with other medicines sold through druggists. For [illegible] of the leading medical writers [illegible] full of this copious testimony [illegible] can be relied upon to be [illegible] entirely disinterested.

From the little booklet above mentioned you will learn what a marvelous curative action Stone root, one of the prominent ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, exercises over the heart and its diseases, especially those valvular affections which are attended with difficult breathing, smothered sensations, palpitation or irregular heart action. Dr. Paine, author of Paine's Epitomy of Medicine, considered Stone root specific in these cases, and cites bad cases cured by it in his extensive practice. Golden Seal root, another prominent ingredient of Dr. Pierce's "Discovery," is also a valuable heart tonic, as is also Black Cherrybark, another ingredient. You will also learn that the eminent Drs. Hale, Ellingwood, Johnson, Hare, Coe and others recommend Golden Seal root, and several of them Stone root, Queen's root, Bloodroot and Black Cherrybark for bronchial, throat and lung affections attended with hoarseness, persistent cough, night-sweats and kindred symptoms indicating approaching consumption. All these agents are faithfully and fully represented in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and it can be confidently relied upon to produce their combined curative effects, not only in the above mentioned affections, but also in all catarrhal diseases, no matter whether affecting the nasal passage or other regions of the body.

In nasal catarrh, while relying on the "Discovery" as the best constitutional remedy known to medical science, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy should be used to cleanse the nasal passages. Together they constitute the most thorough and effective course of treatment which can be employed for the cure of that troublesome disease.

No other medicines sold through druggists for like purposes have any such professional indorsements as Dr. Pierce's, and, in consequence, none are so largely prescribed by physicians who know what they are made of and that their composition is of the best ingredients regardless of cost. Send for the little free book now.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" must not be expected to produce miracles. While it is especially suited for the cure of all chronic, lingering coughs that are curable, it is not so effective in acute colds and coughs unless slippery elm mucilage, flaxseed tea, solution of gum arabic or other mucilaginous demulcent be drank freely in connection with its use. Nor must the "Discovery" be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages. In its early stages it will stay its progress and often effect a cure if its use be persisted in for a reasonable length of time. Send for the little book noted above and learn what those most eminent in the medical profession say of the ingredients out of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are made and thereby learn why they cure obstinate diseases.

Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness, sick and bilious headache, dizziness, costiveness or constipation of the bowels, loss of appetite, coated tongue, sour stomach, windy belchings, "heartburn," pain and distress after eating and kindred derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. Put up in glass vials, tightly corked, therefore always fresh and reliable. One little "Pellet" is a laxative, two are cathartic. They regulate, invigorate and cleanse the liver, stomach and bowels.

A good medical book, written in plain English and free from technical terms, is a valuable work for frequent consultation. Such a work is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in plain English, or Medicine Simplified. It's a book of 1008 pages, profusely illustrated with wood cuts and colored plates. It is given away now, although formerly sold in cloth binding for $1.50. Send 21 cents, in one-cent stamps, to pay for cost of mailing only for paper-covered copy, addressing Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.; or 31 cents for an elegantly cloth-bound copy. It gives over 200 prescriptions for the treatment of acute and chronic ailments.

Trial of Thomas O'Toole Charged With Murder, Moving Slow at New Castle.

NEW CASTLE, PA., March 12.—(Special.)—Only three jurors were this afternoon secured in the trial of Thomas O'Toole for the murder of his brother-in-law, Roy Barber. There were 24 jurors examined. O'Toole is defended by Attorney John Marron of Pittsburgh and Attorneys Benjamin Winternitz and A. W. Gardner of this city, while ex-Judge William D. Wallace is aiding District Attorney Cunningham.

The defense entered a motion when court opened to quash the panel of jurors, alleging one man summoned as a juror was not a legal citizen, having his first naturalization papers only. After long wrangling the defense withdrew the motion and the selection of a jury began.

GREENSBURG, PA., March 12.—(Special.)—Negligence on the part of Conductor P. P. McDonough of Pitcairn and Clarence Caskey of Jeannette, operator at R. G. tower, caused the wreck near Radebaugh on Thursday in which three men employed on the Pennsylvania railroad water line were killed and 23 injured. So decided a coroner's jury tonight.

Conflicting testimony was offered by McDonough and Caskey. An inquest was also held on the deaths of Conductor Frank Aikens and Brakeman S. E. Nixon, which occurred at Derry as the result of a rear end collision. Operator Harry C. Hiney was found guilty of negligence.

TWO HURT IN B. & O. WRECK.

Passenger Train Is Derailed at Scene of the Duquesne Limited Accident.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., March 12.—(Special.)—The engine of fast westbound passenger train No. 9, on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, ran into a frozen mass of slack and lump coal at the Eureka coal tipple on the Pittsburgh Coal company, 18 miles west of here, this morning and was derailed. After running its length over the ties, the engine toppled over on its right side, probably fatally injuring Fireman Harry Kirkland of Hazlewood, aged 28 years.

Engineman Frank Cunningham, also of Hazlewood, was thrown against a bank, but escaped serious injury. The passengers were thrown from their berths and seats. The accident occurred near where the Duquesne limited was wrecked in December, 1903, when over 60 lives were lost. Eastbound trains were detoured via the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad.

WRECK VICTIMS ARE REPORTED BETTER

FOSTORIA, O., March 12.—No additional deaths have occurred today among those injured in the wreck which occurred on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad yesterday, near this city. The injured are all reported as doing well. Mail Clerk Snook and Engineer Siegle, who were at first thought to be fatally hurt, have rallied from the shock and both, it is now said, will recover. The body of Mail Clerk Hoy has been sent to Wheeling, W. Va., while the body of Fireman John Hootman has been forwarded to his late home at Garrett, Ind.

Spreading Rails Cause a Wreck.

CALDWELL, O., March 12.—(Special.)—A soft track and spreading rails caused by the heavy snowfall, caused a wreck on the Ohio River & Western railroad, five miles east of here, this afternoon, in which three men were injured. An eastbound passenger train, running at the rate of 35 miles an hour, left the rails at a curve near Briar station. The injured: James Sinclair, left arm broken; James Swain, left arm and chest crushed; Allen Bell, hurt about the head and back.

Objections to Wholesale Licenses.

SOMERSET, PA., March 12.—(Special.)—In license court today Judge F. J. Kooser heard arguments on the petition of John Lochrie of Windber for a wholesale liquor license, and of A. W. Johnson of Meyersdale for a retail license. There are strong remonstrances against both. The large coal companies allege that wholesale licenses have a demoralizing effect upon their miners.

CLAIMS YOUNGER ZABORSKA PLAYED ON RIBS WITH TONGS

He made information against father and son last night for assault and battery. The alderman released them on bail for a hearing, which will be held when Schmidt's broken rib mends.

RECEIVES DEATH'S CALL WHILE ROBBING A STORE

Joseph Kolosky Is Fatally Shot While Trespassing in a General Mining Store.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.)

WASHINGTON, PA., March 12.—(Special.)—After being shot through the neck and mortally wounded Joseph Kolosky, a Lithuanian, caught robbing the general store of the James W. Ellsworth company at the Ellsworth mines, in the eastern part of the county last midnight, made a desperate struggle and almost succeeded in getting the best of Harry Stockman, the man who shot him. Kolosky, weakened by loss of blood, was compelled to surrender, and died while drawing a knife to strike his adversary.

Jasper Freeman, watchman at Upper Ellsworth, saw a window raised in the coal company's store at 11:30. He called Stockman to assist him and the two men entered the building. Kolosky seeing them attempted to escape but was caught by Stockman. He resisted and Stockman shot him through the neck.

Kolosky hurled him aside with a blow and, drawing a knife, made an effort to stab him. Before he could strike the foreigner dropped dead.

Kolosky was employed at the Ellsworth mines. He leaves a wife and one child. Stockman has been placed under arrest.

BUILDERS' COSTLY MISTAKE.

New Steel Bridge Between Irwin and West Irwin Is Two Feet Out of Line.

IRWIN, PA., March 12.—(Special.)—Reading a figure five for a three on the blueprint of the plans for the 554-foot steel bridge between Irwin and West Irwin on the Trafford City extension of the Pittsburg, McKeesport & Greensburg trolley line has proved a costly mistake for the builders. Working on the former figure huge concrete piers have been put down to support the superstructure.

The mistake was not discovered until the west section of the bridge had been finished. Engineers found the bridge was two feet out of line. To remedy the mistake false work was erected under the unfinished portion of the structure and it was raised. Today men were at work chipping away the concrete piers.

PITTSBURGH SUNDAY GAZETTE

GEORGE ADE, "IN PASTURES NEW"

HIGH PRIEST OF SLANG IN LONDON FOR THE GAZETTE

AUTHOR OF "ARTIE" GIVES BATTLE TO THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE

GEORGE ADE

What He Has Done

He left Purdue University in Indiana and "broke into" the newspaper business at Chicago. He was the "long legs" on the Chicago "News," getting assignments at first that covered more miles of streets than space in the paper. He developed into a splendid descriptive writer, but fame didn't come until "Fables in Slang" were started as a daily editorial page feature.

"Artie" followed soon afterwards and Ade's fame was made and royalties began to flow. He wrote "The Sultan of Sulu," a comic opera satire on our Philippine possessions. It was a hit, and Ade left newspaper work and in rapid succession completed "Peggy from Paris," "The College Widow," "The County Chairman," "The Bad Samaritan" and "Just Out of College." From these plays and from his books Ade draws royalties said by some of his friends to be not less than $3,500 a week.

GEORGE ADE, THE INDIANA HUMORIST,
Now In London, Where He Is Writing "In Pastures New" For Sunday Gazette Readers.

GEORGE ADE

What He Actually Is

He's a tall, thin, slightly round shouldered Indianian possessed of a soft, low voice, a wealth of dry humor and naive, slangy observations, but he's stingy with his conversation.

He's a modest man of about 35 years, who, by the penning of picturesquely scrambled language, first gained fame and then fortune, yet the measure of his hatband has not increased a fraction since the days when, as an indefatigable reporter, he wrote vastly more for vastly less.

He lives in a beautiful home at Brooke, Indiana, when home, and at the Holland House in New York when resting, for his recreation is taken in the metropolis and his work is done in the Indiana solitudes.

He is single, despite the fact that rumor has insisted within the past three years in engaging him to a number of charming ladies.

George Ade "In Pastures New" is the telling title of a series of vastly interesting letters which the Indiana artist in slang is now in London preparing for "Sunday Gazette" readers.

In furtherance of a laudable desire to overcome the mysteries of Chaucerian English, the premier promotor and purveyor of scrambled language has crossed the ocean and today in London he kneels and drinks deep from the fount of unadulterated Saxon.

Fortunate "Sunday Gazette" readers, assured of vast entertainment from the reading of letters which at the outset promise to surpass Mark Twain's "Innocents Abroad," will find in Ade's radical departure from slang stories a most delightful surprise. With the author meeting the great ones of Britain and with slang battling now and then for supremacy, he tells of his appreciation of the opportunity to "get the English language at first hand; to revel in its sublimities and to gaze down new and awe-inspiring vistas of rhetorical splendor."

The expense of this feature is enormous; justified only by the fact that Professor Brander Matthews has classed the dry Indianian as the equal of Mark Twain, and because the ever-growing charm of his books and plays makes everything from his pen eagerly sought for by the laughter-loving but thoughtful men and women of the land.

In this series of talks the author takes up the predicament in which a man finds himself when suddenly set down amidst unfamiliar scenes and strange environments. Ade, typical American, finds himself in this predicament in London. A feeling of lonesomeness overcomes him because he finds himself a foreigner speaking a strange tongue.

"A few Americans," he writes, "say fifty or more in Boston and several in New York, are said to speak English in spots. Very often they fan, but sometimes they hit the ball. By patient endeavor they have mastered the sound of 'a' as in father, but they continue to call a clerk a clerk instead of a 'clark,' and they never have gained the courage to say 'leftenent.' They wander on the suburbs of the English language, nibbling at the edges, as it were."

MUCH INTEREST IN LONG ISLAND

Local Brokers and Capitalists Are Getting Enthused Over Its Prospects.

BANKER BUYS FINE SITE

The Long Island real estate boom is beginning to attract the attention of local investors to a considerable extent. For more than a year one or two Pittsburgh brokers have been carefully making an investigation which led them to make some purchases for themselves and their friends in 1905. One of these Charles Crosby realized a profit of more than 100 per cent last week. A few weeks ago C. C. S. Baldridge of the firm of Baldridge, Watson & Co., went to Long Island and made a thorough study of the situation. As a result he purchased for a number of local investors 50 acres of Long Island frontage two weeks ago, on which the purchasers have already been offered a handsome profit. Mr. Baldridge is back from another trip to the metropolitan suburbs and it is rumored that he has about closed another big purchase for Pittsburghers. Last week E. Sutton, an eastern broker, took up his quarters here and is going after Pittsburgh capital with a vim in behalf of the Long Island property owners. He has lined up some of the heaviest financial interests in Pittsburgh, it is said, and his visit here is likely to result in some big operations. The activity in Long Island acreage at present is so manifest and the prospects of a big enhancement in values is so certain in the minds of many brokers, owing to the tremendous throngs of New Yorkers who are waiting only for a chance to get to and from the island quickly, that it would not be strange if some fortunes were made by Pittsburgh interests which have been so uniformly successful in real estate deals here.

One More Dahlia Street Colonist.

The Commonwealth Real Estate Company has sold through D. Bohen & Son another site in the former Marvin frontage in the Twentieth ward for $16,000. The buyer is W. I. Berryman of the Union Trust Company, who pays Ralph E. Longenecker and Southard May $16,000 for a lot 78x121 feet on the north side of Dahlia street, near Von Lent place. The site is near the A. J. Kelly residence, sold last week for $45,000, and is one of a score or more in the immediate neighborhood that have been bought within the past six months by prominent business men and sites for costly residences. Mr. Berryman made the purchase for a home, and it is said will build a fine house on the lot this summer.

Through the Aronson Realty Company the former Reich holdings, facing in Congress and Elm streets, Seventh ward, have been sold to a leading cigar manufacturer for $17,000 cash. There are two houses built on the property and these will be remodeled by the purchaser to make a place for his business. This price is $2,000 more than Mr. Reich paid for the property a few months ago.

The Land Trust Company has sold for S. W. Gault and W. W. Giffen to Annie G. Stevenson a brick house on 40x100 feet on the east side of Chislett street, near McCully street, Eighteenth ward, for $13,500.

New Postoffice for Belmar.

The 20,000 or more residents of the Belmar neighborhood in the East End are rejoicing over the prospect of having a postoffice of their own April 1. The building at Hamilton and Homewood avenues, which has been approved by the government authorities, is now occupied by a saloon and will be remodeled for an up-to-date postoffice. The new office will be known as Belmar station, and will supply a large territory, which has previously had all its mail delivered from the East Liberty office.

An exuberant account in a morning paper yesterday magnified a rumor five days old so strongly as to make it appear that the Real Estate Savings and Trust Company of Allegheny was going to erect a big bank and office building in Federal street. Officers of the company last week stated that there was absolutely no foundation for the story, as they had no such project in view. The company has a 10-year lease on the John P. Dean property it now occupies, and this lease has seven years yet to run. The new building idea probably originated from the fact that Thomas H. Long, a director of the company, a short time ago bought the Boyce property in Federal street, below the present location.

The Real Estate Corporation will move April 1 from the third floor of the Park building to a suite at 805-809 in the same building. The company has been located in this building since its organization two years ago, and its predecessors, W. H. Skivington & Co. and the Adams-Hemphill Company, had the same quarters it now occupies.

Sixth Series of Voting Contest.

Series F of The Gazette's contest for the most popular broker in Allegheny county starts today. The five series just closed have shown a remarkable interest in the controversy which is bringing out the friends of many brokers by the hundred and thousands. Series E was the largest in number of votes cast of any series of the list, and from the increasing interest being taken in the contest in the suburbs and big renting districts it is evident that the present series will break this record.

By an error The Gazette was made to say Sunday that Lottie Raymond Coleman instead of Lottie Raymond Moreland was the buyer of the Roberts residence in Negley avenue. Mrs. Moreland is the wife of W. C. Moreland.

A small property with a history was sold in McKeesport yesterday for $6,000. It was once owned by John McKee, founder of that city, who disposed of it for $15. The property is at 129 Fourth avenue. The original deed executed in 1797 shows that John and Sally McKee disposed of the property to John G. Young.

IN PERIL OF HIS LIFE

BY EMILE GABORIAU

In spite of his own great trouble, Jacques had not been able to avoid noticing his father's unusual excitement and sudden vehemence. For a second he had a vague perception of the truth; but, before the suspicion could take form, it had vanished in presence of his father's promise to sit beside him and face the humiliation of a trial in open court. This self-abnegation and display of paternal love touched Jacques deeply. "Ah, father!" exclaimed he, "I ought to ask your pardon for ever having doubted your heart one single moment."

M. de Boiscoran tried his best to recover his self-possession. At last in an earnest voice he said, "Yes, I love you, my son; still you must not make me more of a hero than I am. I yet hope we may be spared an appearance in court."

"Has anything new been discovered?"

"M. Folgat has found some traces which justify legitimate hopes, although, as yet, no real success has been achieved."

Jacques looked rather discouraged. "Traces?" he asked.

"Be patient. They are feeble traces, I admit, and such as could not be produced in court; but from day to day they may become decisive. And already they have had one good effect; they have brought us back M. Magloire."

"Oh, if I could only be saved!"

"I shall leave you to M. Folgat," continued the marquis, "the satisfaction of telling you the result of his efforts. He can explain their bearing better than I could. And you will not have long to wait; for last night, or rather this morning, when we separated, he and M. Magloire agreed to meet here at the prison before 2 o'clock."

A few minutes later a rapid step was heard in the passage, and Frumence Cherniot, the prisoner of whom Blangin had made an assistant, and whom Mechinet had employed to carry Jacques' letters to Denise, entered the parlor. He was a tall, strapping fellow of five or six and twenty, whose large mouth and small eyes were perpetually smiling. Although today a vagabond, without hearth or home, Frumence had once been a landowner. At his parents' death, when he was 18 years old, he had come into possession of a house, flanked by a yard and garden, together with several acres of arable land, and a salt meadow, the whole worth about 15,000 francs. Unfortunately, the conscription was near; and when Frumence plunged his hand into the urn to decide whether he would have to go soldiering or not, to his horror and consternation, he drew out a bad number. As, despite his health and his mustaches, he had an intense dislike for military service, he resolved to raise some money with the object of buying a substitute. Being a land-owner, he soon met with an obliging person who agreed to lend him 3,000 francs for the space of two years in return for a first mortgage on his property. When the papers were signed, Frumence had the money in his pocket, he set out for Rochefort, where dealers in substitutions abounded, and for 2,000 francs, exclusive of some smaller items, he was provided with a substitute of the first quality. Delighted with the operation, Frumence was about to return home, when his evil star led him to sup with a countryman, a former schoolmate, and now a sailor on board a coalbarge. Of course, when countrymen meet they must drink. And to be brief, Frumence indulged in such numerous potations that after a fortnight's carouse, he was glad to borrow five francs from the stage-driver to enable him to get home. He had lost all his taste for work, and acquired a real passion for tavern life and card play. He got more deeply into debt, sold all he possessed that was saleable, and being unable to pay the 3,500 francs he owed, his lands were sold, and one fine day he found himself in the street, possessing literally nothing but the wretched clothes on his back. He might easily have found employment, for he was a good workman, and people were fond of him in spite of all. But he was even more afraid of work than he was fond of drink. So he became a vagabond, a loafer, dependent for subsistence on such kind-hearted topers and hospitable housewives as he came across, and little by little, hunger being at his hand, he turned marauder, pilfering some orchard of fruit, or digging potatoes in strangers' fields and cooking them in the corner of a wood. And such being his destitute condition, if he found neither potatoes in the fields nor apples in the orchards, what else was left for him to do but to leap a fence or scale a wall?

Relatively speaking, he was an honest man, incapable of stealing a piece of money; but with vegetables, fruit, poultry and so on, he was not so particular. Thus it had come about that he was twice arrested, and condemned to several days' imprisonment; and each time he solemnly vowed that he would never be caught at it again, and for the future he intended to work hard. And yet unfortunately, he had been caught again. He had told his misfortunes to Jacques; and the latter, grateful to him for having facilitated his correspondence with Denise, felt kindly disposed toward him. When he saw him enter the prison parlor, cap in hand, he inquired: "What's the matter, Frumence?"

"Sir," replied the vagrant, "M. Blangin sends you word that the two advocates wish to see you."

Hearing these words the marquis embraced his son once more. "Do not let them wait," he said, "and above all, keep up your courage."

CHAPTER XXII.

The Marquis de Boiscoran had not been mistaken about M. Magloire, who, already shaken by Denise's statement, had been completely overcome by M. Folgat's explanations. He now came to the jail, with the expressed determination to do his utmost to prove Jacques' innocence. "But I doubt very much whether he will ever forgive me for my previous incredulity," said he to M. Folgat, while they were waiting for the prisoner in his cell.

Jacques entered, still deeply moved by the interview he had just had with his father. M. Magloire at once approached him, saying: "I have never been able to conceal my thoughts. When I fancied you were guilty, and that you accused the Countess de Claudieuse falsely, I told you so with almost brutal candor. I have since found out my error, and am now convinced of the truth of your statement; so I come to tell you frankly, Jacques, that I was wrong to have had more faith in a woman's reputation than in a friend's honest word. Will you give me your hand?"

Jacques did so instantly, joyfully exclaiming: "Since you believe in my innocence, others may be induced to believe in it too. My salvation is drawing near."

While these words were being exchanged, M. Folgat had spread out on the table all the papers he had brought with him—copies of official documents furnished by Mechinet, and notes taken during his rapid journey. "First of all, my dear client," he said, "I must inform you of what has been done." He then recounted in detail the steps that Goudar and he had taken, concluding as follows: "To sum up. We are able to prove three things: 1. That the house in the Rue des Vignes belongs to you; and that you and Sir Francis Burnett, who is known there, are one and the same person; 2. That you were visited at this house by a lady, who, judging by the precautions she took, had powerful reasons to remain unknown; 3. That this lady's visits took place at certain epochs every year, coinciding with the journeys which the Countess de Claudieuse made to Paris. Then for ourselves, we have another certainty—that Suky Wood, the servant of the false Sir Francis Burnett, watched the mysterious lady; that she saw her, and consequently would know her again. This is evident from the deposition of the girl's friend. Consequently, if we discover Suky Wood, the Countess de Claudieuse is unmasked."

"If we discover her," said M. Magloire. "But here, unfortunately, we enter into the region of suppositions."

"Suppositions!" said M. Folgat. "Well, call them so, but they are based upon positive facts and supported by a hundred precedents. Why should we not find this Suky Wood, whose birthplace and family we know, and who has no motive for concealment; Goudar has often ferreted out very different people to her, and you may be sure that Goudar will not sleep. I have held out to him a hope which will make him accomplish miracles—the hope of receiving the house in the Rue des Vignes as a reward, should he only be successful. The stakes are so magnificent he must win the game—he who has won so many already. Who knows what he may not have discovered since I left him?"

Older than either M. Folgat or Jacques, the eminent advocate of Sauveterre was less ready to feel enthusiasm. "Yes," he observed, "what you say is true enough; and, if we only had time, I might say with you, 'We shall win the day!' But there is no time for Goudar's investigations; the assizes are at hand, and I fear it would be very difficult to obtain a postponement."

"Besides, I do not wish the case to be postponed," said Jacques.

"But—"

"On no account, Magloire, never! What? I should have to endure three months more of this torture! I could not do it; my strength is exhausted. This uncertainty has been too much for me. I could bear no more suspense."

"Do not trouble yourself about that," interrupted M. Folgat; "a postponement is out of the question. On what pretext could we ask for it? The only way would be to introduce an entirely new element into the case. We should have to summon the Countess de Claudieuse."

She greatest surprise was apparent on Jacques' face. "Shall we not summon her anyhow?" he asked.

"That depends."

"I don't understand you."

"It is very simple, however. If Goudar should succeed, before the trial, in collecting sufficient evidence against her, I should summon her certainly; and then the case would naturally change entirely; the whole proceedings would begin anew and you would probably appear only as a witness. If, on the contrary, we obtain, before the trial begins, no other proof but what we now have, I shall not mention her name even; for that would, in my and in M. Magloire's opinion, ruin your cause irrevocably."

"Yes," said the great advocate, "that is my opinion."

Jacques' amazement was great. "Still," he said, "if I am brought up in court, I must, in self-defense, speak of my connection with the Countess de Claudieuse."

"No."

"But that is my only explanation. Do you think you could defend me, do you think you could save me, without telling the truth?"

M. Folgat shook his head. "In court," said he, "the truth, as we are at present situated, is the last thing to be thought of. Do you fancy the jury would credit allegations which M. Magloire did not credit? No. Well, then, we had better not speak of them any more, and try to find some explanation which will meet the charges brought against you. Do you think we should be the first to act thus? By no means. There are very few cases in which the prosecution says all it knows, and still fewer in which the defense calls for everything it might call for. Out of ten criminal trials, there are at least three in which side issues are raised. What will be the charge in court against you? The substance of the romance which the magistrate has invented in order to prove your guilt. You must meet him with another romance which proves your innocence."

"But the truth—"

"Is independent on probability, my dear client. Ask M. Magloire. The prosecution only relies on probability; hence probability is all the defense has to care for. Human justice is feeble, and limited in its attributes; it cannot dive to the very bottom of things; it cannot judge motives, and fathom consciences. It can only judge from appearances, and decide by plausibility; there is hardly a case which has not some unexplored mystery, some undiscovered secret. The truth! Ah! do you think M. Galpin has looked for it? If he did, why did he not summon Cocolen? But not as long as he can produce a criminal who may be responsible for the crime, he is quite content. The truth! Which of us knows the real truth? Your case, M. de Boiscoran, is one of those in which neither the prosecution, nor the defense, nor even the accused himself, knows the truth of the matter."

There followed a long silence, so perfect that one could hear the sentinel pacing up and down under the prison windows. M. Folgat had said all he thought proper to say; he feared, in saying more, to assume too great a responsibility. But, after all, it was Jacques' life and Jacques' honor which were at stake. Therefore, it was for him alone to declare the basis of his defense. If counsel controlled his judgment too forcibly, he would have a right to say thereafter: "Why did you not leave me free to choose? I should not have been condemned." M. Folgat had this fact in mind. Hence he spoke once more: "The advice I give you, my dear client, is, in my eyes, the best; it is the advice I would give my own brother. But, unfortunately, I cannot say it is infallible. You must decide yourself. Whatever you may resolve, I am still at your service."

(To be Continued Tomorrow.)

THE THREE RIVERS

The stage of water at Davis Island dam at 9 o'clock last night was 8.1 feet and the river was falling.

The Peters Lee is due here Tuesday from Memphis. She will return Wednesday for Memphis, Vicksburg and way points. Clear and colder.

RIVER TRADE IS HEAVIER.

Interesting Figures Given Out By the Government.

Growth of trade on the Monongahela river since the purchase of the locks and dams by the government, in 1897, is shown in the report just compiled in the United States engineers' office. The trade has practically doubled. During the years of 1895, 1896 and 1897, when the locks and dams were under private ownership, the average amount of trade by tons was 5,060,838 tons. During 1903, 1904 and 1905, under public ownership, the average amount of trade has been 10,038,277. The number of boats, barges, etc., passing through the locks in 1898 was 58,966, and last year the number was 97,946. The number of river craft has not increased in proportion to the amount of trade, as larger loads are now carried on boats and barges than eight years ago.

Major Zinn of the United States engineers' department, located at Wheeling, has issued a notice that navigation through lock No. 4 on the Little Kanawha river will be suspended July 1, owing to proposed repairs to lock and dam. The suspension may continue until December 1.

The board of officers of the corps of engineers will hold a public meeting at Wheeling on March 29 to hear objections on the proposed bridge from Bellaire, O., to Benwood, W. Va., and that across the back channel of the Ohio from Wheeling Island to the Ohio shore.

The Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company had a force of men engaged yesterday in looking for the body of Miss Dempsey, drowned when the Tom Lysle sank on Saturday. As soon as the body is recovered work will start righting the boat. On account of the age of the vessel it is not probable she will be rebuilt.

The arriving packets yesterday were the Ben Hur and the Kanawha. Both brought in large shipments of horses and eggs. The Ben Hur left at noon and the Kanawha will leave this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Keystone State was late in getting away for Cincinnati yesterday afternoon on account of the heavy freight shipments. A large number of horses were also shipped to down river points.

Capt. James McDavid, who has been ill for about four months, was about yesterday and feels strong as ever.

The Queen City will arrive tonight from Cincinnati and will leave Wednesday afternoon.

It is probable the Rose Hite will be raised this week. Six chains have already been placed around her and five more are to be put in position. The work is being done under the direction of a diver from Cincinnati.

The body of "Pineapple Jack" Delaney, who was drowned off the Rival on Saturday night has not yet been recovered.

Capt. John F. Klein is attending to important business at a number of down river points.

GIRL IS TRAMPLED BY PANIC-STRICKEN PASSENGERS

The fuse blew out on Bloomfield car No. 489 yesterday, in Penn avenue, near Fifteenth street, and Ida Gilkey of 2538 Penn avenue, was trampled by the 25 male passengers trying to escape. When the motor blew out the flames for a moment penetrated into the car and panic followed. J. E. Stahl, the motorman, was bruised, having thrown himself off the car, and the conductor, R. W. Eichelberger, was bruised by being thrown from the car by the rush of passengers.

PIRATES DEPART FOR THEIR TRAINING GROUNDS

PIRATES ARE OFF FOR THE SOUTH

Large Crowd Sees the Lads Leave for the Hot Springs Training Grounds.

WILLIS ATTRACTS ATTENTION

Eight members of the Pirate team left yesterday to begin training for the season. With them went the largest delegation of rooters that ever accompanied a team in any year. An entire car was reserved for the party. The trip is under the special supervision of President Dreyfuss. The players who left last night were Hans Wagner, Deacon Phillippe, Tommy Leach, Otis Clymer, Victor Willis, George Gibson, Claude Ritchey and Mike Lynch. The last four came in yesterday and helped to make headquarters lively by their bustle and chatter. Not one of the quartet was of any other opinion but that the Pirates would win out. Ritchey was the last to report, and he came in as young and fresh as ever. With clear eyes and bright skin the famous second baseman bids fair to outdo his work of previous years. At the depot quite a crowd of admirers gathered and each man scanned the players closely. The fans yelled at the players they knew and cheered the others. Willis was the center of attraction and really appeared nervous under the scrutiny. But he did not break down. With eyes straight ahead he passed through the gates and swung into the coach as if it was an everyday experience. Groups formed around Wagner, Phillippe and the others, and these Pirates had their troubles. However, the Deacon had time and inclination enough to intone a few lines of an annual song, and did it with gusto, too.

The team will pick up players on the way south and at the same time will have to pick up another sleeping car. At Ft. Wayne Pitcher Oberlin will join the gang and at St. Louis a raft of Pirates will board the train. The Pirates will reach Hot Springs tomorrow morning with everybody in line except Peitz, who is getting over a severe illness at his home in Cincinnati.

Harry Smith, however, will probably not be with the team. He has been at Hot Springs for some weeks, and on Saturday was notified of the death of his mother-in-law at Massillon. He left once left the springs to attend the funeral, but wired President Dreyfuss that he would join the team before the end of the week. Smith's wife is also reported to be ill and the catcher may not be able to report until next week.

Other ball players who left with the Pirates yesterday were Al. Wagner, Patsy Flaherty, Bob Frey and the Indian Neteau. These will assist the Pirates in their practice and also take part in the games to be played until they are called upon to join their respective clubs.

Secretary Locke did not accompany the team. He remained here to make preparations for the opening of the season. He will see that the Exposition grounds are put in first-class condition and also superintend the improvements to be made at the park.

NO BOWLING ON SUNDAY.

Louisville Tournament Committee Decides Not to Antagonize the Civic League.

LOUISVILLE, KY., March 12.—Fearing that a temporary injunction would be sworn out by members of the Civic league, the Louisville tournament today decided to omit from the American bowling congress schedule all Sunday games arranged for March 18 to 25. This will add at least an hour's bowling to each week day and the contests will open at 10 a. m. instead of 11 as previously announced.

The 16 alleys were practically completed today and an army of men is busy putting the immense armory in shape for the coming tournament. The schedule is $5,600 in prizes for 221 five-man teams, $4,600 for 460 two-man teams and $4,800 for 386 individuals. The total amount of prizes is $14,700 and every dollar of the money is in bank.

This total of prizes is claimed to be larger than that announced by any previous congress of the association. In some respects the local association is disappointed over New York and Philadelphia withholding entries, but the number from other sections of the country offsets this delinquency from the east.

ALLEGHENY PREP. GIRLS BEAT THE COLLEGIANS

The Allegheny Preparatory school won a hardly-contested game from Pennsylvania college on the college floor yesterday afternoon. At the end of the first half things looked very much against Prep., the score being 8 to 3 in favor of the Collegians. In the second half the Prep. guards, Miss Zimmers and Miss Bothwell, kept down the score. At the end of the second half the score was 11 to 10 in Prep's favor. Line-up.

JOE CAMPBELL EASILY OUTPOINTS MISSISSIPPI KID

ALTOONA, PA., March 12.—(Special.)—Joe Campbell of Washington, the lightweight aspirant for championship honors, outpointed Mississippi Kid at the new Pennsylvania Athletic club tonight before a big crowd. It was one of the fastest six-round bouts since the repeal of the anti-boxing law. At the tap of the gong for the first round the men rushed each other as if determined to end the bout then and there by a knockout. This whirlwind style was maintained until the sixth, when Mississippi was worn down and, handicapped by weight, had to hold on to save himself to the limit.

Campbell is alleged to have fouled Mississippi in the fourth round when the latter came within an ace of going to the bad.

Penn and Yale Becoming Friendly.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., March 12.—(Special.)—The University of Pennsylvania has made friendly overtures to Yale for a football game next season. At Yale the feeling is much friendlier for the Quakers than at any time since relations were severed in 1894. But to arrange a game late in the season might necessitate dropping an old and perennial rival. If Harvard continues to play football, as Princeton certainly will, a game with Pennsylvania would have to come much earlier than either Yale or Pennsylvania would consent to. Nevertheless, Yale is giving the challenge thoughtful attention. The two universities now meet in baseball and in track athletics.

GARDNER WINS THE FIRST GAME

FINAL SCORE IS 300 TO 206

CHICAGO, March 12.—The sixth annual tournament Class "A," National Association of Amateur Billiard Players opened tonight in the gymnasium of the Chicago Athletic association with a game between Edward W. Gardner of Passaic, N. J., and Harry A. Wright, of San Francisco. Gardner won the game by a score of 300 to 206. The style of play in the tournament is 14-inch balk line, two shots in. It took 45 minutes for Gardner to run out the 300 points, making his average 6 2-3, while his opponent had an average of only 4 15-22.

Neither of the men played up to the form shown in practice during the past few days, though the fact that the balls are lighter than those to which they are accustomed perhaps affected the playing of the men. The balls have been in stock for a number of years and it is said they are the lightest ever used in a national amateur tournament, weighing a trifle under seven ounces each.

Wright, who has never played in a national tournament before, appeared somewhat nervous throughout the game and was unable to get his stroke. Gardner has taken part in several contests of the national association and at one time he was champion. He was cool and very deliberate in his playing, being able to get out of difficult positions.

The following are the six entrants in the tournament: Edward W. Gardner, Passaic, N. J.; J. Ferdinand Poggenburg, New York City; Charles F. Conklin, Chicago; Calvin Demarest, Chicago; Charles S. Norris, New York; Harry A. Wright, San Francisco.

Demarest, who is only 19 years old, and Wright have never played in national championship tournaments while the other contestants have all been in one or more, Poggenburg and Gardner each having won the championship. The second game of the tournament will be played tomorrow afternoon between Norris and Poggenburg. Summary:

	Total.	High run.	Average.
Gardner	300	38	6 2-3
Wright	206	32	4 15-22

TWO GOOD CITIES WANT IN LEAGUE

McKeesport and Cumberland Prepared to Enter the P., O. & W. Va. Next Saturday.

GEORGE YOUNG IN TOWN

McKeesport and Cumberland will in all probability join the Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia league, taking the places formerly held by Fairmont and Clarksburg. A meeting has been called for Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Hotel Henry, Pittsburgh, when action will be taken.

Don McKim, manager of the Braddock team, and the president of the league, visited McKeesport yesterday and found the backers of last year's team enthusiastic over the prospects of getting into the league. Harry Crawford and Lawrence Hayden, who looked after the club last year, have two sites in view, and it will be learned today or tomorrow whether either can be secured. Both these gentlemen say the necessary backing will be forthcoming and McKeesport will be represented with a first-class team.

GEORGE G. YOUNG,
President of the Cumberland Club.

George Young, president of the Cumberland club; Harry Irvin, the manager, and Edward W. Webb, a Brooklyn business man, but who keeps in close touch with baseball affairs, came to Pittsburgh yesterday for the purpose of ascertaining the chances Cumberland might have of being admitted. Cumberland was in the Georges Creek league last year and was the best drawing town in the organization.

"Cumberland has 50,000 to draw from and when the towns not far distant are taken into consideration the number would be increased by 25,000," declared Mr. Young last night. "We had a very prosperous season two years ago and another last year. This season the people are anxious for faster ball, and already they are warming up. We do not have to depend upon Saturday games to draw. Often with but mediocre attractions we drew from 900 to 1,500 persons in mid-week. With the strong clubs as attractions that will be in the P., O. and W. Va. league, Cumberland should be one of the best paying cities in the circuit. We have a first-class team signed, and we feel confident that we would add strength to the league," added Young.

Cumberland has a fine park and is a money maker. It would not be too far away, as the clubs going there would play at Uniontown, thus breaking the jump. With McKeesport and Cumberland in, the league would be more compact and play to larger attendances than were the West Virginia cities in it.

If these cities join, it is probable the league will change its name. It has been suggested that Maryland be substituted instead of West Virginia, the league being known as the P. O. M.

St. Joe. Juniors Are Winners.

SPLENDID SCORES ARE MADE

Federals, Candidates for National Honors, Hang Up a Total Figures of 2,798 Pins.

RESULTS OF OTHER MATCHES

On the Federal alleys yesterday afternoon the two teams of the Pittsburgh association, namely, the North Braddocks and Federals, who will go to Louisville next week, met in a red hot match. The conditions were nearly similar to those the teams will meet at the national tournament, new alleys and new pins. Splendid scores were made, especially by the Federals, who ran up a total of 2,798. If they hang up the same score at Louisville they will surely win the national championship. These figures have been beaten only once in the A. B. C. tournament, the O'Learys getting 2,819 in Indianapolis in 1903. Last year the Gunthers won out by a score of 2,755, the second highest. Other scores were 2,720 by Chicago Standards in 1901, 2,792 by the Fidelias of New York in 1902, and 2,737 by the Ansons of Chicago in 1904. The Federals yesterday came within one pin of making three 900 scores. Every player showed fine form, especially Harris, who chalked up two 200 scores, getting an average of 208 1-3. There was a large gallery of rooters present who wanted to see both teams make good records, and there was no disappointment.

The North Braddock boys did not warm up until after the first game. Then they cut loose. August Seng put up 234, the highest score of the match. McPherson had best average for North Braddock, 179, although Fitzharris was not far behind.

The showing made by the two teams gives great encouragement to the Pittsburghers who take pride in their city. The teams are a social set all through, and make a fine appearance even without being in uniform. Both will have neat uniforms at the national convention, and if they display the same form as they showed yesterday they'll most assuredly bring honor to the old town. Scores:

AMONG THE BOXERS.

Six bouts are on the card for the McKeesport A. C. show on Thursday night. The main event will be between Jack Bruce and Jock Simco. The semi-wind-up will bring together Simco's speedy younger brother, George, and Tommy Trimble, of the South Side. For the four other bouts the best boys in Pittsburgh and McKeesport have been engaged, and on the whole the show seems certain to surpass anything in the boxing line ever before offered to lovers of the sport in McKeesport.

Jimmy Mason, Yock Henninger and a party of Pittsburghers will leave for Philadelphia tonight to attend the McGovern-Nelson fight tomorrow night.

Frank Morgan, is requested to call at this office this evening at 8:30 o'clock.

STATE NINE IS ABOUT PICKED

Are Some Positions, However, That Are Causing Coaches No Little Worry.

ABOUT THE OTHER TEAMS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

STATE COLLEGE, PA., March 12.—Manager Himes last week instituted a training table for State's baseball candidates, and about 20 of the most likely men are eating there. Capt. McIlveen has practically decided on the team and subs that will go south March 29.

There is some little doubt in respect to one or two positions, but the hardest task, that of weeding out the candidates, is over. The weather lately has been too changeable for any continued outdoor work and the men are working out in the Armory. The second base question is still bothersome, but has practically narrowed down to two men Yeckley and Miller, both of whom are good fielders, but slightly weak with the stick. Although Yeckley is hitting hard in practice.

Frank Poss seems certain of first base and should fill the bill. He is over six feet in height, bats well and has a wonderful whip. The outfield will be Nineteen of the 22 charges are burglaries. If he is convicted on all the charges against him he will spend the rest of his life in jail.

Those teams which have always proved the most profitable are given the largest mileage in the following order: Evansville, 5,734 miles; Wheeling, 5,734; Grand Rapids, 5,617; Canton, 5,352; South Bend, 4,988; Dayton, 4,830, and Springfield, 4,908.

The Central league umpires will meet at Springfield, April 1, to receive President Carson's instructions.

Hurry Up Yost Is Married.

NASHVILLE, TENN., March 12.—The marriage of Miss Eunice Fites and Fielding R. Yost, coach to the University of Michigan football team, took place tonight at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Fites. Among the wedding presents was a silver service from the University of Michigan football squad.

Fight Game Safe at New Castle.

NEW CASTLE, PA., March 12.—(Special.)—The sporting fraternity is delighted over the failure of common councils tonight to pass the anti-prize fighting ordinance. It passed select council last week and tonight a common councilman moved its reconsideration, but no one would second the motion, and the ordinance is still on the table. It probably cannot pass now, as the present council retires this month.

BOOZE PUTS CLOUGHERTY IN A BELLIGERENT MOOD

Irish Giant Picks Quarrel With Terra Cotta Pipes and He Gets Careless With Officer Carless.

Thomas Clougherty, an Irish giant, stepped from the water wagon last night and started out to make deep inroads upon the supply of Hinnessy in a number of South Side saloons. He worked his way valiantly up as far as Twenty-seventh and Carson streets, where he came into violent collision with a pile of clay conduits along the fence of the Jones & Laughlin steel plant. He tried to pick a quarrel with the pipe but getting no answer promptly decided the inanimate stuff was too proud to talk back. This roused his Irish ire and he waded into the stack of terra cotta.

While he was thus inflicting numerous scratches upon his brawny fists and playing havoc with his brittle adversaries, Policeman William Carless came along. Clougherty told Carless to keep out of the fight or he would lick him too, and with this he turned again upon his hollow foe. Carless got into the tussle and Clougherty was trying to push the officer through a two-inch pipe when some civilians took a hand. The belligerent finally landed in No. 7 police station, promising to go back and finish the job this morning.

MARRIES SCHOOL GIRL.

Young Crafton Civil Engineer Is Reported to Have Figured in Romance in Columbus.

A special telegram to The Gazette last night announced that Milton M. Griest, aged 22, a civil engineer residing at 40 Emily street, Crafton, had been secretly married to Bessie McCarthy, the 16-year-old daughter of R. E. McCarty, general superintendent of the Pennsylvania southwest system, in Columbus, O., last Saturday.

The bride, who is a school girl, was confronted by her mother with the report of the marriage upon her return from school yesterday afternoon, and tearfully admitted that the ceremony had been performed by the Rev. George A. Brewer of the First Presbyterian church of Columbus. The McCarty family formerly resided here, and the acquaintance which ripened into marriage was formed in Pittsburgh. Mr. McCarty declared last night that he would come here today with his daughter, and Griest was reported to have left for his home last night. It was stated at the Griest home at a late hour last night that he had not arrived, but was expected hourly.

Winston Disclaimed Personal Responsibility for Letter Which Provoked Gordon's Anger.

PHILADELPHIA, March 12.—(Special.)—John C. Winston, chairman of the committee of 70, replied today to the letter sent him by ex-Judge James Gay Gordon, private counsel for Mayor Weaver, who took exceptions to the communication on the subject of future criminal prosecutions, written by the executive committee of the 70 in reply to a request from the city committee of the City party.

Mr. Winston feels that ex-Judge Gordon was unwarranted in taking him to task for the reason that the Seventy's letter was prepared by the executive committee, which unanimously approved it, and his signature was attached, in the regular form, as chairman.

This letter, which caused the trouble, was before the City party city committee today but only formal action was taken on it. The communication was referred to the executive committee which will report on it at the meeting of the committee next Monday.

RUNAWAY PREFERS COSY HOSPITAL COT TO HOME

To 15-year-old William Butler, a runaway boy, whose home is in Lancaster, Pa., a cot in St. Francis hospital, with plenty of flowers and good things to eat, is preferable to returning to his own fireside. He ran away from home some weeks ago, and coming to Pittsburgh secured work at the Black Diamond steel works, where he was injured last week. He was taken to the hospital and visitors, learning of his plight, have been more than generous. His father learned of the lad's whereabouts, but when he came yesterday to get the boy to go home, the latter said he was well content to stay.

LIFE BUOY AND OARS FLOATING IN THE OCEAN

VICTORIA, B. C., March 12.—News is received from Skidegate that a life buoy and two oars marked, "S. S. Zapera," and two dories not marked, have been found on Graham island. Two broken oak-built ship's boats, 10 oars and about 20,000 feet of lumber also came ashore between Skidegate and Rosespit. The Zapora is a steam fishing vessel, carrying about 30 men, which piles from Tacoma to the halibut banks of Queen Charlotte sound.

Run from Building Bare-Footed.

A gas stove started a small fire at noon yesterday in the store of Eugene Couteau, 518 East Ohio street, Allegheny, and before it was extinguished damage to the amount of $300 had been done. A family of foreigners on the second floor made a hurried exit, and a man who had been asleep, rushed out into the snow in his bare feet, with his clothes under his arm. Couteau had just opened his establishment yesterday morning for the first time, and lost much of his stock.

Round Table's Last Meeting.

The last meeting of the Carnegie Round Table of Braddock for the present season will be held this evening at the Carnegie library. The monthly dinner will be served at 6 o'clock, and afterward Dr. A. W. Schooley of Braddock will read a paper on "The Prevention of Tuberculosis." Prof. D. L. Rich of the Braddock high school will give stereopticon views of the more common disease germs.

M'GOVERN NOT A COOL FIGHTER

NELSON STRONG AND GRITTY

PHILADELPHIA, March 12.—Interest in the Nelson-McGovern fight, to take place here Wednesday, is increasing as the date approaches. A monster attendance is assured. Those who have been lucky enough to get their seats in advance are hugging their pasteboards as prizes not to be exchanged for wealth or favor. By the time the returns are all in, $20,000 will have been passed up for a chance to see next Wednesday night's battle. It is the biggest sum ever paid for a six-round fight.

Neither Nelson or McGovern cares much for cleverness. Each has made his way because he understood the offensive rather than the defensive side of the game. Both love the strife; neither has ever faked.

From that heart-stopping moment of excitement when the gong tosses the men for their first clash it will be fight, with the blows coming so fast that the experts who cover the bout will have to draw hard on imagination to give a complete history.

Yet, while both men are pre-eminently fighters, they still represent widely different types. McGovern has the punch that only needs to be landed once. His right popped over hard on the jaw usually sends the fighters to the dressing room and the crowd to the street cars.

Nelson never wins so quickly. Possessed of enormous vitality, he is ever relentlessly after his man. Punches do not avail to stop his ceaseless advance. In the entire eighteen rounds of the Britt fight he never broke ground once, and the battle was really one long walking match, with Britt going backward and Nelson forward.

Nothing more disheartens a fighter than to find that though he hits a man the blows show no effect.

Britt, Corbett, Canole, Hanlon, Attell, Herrera all banged away at Nelson, and peppered him hard and often, but they always found him coming in for more, until finally they were worse weakened from the effort of punching him than he from the blows.

The Brooklyn boy lacks that patience. He not only contrasts to with Nelson in punching power, the difference is also temperamental. Nelson is cool, stolid. His face is expressionless, and natural habit of reticence keeps him from showing what he does feel.

McGovern can conceal nothing. His face shows every emotion, every impulse. He is no better educated than Nelson, and, like the Dane, detests that latter-day type of pugilist that dons the dress suit and apes the ways of society.

Out of the ring, McGovern is the best natured of boys, but in the ring he becomes an explosive. A naturally hot temper has been fanned into intolerance of opposition by the speed and ease with which he has whipped many good men. He wants his antagonists to drop the minute he measures arms with them. For a man to last with him is a presumption that ought to be punished with complete annihilation. So, discarding caution, he rushes in to make a quick job of it.

He succeeded with everybody but Young Corbett, and it must be borne in mind that he has since knocked out men who have stopped Corbett. He dethroned Dixon, stopped Erne and Gans, champions of a heavier division, made Pedlar Palmer cross the ocean to be put away in a round. He has always made good in the city, and is the biggest drawing card that comes to Philadelphia.

McGovern will undoubtedly carry the sympathy of the crowd when they line up Wednesday. But this fact won't worry the Dane. He knows that something besides that is needed to win and is sure he has it.

INSANE MAN MAKES THREE EFFORTS TO END HIS LIFE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BEAVER FALLS, PA., March 12.—Three attempts of an insane man to commit suicide created a sensation here this afternoon. Passengers on a fast train arriving in town were horrified to see a well dressed man deliberately leap from the train, but he landed in a snowbank unhurt. Shortly afterward, employes of the Pittsburgh Brewing Company saw a man with a rope climb a tree near the brewery and prepare to leap down with the rope around his neck. They foiled him by shouting and throwing sticks at him, but he escaped. A man disrobing on the bank of the Beaver river caught the attention of several people, and when the fellow saw he was being watched and in danger of capture he took to his heels again and escaped.

This evening the man's identity was established when he walked into the police station saying he was sent by the governor of Pennsylvania to report to a justice of the peace here. He was locked up and papers on him bore the name of John Goetz of Chicago.

To Raise Iron Miners Wages.

MARQUETTE, MICH., March 12.—The mining companies operating in the Lake Superior iron region, it was learned today, have voluntarily agreed to readjust all wages. The new scale will not be general at any mine, but in all it will affect thousands of men in certain lines of employment. The schedule has not been made public, but is understood to be a material increase over the present schedule.

Indict Editor of Town Topics.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Col. William D. Mann, editor of Town Topics, was today indicted for perjury by the grand jury. The indictment was based on his testimony in the recent trial of Norman Hapgood, editor of Collier's Weekly, on a charge of criminal libel. Col. Mann was released on $1,500 bail pending his pleading to the perjury charge March 29.

American Is Killed in England.

WILMINGTON, DEL., March 12.—A cablegram received here today announced that Leonard Bright Roth, aged 20, had been killed in a fall at Rochdale, England, this morning. He was the fiance of Miss Pauline W. Sancroft, daughter of John Sancroft, secretary and general superintendent of the Joseph Bancroft & Sons Company of this city. The couple were to have been married here in June.

UGLY DOG KILLS AND HURTS WOMEN

One Dead and Two Others Dangerously Injured in Battle With Vicious Bulldog.

FIGHT DRAWS CROWD OF 1,500

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PHILADELPHIA, March 12.—In consequence of a search for a missing neighbor, whom they subsequently found dead in her home, two Kensington women, Mrs. Mary Fisher and Mrs. Mary Salmon, are lying in a dangerous condition at their homes, suffering from fright and at least a dozen ugly dog bites, as the result of being attacked by a vicious bulldog last evening. In their battle with the dog, all their clothes were torn from their bodies.

When Mrs. Gassner failed to put in an appearance Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Salmon, another neighbor, made an investigation. Mrs. Fisher entered Mrs. Gassner's room and a bulldog sprang upon her, knoc

Hat of Raspberry Straw

Word comes from Paris that rose and raspberry are to be the tints par excellence for spring wear, consequently the milliners are showing their choicest designs in these shades. This eccentric little chapeau is built of raspberry straw, hand-plaited and trimmed with two shades of ribbon in the same color. The quills are a deep, deep rose.

Small hats will undoubtedly be much worn this year, and the higher the crown and narower the brim, the more stylish will be your headgear. The fashionable angle pushes the hat pretty far forward, which means also that the extreme pompadour rolled over high rats and falling heavily over the forehead almost to the eyebrows has given away to a more cultured coiffure, parted in the center and brushed back in soft waves from the forehead. Fashionable hats are built up very high from the back and this is accomplished with rosettes of ribbon or masses of handsome flowers. Occasionally a bunch or ostrich tips is impressed into service for such a purpose, but the majority of the new designs show ribbon and floral garnitures.

Marriage in 2006--A Look Ahead

One hundred years from now parents who force their children to wed will be punished. The stern parent will be utterly routed. Men who marry intending to get free again will be held as criminals and the wife will be acknowledged in law as equal in knowledge discretion and social rights with the husband.

Divorces will not be abandoned, but the advanced civilization will safeguard marriage until it is nearly ideal. Besides these improvements in marriage, the citizens of that day will be clothed sensibly—dressed for health and comfort, which then will be style. Tight lacing will disappear entirely and women will wear short skirts and a tunic somewhat after the manner of the Rosalinds of the stage.

T. Barron Russell, lawyer and author, promises us these things in a book recently published called "A Hundred Years Hence."

Mr. Russell's views on the dress feminine are interesting and open up an interesting vista for thought.

"Tight lacing and the wearing of such corsets as compress unnaturally the feminine form are evidently nearing the end of their long reign. The essentials of a satisfactory outfit will be first, an inner garment next the skin, worn merely for cleanliness; next a middle garment for warmth; and finally an outer garment for protection.

"The innermost garment will no doubt be made of some fabric not unlike the soft silky papers now made in Japan, so that it can be destroyed when taken off. It is not in the least likely that so unsanitary and degrading an occupation as that of the washerwoman can survive a civilization really advanced." Think of it! No lingerie, no laundress, an unrelieved prospect of "flat work" and steam laundries!

"The middle garment, completely cleansable by vaccum action and oxygenation, will, of course, have to be made of some vegetable fiber, like cotton or flax. It will most likely be some form of "combination," easy to put on and easy to take off, fastening by means of a single knot or button, and will be just tight enough to give freedom of motion. (It is cheering to note that all femininity will not then be as today, buttoned up the back).

"Thus far," Mr. Russell continues, "male and female costumes will be practically identical. There is no reason to expect, however, That this identity will be carried so far as the externals of dress."—(We rather hope, not).

"With undergarments practically identical with the sensible garments of men, our women will no doubt wear a costume much like that worn by Miss Rehan in Rosalind—a tunic and knee skirt with garters made of some elastic material."

It took some years to develop the modesty that decreed the pantalette should shrink beneath the petticoat and health culturists have devoted pages to convincing the sex of the harmful effect of the circular elastic. Can it be that even a hundred years will eradicate these inculcated notions and present the sex in the broad light of day, not only pantaletted as our grandmothers, but gartered as well, like the heroes of the romantic play?

Pressing the Gown.

Some one has said that pressing is the botch's friend. It is most important that every gown, whether home made or not, should be thoroughly pressed before wearing. This is as true of sheer cotton as of cloth. Frills should be pressed and gores and plain drapery made smooth. Skirts require the most pressing as they are larger and more difficult to handle without crushing and then, too, the material of the waist is generally closely drawn and tacked to the lining and has little opportunity to become crushed and wrinkled. All skirts should be pressed until the material looks absolutely new and fresh.

In making costumes of linen and lawn, if they have become badly crushed in the handling, they may be restored to absolute freshness by a method in use by French dressmakers, who, after all, are most familiar with the trifles that make perfection.

Dissolve a spoonful of gum Arabic in a cup of warm water. The gum will have no appreciable effect on the water—when tried with the finger there will be no appreciable stickiness. Dip a roll of cotton cloth—which is better than a sponge—in the water. Do not have it too wet, and then slightly dampen the wrong side of the material. Do not wet it through and dampen at one time only as much as may be pressed before it dries. If this is done carefully the material will look as crisp and fresh as when purchased.

An unlined waist may be pressed the same way. Whether it be necessary to dampen or not, all cottons should be pressed on the wrong side. Cloth, too, is pressed on the wrong side and as all tailors press garments many times in the making you need not fear that any of the newness will be lost. Place a damp cloth over the part to be pressed and pass the iron over it until the steam arises. Remove the piece of cloth and press the material until perfectly dry. The principal thing is to avoid rubbing over with the iron too much as this is what occasions the "shine." A skirt will sag less if pressed on a table rather than a skirt board.

The Short Coat.

The most surprising thing about the short coats of the season is the amount of variety displayed in their fashioning. The plainest, primmest little jacket is made utterly saucy by a trimming of nothing but buttons—big, flat buttons embroidered in a way which at once lifts them, and the jacket as well, from the commonplace to the ultra smart.

Another jacket, said to be made of linen, is a joke upon the face of it, for the linen appears only here and there—in the shape of panels, or oddly-cut bands—which hold the real foundation, an all-over Valenciennes lace, together, and gives to the garment its stability.

These are extremes, of course, but they are unusual in that they are picturesque and pretty as well.

The suits that will be mostly in demand for morning wear are plainer in style. There is nothing so all around satisfactory as these linen jacket suits, made fascinating with insertions and motifs of lace, through which the blouse shows delicately.

The morning shirt waist of the spring has gone back to the tailor-made simplicity. New models in linen and flannel are cut wide on the shoulders and made with inverted plaits, perhaps held down by buttons. Such a shirt has leg o' mutton sleeves, and is worn with a high stock and a white linen collar.

New York women have not yet gone back to the linen collars of some years ago, but Parisians are showing the way. Imported collars are of uncomfortable height, but usually turn over in some form or other. They show a touch of hand work in hemstitched edge and fasten back or front with studs.

Hats are worn at a more daring angle than ever, tilted there by rows of thickly set flowers, which with their leaves are placed between the brim and the hair.

It is said that Kean, the actor, ate mutton before playing the part of a lover, beef before playing that of a murderer and pork before assuming the character of a tyrant.

This may of course be either story or fact, but it is a well-known truth that beef will support the body under more exhausting labor than will mutton.

Little Points in the Home Beautiful.

Do not buy pictures or vases in pairs. Balance in effect is attainable without matching end for end.

Curtain rods should be stout enough to carry draperies without sagging and all rings—where used—should be loose enough to move freely.

"Richly carved" furniture when of modest price, is in most cases in bad taste. More often than not, the carving "covereth a multitude of evils" in workmanship.

Floors should be stained of a shade to match the woodwork, but never painted.

Walls in distemper look well and are more sanitary than paper. Distemper unfortunately soils readily, but is more durable if done over a plain paper.

Choose your wall papers with reference to the outlook of the room. A sunless room with a blue paper is doubly cold, but with a yellow or red paper may be positively cosy.

Don't overfurnish. Successful furnishing means everything for convenience and comfort and little else. "Do not buy anything you do not know to be useful or believe to be beautiful."

Try plain woolen serges for your hangings and table covers and note how well they harmonize with paper and carpet. Too much pattern destroys effect.

Do not think because a table or chair is weak-legged that it is necessarily Chippendale.

Don't tack your rugs. Have the carpet man reinforce them at the edges and be free to lift and dust or air them at pleasure.

Trim your windows for the pleasure of inmates rather than for that of the man outside.

The best is the cheapest, but be sure you know what is the best. It is not always the most expensive and is often the moderate in price. The plainest furniture may carry an air of distinction if the room as a whole be harmoniously arranged.

Renewing Oilcloth.

When oilcloth has been down a few months and is losing its shiny surface, it can be renewed easily and if done properly, will last twice as long.

Melt a little ordinary glue in a pint of water, letting it stand on the back of the stove until dissolved. Wash the oilcloth thoroughly and allow to dry. Then at night, when the traffic of the day is over, go over the whole surface carefully with a flannel dipped in the glue water. Choose a dry day for it, and by morning the glue will be hard and will have put a fine gloss as good as new upon your oilcloth.

Kow to Start Off the Day

Students of Hygiene All Agree That the Right Kind of a Breakfast Is Essential.

Thinking people are giving more and more earnest thought as to how to start off each new day so as to put themselves in the best possible physical and mental condition for the work of the day. It is an interesting subject, so interesting indeed that it has attracted the attention of a host of the world's leading scholars and authors on hygiene and many different opinions have been written for the guidance of the people. On one point, at least, all are agreed. This is that the right kind of a breakfast is essential.

A perfect breakfast is impossible without Malta-Vita, that delicious, crisp, vitalizing whole-wheat food.

In making Malta-Vita the whole of the wheat, after being cleaned, is thoroughly steamed and cooked in absolute purity and then mixed with malt extract, a powerful digestive agent, which converts the starch of the wheat into maltose, or malt sugar. Maltose is great food and the weakest stomach digests and assimilates it without effort. After being rolled into thin, wafer-like flakes the malted wheat is baked under such intense heat that it comes from the ovens crisp and brown—positively the most delicious most healthful food in the world. Always ready to eat. All grocers, now 15 cents.

THE GAZETTE PATTERN.

(No 5616.) Ladies' Work Apron, Sleeve Protector and Cap.

The three useful and practical articles comprising this set, were made of checked gingham. Excellent shaping is given to the apron by the seams in front that extend from the shoulders to the lower edge, and by darts at the sides. The straps are arranged over the shoulders, fastening to the belt in the back. Two large pockets are a useful featurre, although they may be omitted if preferred. The sleeve protectors extend from the wrist to the elbow, and are full enough to accommodate the dress sleeve underneath. The pattern for the dusting cap may also be utilized for a bathing cap, using oiled silk for the making. Gingham, sateen, butcher's linen, chambray and Holland can be used in making these garments. For the medium size apron and sleeve protectors, 5⅛ yards of 36-inch material will be required, and ¾ of a yard for the cap.

Ladies' work apron, sleeve protectors and cap. No. 5616: Sizes for 24, 28 and 32 inches waist. The patterns here illustrated will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents.

Removing Splinters.

Mothers will be glad to know that splinters of wood or glass which cannot be removed with a fine needle, can be very easily taken out by filling a wide-mouth bottle with hot water and holding it firmly against the flesh where the splinter has entered. The steam will draw the flesh down and a little additional pressure will take out the splinter. This is an easy and very satisfactory method, and comparatively painless.

The universally popular man need not be too proud of the fact. Some people would not like him if they envied him.

WHAT JOY THEY BRING TO EVERY HOME

as with joyous hearts and smiling faces they romp and play—when in health—and how conducive to health the games in which they indulge, the outdoor life they enjoy, the cleanly, regular habits they should be taught to form and the wholesome diet of which they should partake. How tenderly their health should be preserved, not by constant medication, but by careful avoidance of every medicine of an injurious or objectionable nature, and if at any time a remedial agent is required, to assist nature, only those of known excellence should be used; remedies which are pure and wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, like the pleasant laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. Syrup of Figs has come into general favor in many millions of well informed families, whose estimate of its quality and excellence is based upon personal knowledge and use.

Syrup of Figs has also met with the approval of physicians generally, because they know it is wholesome, simple and gentle in its action. We inform all reputable physicians as to the medicinal principles of Syrup of Figs, obtained, by an original method, from certain plants known to them to act most beneficially and presented in an agreeable syrup in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to promote the pleasant taste; therefore it is not a secret remedy and hence we are free to refer to all well informed physicians, who do not approve of patent medicines and never favor indiscriminate self-medication.

Please to remember and teach your children also that the genuine Syrup of Figs always has the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package and that it is for sale in bottles of one size only. If any dealer offers any other than the regular Fifty cent size, or having printed thereon the name of any other company, do not accept it. If you fail to get the genuine you will not get its beneficial effects. Every family should always have a bottle on hand, as it is equally beneficial for the parents and the children, whenever a laxative remedy is required.

THE CLUBS

Contributions to this department must bear the name and address of the writer to insure attention.

Have Invited Mrs. Longworth.

Since Miss Alice Roosevelt became the wife of Congressman Nicholas Longworth of Cincinnati, an invitation has been extended to her to exhibit in the pet dog show which will be given April 25 at the Hotel Schenley. A number of entries have been received from Cincinnati and Cleveland which are within the district from which entries will be received for the local show. Mrs. Longworth has several dogs besides Fashion, the Boston terrier she received as a wedding present, and Manchu, the little Japanese spaniel which was the pet of the White House before Miss Roosevelt became a bride.

A meeting of the Farmington Aid society, under whose auspices the pet dog show will be given next month, was held yesterday at the Hotel Lincoln and many of the details of the show were decided upon. Already 20 silver cups have been given by members and friends of the society which will be awarded in various classes. The cups will be exhibited for a time in Grogan's window in Fifth avenue. A vote will also be taken for the most popular dog, while all the dogs will have their pictures taken and the photographs will be for sale. A booth being erected in the ballroom for that purpose, which will be presided over by several members of the society. A prize will also be awarded for the best exhibit irrespective of class. Many other features apart from the regular awarding of the ribbons will add interest to the show which promises to be one of the most successful ond brilliant of the post-Lenten season.

For Tired Feet.

If the feet are tender and unaccustomed to much work, a simple and thoroughly reliable remedy is to take a piece of dry castile soap, turn the stocking wrong side out, put the hand beneath the gole of the stocking, and rub it vigorously with the dry castile bar.

Anyone who wears stockings that have been treated this way, will agree that the relief afforded much more than compensates for the trouble.

When we read of thieves going to jail do we ever wonder how many people can say they never stole from the street car company?

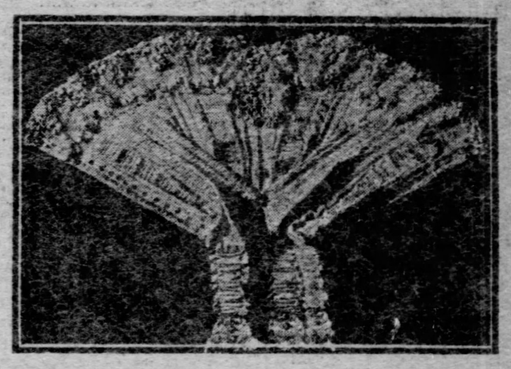
TONSILINE CURES SORE THROAT.

"The Breathing Corset"



The Wade Corset

Is positively the only corset that gives correct and graceful lines to the figure, together with perfect ease and comfort to the wearer.

It has double insets of elastic insertion in front and back, which yield to every movement of the body and yet are strong enough to maintain the desired lines of the figure.

The Straight Front Effect

The Wade is the straight front corset. It can be worn as tight as desired across the abdomen without the slightest discomfort, because the elastic permits free movement of the diaphragm and full, deep breathing. This latter feature makes the Wade especially popular with vocalists.

The Parisian and Princess

Are two of the latest Wade models. They have the long-hip effect and are both designed to bring out the best lines in the modish Princess costume now so much in vogue.

Wade Golf Girdles and Skinner and Marlowe Models

In light weight materials, lined or unlined, are particularly suited for summer wear.

The Sembrich, Dowager and Abdominal Models

Are especially designed to reduce or overcome any tendency to excessive embonpoint. The ease and success with which they achieve this object is a revelation and delight to the wearer.

The New Spring Patterns

We invite your inspection of our new spring samples, which include taffetas, light weight brocades, silk batistes, coutils, etc., lined or unlined, in all the prevailing shades and a variety of beautiful designs.

The Wade Medical Special

The Wade medical special corset is recommended and prescribed by the most eminent physicians in Pittsburgh for gastro-intestinal displacements, floating kidney or in any case where the abdominal organs require support. The corset can be worn tight enough to hold the organs in place with a firm, gentle pressure and yet permits free abdominal breathing and does not in any way restrict the movements of the body.
If desired, measurements and fittings for the Medical Special will be made at your home by appointment.

BUTTER QUOTATIONS CONTINUE UNCHANGED

Same Price Will Rule for This Week—Fancy Creamery Is Still Limited.

The rise which was predicted among the merchants to take place in all grades of butter did not materialize yesterday on the report from Elgin, and it is thought the supplies of fancy fresh creamery stock will soon grow heavier. The local supply is still limited, with a good demand, and the present high quotation is being easily sustained by the sales made. The undergrades, while not as firm as the top notch ones, are easily bringing the prices quoted and a much stronger market is predicted for the coming week. The local market is considered better than New York.

The clover seed market, a few days ago reported as being exceptionally strong, has taken a few points and a change in the quotations for both recleaned red clover and No. 1 Alsike was noted yesterday. It was not thought these prices would change until after the early spring rush.

Along with the weak feeling in wheat flour, buckwheat flour has also taken a drop, and a change in the quotations was given out yesterday. The wheat flour market is not in much better condition than it was the latter part of last week. This being caused by the unsettled condition of the wheat market itself. There was no changes of note in the produce market yesterday. Trade opend rather dull for the first of the week, and not many large sales were made. The market continues to rule strong for both celery and apples. The receipts of the latter are not heavy and the demand is strong.

There is not much change in the general egg market. Storage goods continue an unimportant factor in the market and heavy receipts of fresh gathered stock are reported. Large supplies are being brought in on the packets, and the merchants who do business at the wharfboats were obtaining a much better price than those of the street for fresh stock.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts.

Receipts bulletined yesterday were: Pennsylvania line, 25 cars hay, 22 cars oats, 3 cars straw, 8 cars feed, 3 cars corn, 3 cars rye; Baltimore & Ohio railroad, 3 cars hay, 3 cars oats, 1 car straw; Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, 8 cars hay, 3 cars corn, 2 cars oats.

Market was firmer and more active yesterday than for some time. The receipts were not heavy and as the trucks were cleaned up buyers were in shape to take hold of arrivals, which were soon placed at top prices. A good demand is predicted for some time to come.

SENTIMENT BULLISH IN WHEAT MARKET

Foreign News and Increase in World's Shipments Has a Strengthening Effect.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, March 12.—Sentiment in the wheat pit was bullish all day. At the opening the market was affected by higher prices at Liverpool due chiefly to a decrease in the total movement in wheat during the last week. According to official statistics the world's shipments for the week were 9,985,000 bushels, compared with 11,240,000 bushels for the corresponding week last year. Opening quotations on May were up ¾@⅞c at 77¼@77⅝c. During the first half of the session shorts were the principal bidders. A slight reaction, based on reports of heavy snow in Nebraska, sent May down to 77¼@77⅝c. Prices, however, soon rallied and on a sharp upturn during which several prominent commission houses bought freely, the price of May advanced to 78⅜c. A factor favoring higher prices late in the day was a much smaller increase in the visible supply than had been expected, it being 416,000 bushels, against a decrease of 474,000 bushels last year. A slight setback occurred during the last half hour because of profit-taking, but the close was strong with May at 78¼@78⅜c. July ranged between 77⅝@78¼c and closed with a gain of ⅜c, at 78⅜c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 261,000 bushels. The amount on ocean passage increased 680,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 685,000 bushels, against 667,000 bushels one year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 573 cars, against 531 cars last week and 518 cars one year ago.

Despite cold weather throughout the middle west, sentiment in the corn pit was bullish, chiefly because of the strength of wheat and firm cables. The demand was of a good character for the greater part of the day, but offerings were light. A break in oats had a weakening effect about the middle of the session, but a firm feeling developed later. The close was firm. May opened ⅛c to ¼@¼c higher at 43@43⅛c to 43¼c, sold between 43¼c and 43¼@43¼c and closed at 43½c. Local receipts were 155 cars, with two of contract grade.

The bears made a raid on the May option in oats and forced the price down nearly one cent. The decline was commenced by the heavy selling of several prominent bears, which resulted in bringing out many stop-loss orders. Commission houses were the principal buyers. The close was weak. May opened ⅛@¼c higher at 29¾@29⅞c to 29⅝c, sold off to 29⅜c and closed at 29¼@29¼c. Local receipts were 113 cars. Provisions were quiet and steady. A decline of 5c in the price of live hogs restricted buying somewhat. At the close May pork was off a shade at $15 66@15 67½. Lard was down 2½@c at $7 75. Ribs were down 2½c at $8 20@8 22½. Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 9 cars; corn, 218 cars; oats, 194 cars; hogs, 23,000 head.

A Woman's Gratitude

"For more than a year I had been a sufferer, completely broken down. I had not slept but two or three hours any night for weeks. I had such awful misery in my head, and oh, I was so irritable. I could not depend upon my judgement, and my memory was failing. I realized that I was losing my mind, and I thought the grave, or worse, the asylum, would be my doom. My doctor said my case was beyond the reach of medicine. I went to a druggist and told him my condition. He recommended Dr. Miles' Nervine; he was pretty sure it would help me, so I bought a bottle. That night I took a table spoonful, and fell asleep in a few minutes, the first rest I had in weeks, and oh, I will never forget that sweet sleep while I live. I have continued taking it, and sleep like a baby, and gain rapidly."

MRS. VIOLA BARKER,
Orange, Texas.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

Smelters in the Bisbee camp turned out 11,988,000 pounds of copper in February, a decrease of 675,000 pounds compared with January.

The Calumet & Arizona is putting up its fifth stack and most of the material for the work is on hand, so that completion is a mere matter of labor. The company is erecting a large trestle for the feed floor of the furnace, instead of using the elevators from the bin floors, as in the past, and this trestle will cut costs and increase efficiency.

The Iron Cap Company, which owns claims adjoining the Old Dominion and Hoveland-Smith groups at Globe, Ariz., is to resume work after a long cessation. There is a shaft 130 feet deep, and this is to be extended to 500 and equipped for rapid work. The company has some $50,000 available for its operations. There is great interest in the Globe camp, and the whole field there is looking far better than at any time in the past, with the developments that have been made at the Old Dominion.

The Advance Development & Mining Company has been organized to take over the Erickson claims, three miles from Bisbee, over the main divide. There is a 50-foot shaft and this is to be sunk deeper. The property shows copper and gold.

A large amount of machinery is to be added to the smelter at Humboldt, and the capacity of the plant will be much increased. A big lead smelter will be added to the plant, and the concentrator will be more than doubled in size and capacity. The plant will be equipped with electricity for all purposes, and when the work is completed will be one of the most up-to-date in the southwest.

The Cananea and Duluth Mining Company, which has a small property in the Green limits at Cananea, has fixed its titles and is ready to go ahead with development. Word comes from Duluth, where the company is owned, that a force will be put on shortly and the shaft will be sunk as far as necessary. The ground shows copper and there is every indication that it extends in depth.

No fear is expressed among those who have looked over the situation with regard to the titles of the Black Mountain Mining Company, or that the claimants who are now trying to get possession of a part of the mine will succeed. There does not appear to be any valid ground for their claim, and it is generally regarded as a petty blackmail scheme. Even if they succeed they can get but a corner of the vein, and that for not more than 400 or five feet in length. The Black Mountain Company has its titles direct from the Mexican government, and when companies have such foundation it is almost impossible to shake them loose.

EDWIN BINDLEY'S FUNERAL.

Well Known Financier Who Died After Brief Illness Will be Buried Today.

The funeral of Edwin Bindley, who died last Saturday after a brief illness with pneumonia, takes place from his late residence, Fifth and Aiken avenues, at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. Bindley was born in the First ward March 10, 1842. A short time after the family removed to the Sixth ward, where his father, the late John C. Bindley, was for many years a prominent contractor. Mr. Bindley attended the Sixth ward public schools and finished his education in Professor Smith's academy, after which he became associated with his father. By reason of strict and energetic attention to his duties he soon acquired a thorough and practical knowledge of the business, and while still a very young man bought his father's interest and was so successful that in 1862 he had acquired a handsome competency, which enabled him to retire from active business. Although at times he employed large numbers of workmen, his treatmen of them was such that he never encountered the slightest controversy with them, but enjoyed their full confidence, and he confided in them.

While engaged as a contractor Mr. Bindley represented the Sixth ward in councils and took an active interest in its deliberations. He never allied himself with any faction, but exercised his best judgment in all public questions, and up until the time of his death was intensely interested in all matters pertaining to the welfare and prosperity of this community. After retiring from the contracting business, he devoted some three years to extensive travel, visiting Europe and the continent, as well as the leading points of interest in this country. After returning home he became interested in a number of enterprises.

For many years Mr. Bindley was president of the Duquesne National bank, and its success can be largely attributed to his personal influence, because he possessed on account of his known integrity and strictly honorable methods the high regard and esteem of all those with whom he came in contact. His word was as good as his bond. In the late seventies he became associated with his brother, John, in the Bindley Hardware Company, and has been its vice president since its incorporation in 1890. While not taking an active part in the conduct of the business, his personality was always a factor in the company.

Upon the organization of the Pittsburgh Steel Hoop Company in 1899 Mr. Bindley became its president, and later when the enterprise was merged into the Pittsburgh Steel Company he became vice president of the latter corporation and devoted considerable time to its affairs. He took pride in the knowledge that his means assisted the employment of an army of men and that it contributed to the support of them and their families. Mr. Bindley was also president of the Neely Nut and Bolt Company of the South Side and kept in touch with its business.

Many years since he succeeded his father as a trustee of the Dollar Savings bank, and has been for some time a vice president of that institution. He was financially interested in many other institutions and aided materially in building up this great industrial center.

In 1884 Mr. Bindley married Mary, daughter of the late John Musgrave, who survives him. His domestic life was exemplary. He delighted in his home and found thorough happiness there. He is survived also by two daughters, Mrs. Zabina Johnston and Mrs. Mary B. McMillan, and two brothers, John and Josiah Bindley, of the Bindley Hardware Company.

He was a prominent member of Calvary Episcopal church, and in an unostentatious way contributed much to charity and many benefactories could so testify. Mr. Bindley was a member of the Duquesne, Union, Country and Bellefield clubs.

The Beer that makes no man Bilious

"Makes me bilious" is said of green beer—not of Schlitz. Schlitz beer cannot cause biliousness. The process of fermentation is completed in our brewery—not in your stomach.

We store Schlitz beer for months in glass enameled steel tanks while it ages and ripens. When it reaches you it has gained the goodness and flavor of age.

That is an apparent virtue. But the chief distinction of Schlitz is its purity—a virtue that you can't see. Yet the cost of that purity exceeds all other costs of our brewing.

Ask for the Brewery Bottling.
Common beer is sometimes substituted for Schlitz.

NEW YORK, March 12.—(Special.)—The New Jersey Terminal, Dock and Improvement Company, in which James H. Willock and other prominent Pittsburghers, together with J. Pierpont Morgan and Cornelius Vanderbilt, are largely interested, has sold part of the 7,000 acres of land which they are developing between the Hackensack and Passaic rivers and Newark bay, to Clavin Tompkins of New York city, who is to construct large piaster and other building material plants thereon. One thousand feet of frontage on the Passaic river is included in the transaction.

The buildings to be erected will utilize upward of 20 acres. The price paid for the land is about $5,000 an acre.

Negotiations are under way with a view to the building of other big manufacturing plants, including steel mills, on the property.

NEW YORK STOCKS CLOSED IRREGULAR

Good Effect of Gold Imports More Than Offset by Fears of a Coal Strike—Crucible Steel and Tonopah Extension Advanced.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The New York stock market yesterday was dull and irregular. The total sales for the day were only 741,000 shares, and the majority of stocks closed lower than on Saturday. The net changes, however, were not important, and the character of the trading was what is described as professional.

The early announcement that $1,250,000 gold had been engaged in London for shipment to New York, and that as much more was likely to be obtained before the end of the week, was absolutely without effect in stimulating the stock market. The news was more than neutralized by fears of a coal strike, based upon the answer made by the anthracite operators to the miners. The persistent and heavy selling of Reading and the weakness which appeared in some of the other coalers seemed to reflect public sentiment regarding the probability of a strike of the anthracite miners. The impression prevails that, owing to the large accumulation of hard coal, the operators would not be averse to a strike and there have been no intimations that in any event there would be a curtailment of production during the spring months.

Reading was the weakest stock in the list, selling off from 129⅜ to 125½, and closing at 126½, a net loss for the day of 3 per cent. Ontario & Western closed 1½ lower. Pennsylvania & Erie, both of which would be affected by a strike, each closed only ⅝ lower, and Baltimore & Ohio only ¼ lower.

The high-grade railroad stocks were moderately active, but were apparently without support. Great Northern preferred closed 2 and Northern Pacific 1 per cent lower. Among the grangers Atchison & St. Paul scored the largest losses. Southern railway was one of the few strong features of the market and closed fractionally higher.

American Smelting was one of the strongest of the industrials, and just before the close made a strong rally to 160, closing with a net advance of 2⅜ per cent. National Lead closed 1⅝ higher. Consolidated Gas was also firm, at one time advancing to 155, but it later reacted and closed at 153. Brooklyn Rapid Transit was also active and strong, closing ⅜ higher. Among the low-priced specialties American Cotton Oil and Central Leather were active and firm, the last named closing at a net advance of 1⅝ per cent.

United States Steel common and preferred each closed ⅝ lower and Colorado Fuel & Iron ⅞ lower. The decline in United States Steel was probably in sympathy with the weakness in the coal-carrying roads, assuming that the latter were influenced by prospects of a coal strike. The Steel Corporation, however, would probably be affected to a smaller degree, relatively, than other large consumers of fuel. For one thing a large part of its needs is supplied by natural gas, of which the company is its own producer. Another part is supplied from its own coke ovens, which would not be affected by a strike in the bituminous district. Yet another source of supply is the company's own mines. While this is true, it is also true that consumers of the Steel Corporation might be inconvenienced by a strike.

The tone of the money market was easier, call loans ranging between 4 and 5 per cent. Time loans were easier, but there were no changes in rates. However, now that gold imports have begun, the money market will have the benefit of sentimental as well as actual relief.

The active stocks in the local market were Crucible Steel and Tonopah Extension, and both closed higher. Tonopah Extension opened strong and higher and advanced, to 13¾, a new high price on the Pittsburgh exchange. There was heavy profit taking on the advance, which caused a sharp reaction, but in the final dealings there was a recovery to 13⅝, a net gain of 2⅛ points for the day. It was thought that a considerable part of the buying was for New York account, and was based upon the personal reports brought back by members of the Schwab party who returned last Saturday from an inspection of the Schwab properties. Ohio Tonopah was fairly active at 50c to 51c, closing unchanged for the day. United Copper rallied to and closed at 70, a net advance of 2⅞ per cent. Lustre Mining sold unchanged at 30.

Crucible Steel common was moderately active within a range of 15 to 15¼, closing ⅜ below Saturday. The preferred on sales of 1,530 shares advanced to 80½ and closed at 80¾, a net gain of ¼ per cent. The directors are scheduled to meet today to take action on the quarterly dividend on the preferred stock, and there is some expectation that the rate will be increased over that paid last December. United States Steel common sold to the extent of 1,000 shares at 40½, closing with a net decline of ½ per cent. Pittsburgh Brewing common was active and strong, advancing to 29⅜ and closing at 29½. The preferred sold unchanged at par. Standard Underground Cable sold at 220, an advance of 6 per cent over the last previous sale. The Westinghouse issues were extremely dull, but steady. National Fire Proofing preferred was slightly higher. The rest of the list was dull and unchanged.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Wall street was naturally disappointed over the failure of the stock market to respond to the first engagement of gold for import. The prompt marking up of the price of gold in London a halfpenny on an ounce and a rise of a fraction in the discount rate in London marks the quick measures of protection of that market against further taking for New York account. With a further prospective requirement for currency by the domestic interior the money prospect was considered not altogether clear. In spite of the evidence that the contraction of credits had ceased to force any liquidation upon the stock market, New York exchange at Chicago also rose to 5 cents premium, contrasted with 25 cents discount early last week. The sub-treasury starts the week with a contribution of nearly $700,000 to the banks and the monthly tide of pension payments is now rising to its maximum. The sub-treasury, however, was a creditor at the clearing house yesterday.

The market for Tonopah Extension was broader than suspected, in that it absorbed more than 6,000 shares at prices ranging from 11¾ to 13⅝, the latter being the record price on the local exchange. A large part of the buying was thought to be for New York. It was recalled that one of the members of the Schwab party of inspection is a member of a prominent New York stock exchange house, and the Pittsburgh correspondents of this house were among the largest buyers in this market.

Pittsburgh Brewing common at 29⅝ reached the highest price since January last year. At this price the stock pays about 8½ per cent. No news accompanied the advance. For months past brokers have felt friendly toward the stock, but were deterred from advising purchases because of the impression that a considerable amount of the stock was likely to be forced upon the market by incidents wholly disconnected with the affairs of the company. In January more than 10,000 shares changed hands on the exchange, and since then about 8,000 shares have been dealt in. The floating supply now seems small, and the market responds more readily to a moderate amount of buying. The preferred held steady at par.

Not a single share of the coal stocks changed hands on the Pittsburgh exchange yesterday, and prices were nominally unchanged. The liquidation in this group has evidently been complete, and, strike or no strike, the effect upon the market is not likely to be important.

National Fire Proofing common sold at 8⅝, an advance of ½ over the last previous sale. There were no transactions in the preferred stock. The annual meeting, which will also consider the bond proposition, will be held April 5, but it is said the annual report will be sent to stockholders a week from today. The contents of this report are probably known to insiders, but the market has given no sign that the information has reached the street.

Standard Underground Cable sold at 220, an advance of 6 points over the last previous sale, and the highest price quoted since 1902. This is one of the strongest industrials in the country.

Sales of North Butte on the Boston exchange yesterday were 1,620 shares.

Robinson Bros. and Scully, Painter & Beech were the largest buyers of Tonopah Extension on the advance. Sproul & Co. were large sellers, and Morris, Brown & Co. operated on both sides of the market.

At the meeting of the directors of the Pittsburgh stock exchange yesterday final action was not taken on the applications for the listing of various securities.

It is understood that the investigation of J. P. Morgan & Co. into the affairs of the Public Service Corporation properties has been satisfactory, and that the details of the proposed reorganization of the company will now be speedily arranged. It is said that the reorganization contemplates the exchange of the Public Service Corporation certificates for a 4 per cent bond at 80.

The Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron Company declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on its preferred stock and the regular semi-annual dividend of 2½ per cent on its common stock, payable April 2.

The Pittsburgh Consolidated Mining, Milling and Tunneling Company, of which W. M. Laird is president, has applied to list its $3,000,000 capital stock on the Pittsburgh stock exchange. Mr. Laird says that the Dover and Brighton mines, which are located near Idaho Springs, Col., are now shipping 20 tons of ore per day, which will later be increased to 100 tons of ore per day. All but $100,000 of the stock is issued.

Gross earnings of Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh for the first week in March increased $11,444.

Net earnings of the Sloss-Sheffield Company for the February quarter were $439,887, an increase of $76,683.

Gross earnings of Canadian Pacific for the first week in March increased $246,000.

Gross earnings of Missouri Pacific for the first week in March increased $14,000.

Gross earnings of Northern Pacific for February were $3,931,602, an increase of $780,406.

A very striking exhibit of the extent to which investment in speculative stocks has been carried, even by so-called conservative men, appears in the showing made by the estate of the late Charles H. Houseman, cashier of the Columbus (O.) East End Savings bank. The probate court has ordered 94,781 shares of stock in 27 different gold mining companies, bought by Houseman, to be sold for $400.

The Homestake Mining Company has declared the regular monthly dividend of 50 cents, payable March 26.

Gross earnings of Wabash for the first week in March increased $72,511.

American Sewer Pipe directors meet March 20 to declare the quarterly dividend, which is payable April 1. No increase from the regular ¾ of 1 per cent distribution is looked for.

The gross earnings of Norfolk & Western for seven months ended with January were $2,581,793 larger than in the same period in the previous year, and net earnings gained $1,108,705. The increase in surplus since the beginning of the current fiscal year is $874,883, or equivalent to 1-3 per cent on common stock.

This week's Boston bank statement shows a decrease in loans of $2,424,000 and an increase in reserve of $914,714.

This week's Philadelphia bank statement shows a decrease in loans of $755,000, a decrease of $4,153,000 in reserve and a decrease in surplus of $2,689,500.

While a majority of the traders ascribed the irregularity and weakness in the market to fears of a coal strike, the Wall street correspondent of Henry Sproul & Co. took an opposite view in the following message: "It may be said that the refusal of the operators to consider the demands favorably had no effect whatever. It must be remembered that Reading is in a peculiar position. It has been the play of pools for a year, and some one must of necessity have been hurt in the stock. It goes without saying that, at its present dividend rate, Reading even now is selling at a very high figure. There are big prospects, of course, but at 170 the stock has discounted a big amount of present and prospective prosperity. The situation is plain. Reading was advanced by pool manipulation, and possibly the depression began by the pools, but, in all events, the stock is not one that should be taken as a test of the market. No great hurt can come to the market from a coal strike, for the operators have made provision to meet it. It seems absurd to suppose that the great aggregations of capital which have done so much to propagate the industries will be placed in a defensive position."

The directors of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company have declared a regular quarterly dividend of $1 50 per shares, payable April 16 to stock of record March 16.

The report of the committee of bankers, recently appointed by the Philadelphia Clearing House association to confer with trust companies upon the question of clearing the latters' checks, says in part: "From time to time mushroom companies are started which create dangers because of unsound competition with the older companies, and the banks give such enterprises a factitious credit by accepting their checks without even the precautions that they insist upon as to each other. The committee's suggestion is that each trust company shall make a deposit of securities with the clearing house, as is required of each bank member of the Clearing House association, for the protection of both the banks and the trust companies. By a small deposit of securities, involving no expense, sound and established institutions will thus have some check upon, instead of giving false and unwarranted credit to, dangerous concerns, and in case of disaster will be protected. The fairness and wisdom of this course is so apparent that the committee is prepared to recommend to the clearing house only to accept trust company checks upon this condition, but it would be much more satisfactory to know that you were co-operating with us in our efforts to strengthen the general banking situation of our city, and we therefore make this preliminary inquiry of you."

The stock and Bonds of the West Penn Railways Company were yesterday listed on the Pittsburgh stock exchange. There has been considerable demand for these securities. The property is continually enhancing its value—each month of the past year indicating an increase in earnings over the previous month. The earnings for January, 1906, show a gain of about 30 per cent over the earnings of the corresponding month of 1905. The management is in most excellent hands, and the steady increase in earnings is expected to continue, as the territory through which the road traverses is building up quite rapidly.

PROFESSIONAL TRADERS WORKING FOR REACTION

Strength and Substantial Advances in Specialties Including Smelting and National Lead.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, March 12.—The Herald this (Tuesday) morning says:

Stocks yesterday were highly irregular. The general list closed with a decided reactionary tendency, influenced by resumption of liquidation in Reading, and in Consolidated Gas stock and convertible bonds. This, however, did not prevent decided strength and substantial advances in some of the specialties of the list, including American Smelting, National Lead and Central Leather. Business shows again a decided contraction, and aside from the slight traces of liquidation already referred to, is almost entirely professional. Signs were not wanting that the professional trading element, which turned somewhat bullish after the heavy break of Monday a week ago, was shifting their position, and working again for reactions. Speculative sentiment, while mixed, was bearishly inclined, so far as the leaders were concerned, while the rank and file in the market was depressed by the declines in the best issues.

News was mixed during the day, but the adverse features, particularly as they were backed up by a resumption of selling and market declines seemed rather to outweigh the favorable factors, so far as market influence was concerned. Excellent railway traffic reports came to hand and the traffic movement at Chicago lost none of its optimistic character. Announcement was made of an initial import of $1,250,000 in gold, and money showed an easier tendency. These features were neutralized, however, by the selling pressure in Reading, brought out by the report that an anthracite coal strike was possible, and by the selling, even more influential, of Consolidated Gas securities for reasons well known.

The various supreme court decisions, two at least of which were directly against the industrial trusts, were regarded of importance and had a depressing effect. But the resumption of selling pressure in some leading stocks really seemed to be the chief market influence.

REPORT OF BERLIN BANKS.

During 1905 the Stock Institutions Distributed Nearly $24,000,000 in Dividends.

BERLIN, March 12.—The annual report of the greatest joint stock banks in Berlin, which have just been published, reflect the activity in German trade and industry in the year 1905. Nine of the principal banks, excluding the reichsbank, with an aggregate capital of $277,000,000, distribute nearly $24,000,000 in dividends, being an increase of over $4,000,000 as compared with the preceding year. All departments of banking activity exhibit largely increased figures. The current liabilities amounted to $951,500,000, an increase of $156,000,000. The liquid assets aggregated $589,000,000, an increase of $84,000,000; cash on hand, $196,000,000, a decrease of $6,500,000.

The pressure upon the resources of banks attracts comment and is explained as being partly due to the heavy movement in foreign trade anticipating the new tariff.

Coffee and Sugar.

NEW YORK, March 12.—The market for coffee futures opened steady at unchanged prices in line with featureless cables, but soon eased off under a renewal of local liquidation, promoted by reports that the scheme of the Brazilian government for advancing prices had been temporarily abandoned. The market ruled rather easy during the middle session at a net decline of 5@10 points, but rallied toward the close on buying for European account, which was believed to be covering of shorts. The final tone was steady, with prices not unchanged to 5 points lower. We have a showing on the BLACKBIRD indicating the discovery of one of Goldfield's largest mines on the property. Ore running from $16.00 up to $64.00—in other words, a profitable milling grade of ore has already been opened up.

However surprising the statement may sound, it is an actual fact that the veins of the following great mines point directly into, and if they continue in a straight line, will enter the BLACKBIRD property.

PROSPECTUS OF A COPPER WONDER.

The Winona Copper Company controls a mountain 3,800 feet high, containing numerous large veins, carrying 14% to 56% copper, and enough gold and silver values to more than pay for mining and smelting expenses. It is surrounded by excellent natural advantages for economical mining, the work being exclusively by tunnels and on the gravity plan. This obviates the installation and maintenance of expensive hoisting and pumping machinery.

The company has an abundance of timber on the property, besides owning good mill and smelting sites. In addition there is ample water power, with enough fall to generate all the electric power required. It is therefore possible for us to produce copper at a smaller expense than any other mine now opened of which we have any knowledge, and hence can make marketable a very low grade of

PLAN TO SHORTEN ROUTE 60 MILES

N. Y. C. Lines to Reduce Distance—P. R. R. Is Said to Want Cecil Alley Widened.

"L" ROAD GOES INTO SERVICE

A reduction of 60 miles between New York and Chicago is said to be the aim of the New York Central lines in building the Franklin-Clearfield link. The distance covered by the Twentieth Century limited now is practically 960 miles. The distance by way of the new route would be about 920 miles or 10 miles longer than the Pennsylvania's New York-Chicago route, but of lower grade.

The direct aim of the New York Central in constructing the Franklin-Clearfield line is to give a western and lake outlet for the Beech Creek coal field. In retaliation for this it is said that the Pennsylvania intends to construct the cut-off from Red Bank, on the Low Grade division of the Buffalo & Allegheny Valley, to a point near Enon, on the Ft. Wayne route, and also to construct a short line directly to the Low Grade division from the Beech creek district.

Charles F. Heidrick, president of the Pittsburgh, Summerville & Clarion railroad, of Clarion, who was here yesterday conferring with local railroad men, said that the proposed short line of the New York Central is the subject of considerable interest in Franklin, Brookville, Clarion and Clearfield. He says there is also some talk of the Pennsylvania securing a shorter and lower grade line than it has now through Pittsburgh and Altoona, by having the fast through trains operate over the proposed Enon cut-off and eastward over the Buffalo & Allegheny Valley's Low Grade division and then over the Philadelphia & Erie road. While this route under the present mileage would be longer than the main line route through Pittsburgh, it would be of much better grade for the entire distance and would allow faster running.

Mr. Heidrick says that the construction of the Lake Shore's new line is progressing rapidly. It will strike about five miles south of Clarion, and will probably connect with the Pittsburgh, Summerville & Clarion road for traffic from Clarion and its vicinity. The Clarion road now has 32 miles under operation and is busy with traffic.

P. R. R. in Cecil Alley?

It was reported yesterday that the Pennsylvania railroad is to present an ordinance in Pittsburgh councils to have the lower end of Cecil alley widened so that an elevated line can be built from the Duquesne elevated line in Duquesne way to the Jenkins warehouse in Penn and Liberty avenues. The report probably arises from the agitation to have the Pennsylvania take its tracks from Liberty avenue. One of the big houses that will be hit hard by such removal will be the Jenkins warehouse, and the Pennsylvania is said to have thought of the line in Cecil alley so as to retain the Jenkins warehouse, and at the same time afford direct service to the Horne and McElveen stores abutting in Cecil alley. In order not to make the elevated line a nuisance, it is said that it would be entirely covered or housed in.

Officers of the railroad professed to know nothing of the proposition and no confirmation could be secured in any quarter. Cecil alley from Liberty to Penn avenue is to be eventually widened 30 feet. It was intimated that the alley might be widened the remaining square from Penn avenue to Duquesne way, but with this intimation nothing was said about the possibility of the Pennsylvania using the alley.

Elevated in Service This Morning.

Announcement was made yesterday by Superintendent Long of the Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania that the Duquesne way elevated line would be placed in service as a part of that division at 7 o'clock this morning. This opening brings a slight change in the freight of the Pittsburgh division and also in the Ft. Wayne route. The Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania railroad is extended from Eleventh street to a division post at Duquesne way.

The placing of this line in service is taken to mean that the Pennsylvania will soon be in shape to handle freight at the new warehouses at the point. The outbound warehouse will be ready for service probably by April 15, while it is expected that the inbound house can be used by May 15. Neither of these buildings will be completed by those dates, but conditions will be such that freight can be handled. It is expected that the Liberty avenue tracks will be removed about May 15.

Bad Wreck Averted on B. & O.

Passengers and the crew of the Pittsburgh express train No. 9, on the Baltimore & Ohio, were miraculously saved from a repetition of the Laurel Run wreck yesterday morning at Smithton, 38 miles east of Pittsburgh. The engine became derailed in some manner and plunged into an embankment instead of into the river on the other side. The express car was thrown from the track and all the passengers were given a severe jolting. Engineman Frank Cunningham of Hazlewood and Fireman Harry Kirkland of Boston were severely injured. Traffic was blocked for a couple of hours, the train arriving in Pittsburgh shortly after 11 o'clock. Kirkland was taken to the McKeesport hospital and Cunningham to his home, after having had his injuries dressed at a Connellsville hospital.

Passenger Committee to Meet.

Chairman Frank Van Dusen of the Pittsburgh Passenger committee, has called a special meeting of the committee at the Hotel Duquesne today to take up for final settlement rates to the pleasure resorts of the Pittsburgh district. The rates apply more particularly to Chautauqua, Conneaut lake, North East and other points in that district, where competition is the keenest. The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie's cut of rates to the Chautauqua lake district last year, with the subsequent reduction of rates by the Bessemer & Lake Erie and Pennsylvania roads, will probably not be duplicated this year. One of the passenger men said yesterday that he looked for an amicable adjustment.

Traffic Men Open Eyes and Wonder.

There has been no subject since the announcement of President Roosevelt that there should be legislation regarding rates, that has occupied the attention of freight traffic men all over the country more than the report of the interstate commerce hearing at Cincinnati last Saturday. General Freight Agent Incalls, of the Big Four, is reported as having admitted that shippers were given rebates. One of these concerned, he is quoted as saying, a shipment of steel from Pittsburgh to Kansas City. Local traffic men were all questions yesterday. An effort was made to find who the shipper was, but to no avail.

Railroad Notes.

J. F. Floesch, chief engineer of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh, left for Rochester yesterday after having spent Sunday with relatives in Pittsburgh.

With few exceptions the heavy fall of snow Sunday afternoon and night had little effect on the railroad operations. On the Pennsylvania the telegraph wires were down at two points for a short time, but repairs were soon made. The snow did not seriously delay passenger trains, but it necessitated the lightening of freight trains.

Charles E. Gott, claim clerk in the office of Freight Agent Colligan of the Baltimore & Ohio, in Allegheny, has resigned to accept a position in the claim department of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie. He is succeeded by L. W. Campbell. Walter S. Dope, also a clerk in Mr. Colligan's office, resigned to accept a position with the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company. J. A. Charles has been appointed to a clerkship in the office.

Taking advantage of a small wreck, a gang of seven men is reported to have played a genuine wild west holdup game in the Pine creek yards of the West Penn between Pine creek and Millvale late Saturday night. Yardmaster Burns, Engineman Moore and Car Inspector Charles Walker were among the railroad men attacked by the robbers. Moore losing his watch, Burns losing nothing and Walker giving the men a scare by flashing a revolver.

WILKINSBURG'S NEW BURGESS WANTS THE TOWN UNSULLIED

Because Wilkinsburg has on divers occasions been referred to as "The Holy City," Burgess Arthur Stewart, at his first police court hearing yesterday morning gave Luther Howard, a negro, to understand that the reputation of the place should be kept unsullied. Howard was charged with disorderly conduct and was given the option of paying $10 and costs or going to the workhouse for 60 days. Burgess Stewart announced there will be no more Sunday hearings and also issued orders that residents of the place must keep the sidewalks free from snow. He set a good example by putting an extra force of men at work on the streets.

Will Organize Branch of Bible League.

Steps were taken yesterday toward the organization in this city of a branch of the American Bible league. A number of clergymen interested in the project met in the Young Men's Christian association rooms and drafted a constitution. This will be submitted to the national association in New York, and in the event of its acceptance, another meeting will be held next Monday, when a permanent organization will be effected and officers elected.

Fire Engine Collides With Rig.

The explosion of a lamp in an incubator in the cellar of the home of Edward Geis, 123 South Thirteenth street, at 11:30 yesterday morning, caused about $500 damage. While No. 12 engine company was responding to the alarm it collided with the horse and wagin of Morris Firman, 25 Barnard alley. Firman's horse was knocked down, but Firman was uninjured.

Carter Oil Company Gets Good Producer for the Big Injun

In the Big Injun development, on Sugar creek, in Meade district, Tyler county, the Carter Oil Company has drilled its No. 9 on the W. J. Snodgrass farm into the second pay and has the best producer that has been found in that district for many months. The well was drilled into the first pay early last week, and on Saturday evening it was drilled deeper and a second pay encountered and the production increased from 100 barrels a day to 40 barrels an hour. It did not hold up at that rate for any considerable time and yesterday morning was down to 10 barrels an hour. The location of this well is inside of defined limits and is not important, except as to its size as a producer. In the Big Lime district, near Milton, Cabell county, the Fought Oil Company's second test on the Sarah Roberts farm, located south of the old pool, is not proving much of a stayer. The well produced 100 barrels a day the first two days after it was drilled into the pay, but yesterday morning had declined to 40 barrels a day. The sudden decline makes the outlook for an extension less promising than when the well was first drilled into the pay.

On the South Fork of Hughes river, Grant district, Ritchie county, R. C. Gillespie has drilled his second test on the William L. Heck farm into the salt sand and has developed a very good gasser. When tested the well showed a capacity of 2,250,000 cubic feet a day. It will not be drilled deeper at this time. The location of this test is 2,000 feet southeast of the dry hole completed last week on the B. F. Null farm. On Sugar run, Center district, Wetzel county, the Venture Oil Company has drilled its test on the T. J. Hudson farm through the Gordon and has a duster. It is now drilling to the fifth sand. On Lewellyn creek, Mannington district, Marion county, the Burt Oil Company is due in the sand at No. 4 on the Daniel Varner farm. On States Fork, in the same district, the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Oil and Gas Company is drilling No. 2 on the A. M. Round farm and the Fisher Oil Company has the rig completed for a test on the Henry Baker farm and has made the location for No. 2 on the same farm.

On Point Pleasant creek, in Ellsworth district, Tyler county, the Lincoln Oil Company has drilled its test on the M. L. Workman farm into the top of the Keener and it is flowing at the rate of 100 barrels a day. It is expected that it will increase its production when drilled deeper into the pay. This location is about 500 feet east of the Southern Oil Company's good producer on the R. A. Workman farm, drilled in two weeks ago, and still holding up at 325 barrels a day. In the Folsom district, Wetzel county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its No. 60 on the Genins Robinson tract 40 feet into the stray and has not found any oil or gas, except at about 25 feet in, where a light show of oil was encountered. In the Wallace district, in Harrison county, the same company has drilled its No. 3 on the M. P. Dye farm into the stray 25 feet, and has no show for a producer. On Sugar creek, Center district, J. E. Carnehan has drilled his No. 3 on the Catherine Hudson farm deeper and it made a 60-barrel flow. In the Smithfield district, Wetzel county, the South Penn Oil Company has given its No. 3 on the Matilda Gallagher farm a shot and its production for the ensuing 36 hours was 140 barrels.

On Cherry Camp run, Ten Mile district, Harrison county, the Invincible Oil Company has made the location and is building the rig for a test on the David Brake farm. On the same stream and in the same district Mellon & Co. have the rig completed for a test on the L. Hartman farm. On Middle Island creek, West Union district, Doddridge county, the Southern Oil Company is starting a test on the Joseph Chevront farm. In the same district, J. E. Trainer & Co. are building the rig for a test on the B. W. Carroll farm.

On the Ohio side, in the Woodsfield district, Monroe county, the Pure Oil Company has drilled its No. 5 on the Henry Schumaker farm through the Berea grit and has a show for a 20 or 25-barrel producer. In the same district, H. S. Shafer & Co. have completed their No. 4 on the Joseph Burkhart farm and have a 15 or 20-barrel producer. In the Macksburg field, Washington county, G. C. White has completed his second test on the George Matz farm and has a duster in the Buell Run sand. In the same district the Marshall Oil Company has completed its No. 8 on the Mary Marshall farm and has a show for a 5-barrel pumper in the same formation.

In the Georgetown district, Beaver county, Pa., John C. Ray has drilled his second test on the C. G. Mackall farm through the Berea grit and has given it a shot. It will make a very light pumper. In the same district the Calhoun Oil Company has completed its No. 3 on the J. M. Calhoun farm and has a 10-barrel pumper in the same formation. At New Galilee, in the same county, the Lightner Oil Company has completed No. 5 on the Thomas Purdy farm and has a very small pumper. In the Burgettstown district, Washington county, there will be several important wells located in advance of developments, due to get the sand this week.
